Goes To London

HARRY L. HOPKINS, above, former U.S. secretary of commerce, will go to London as President Roosevelt's personal representative until a permanent American ambassador has been appointed to Great Britain.

HOPKINS GOES TO LONDON AS F.R. EMISSARY

Former Commerce Chief To Maintain Contacts With Britain

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—(AP)—President Roosevelt disclosed today that he was sending Harry L. Hopkins, former secretary of commerce, to England shortly to be his personal representative until a new ambassador is selected.

The president told reporters he expected to send to the U.S. senate next week the nomination of an ambassador to succeed Joseph P. Kennedy, who has submitted his resignation.

Kennedy's resignation will not be accepted formally, Mr. Roosevelt said, until the new envoy has been approved.

Hopkins, he said, will have no official status, but merely will go to England to maintain the personal contacts with the British government. He expected Hopkins to leave for England soon and to remain perhaps two weeks.

Hopkins will not be the permanent ambassador, Mr. Roosevelt asserted, because his health is not sufficiently good to allow him to take over a desk job. It was because of his health that Hopkins resigned in August as commerce secretary.

Hopkins will have no title, Mr. Roosevelt said, but probably will receive his expenses from the government. No other person will accompany him.

Before entering the cabinet in December, 1938, Hopkins was works progress administration administrator and prior to that directed the civil works program and federal relief agency.

Queen Elizabeth Reaches Cape Town

LONDON, Jan. 3.—(CP)—It was officially disclosed tonight the 85,000-ton liner Queen Elizabeth had arrived at Cape Town, South Africa, from New York en route to an undisclosed destination.

200 MERCHANT SHIPS WILL BE BUILT BY U.S.

New Shipbuilding Yards Will Construct Huge Commerce Fleet

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—(AP)—President Roosevelt announced today that steps are being taken to begin building about 200 merchant vessels of about 7,500 tons each and costing $300,000,000 to $350,000,000.

Asked at a press conference whether the ship construction program would benefit Britain directly or indirectly, Mr. Roosevelt said he did not know.

He said he was allocating money from a special contract authorization fund, granted him by the United States, to permit work to get under way.

The vessels, he said, will be constructed in new shipbuilding yards and will be owned by the government.

As to whether the building of the vessels would make it possible to release existing commercial ships to Britain, to take up some of Britain's losses through submarine and air warfare, Mr. Roosevelt offered no definite answer.

The shipbuilding program will be in charge of the maritime commission, the president explained, and to start work on it, he has set aside $36,000,000 from his special fund. He indicated this allotment would be used for erecting shipyards.

How soon the program can get under way, the president was unable to say, but he said some ships ought to be ready for use within a year.

ITALO SUBMARINE SUNK BY TORPEDO OF BRITISH CRAFT

LONDON, Jan. 3.—(CP)—The sinking of an Italian submarine was credited by the admiralty today to the British submarine Thunderbolt, formerly the Thetis, which sank June 1, 1939, taking 99 men to death, but later was raised, reconditioned and renamed.

The Italian submarine was proceeding to a base "in enemy-occupied territory" under escort, the admiralty announcement said, when it was attacked by the Thunderbolt, commanded by Lieut. C. B. Crouch.

The Thunderbolt's commander, after firing his torpedo, "saw a tall column of water rise into the air from the Italian u-boat and a large explosion to occur, and when the smoke and spray cleared away only one end of the enemy vessel was seen sticking out of the water at a steep angle. This quickly disappeared."

BRITISH BOMB ITALIAN ARMY'S ELBASANI BASE

By BEN AMES

ATHENS, Jan. 3—(BUP)—British planes yesterday subjected the center of Elbasani, only 20 miles south of Tirana, capital of Albania, to a blasting attack as Greek troops moved on the major Italian headquarters there, official dispatches said today.

Royal Air Force headquarters in Athens said that the British raided Elbasani with high explosive and incendiary bombs and started three large fires. One fire raged in a large building. All British planes returned safely.

(British military headquarters in London reported new Greek gains on the Albanian front. It was said that in the central sector the Greeks were only 18 miles from Berat, on the road to Elbasani, and that on the coast they had scored a victory which put them in position to threaten Italian communications between the port of Valona and Tepelini.)

A Greek government spokesman in Athens said that Greek troops continued to gain in the Klisura sector of southeast Albania, capturing machine gun nests in the mountains and barbed wire entanglements covered by snowdrifts.

Troops Smash Way Through Sector Of Libyan Base Lines

London Believes Attack Is Beginning Of Final Assault To Clear Way For Further Operations

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Australian forces which penetrated the Bardia defences with the support of tanks have taken a number of prisoners in their attack on the Italian Libyan base, latest dispatches from the front reported today.

CAIRO, Jan. 3.—(CP)—Hardy Australian troops attacked the besieged Italian base of Bardia in Libya today and succeeded, with the aid of tanks, in penetrating the defences of the surrounded town.

No further details of the action were included in the communique. (But in London the attack was interpreted as the beginning of a final assault on the town to clear the way for more extensive operations deeper in Libyan territory.)

Previous dispatches have indicated that Australians and New Zealanders, showing the same aptitude for desert warfare as the Anzacs of 1914-18, are in the van in the British thrust into Italian Libya.

There are at least two divisions of Australians in the middle east under the command of Lt.-Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey, but whether all these troops are at the Libyan front is not known.

The Royal Air Force helped pave the way for the penetration of Bardia's defences by the Australians.

On the night of Wednesday-Thursday Bardia was repeatedly raided, a communique said, and "large fires were started among stores and buildings." The R.A.F. followed up with fresh raids yesterday, concentrating on motor transport west of Bardia.

LONDON, Jan. 3—(CP)—Military circles interpreted today's Cairo communique reporting a piercing of the Bardia defences as the first word of a "major attack" on the besieged Italian Libyan base.

Reports from the front yesterday said British mechanized forces had swept beyond Bardia to a point 75 miles from the Egyptian border, suggesting the possibility of a blow against Tobruk, the Italians' second big Libyan base, even before the fall of Bardia.

These reports said the British forces were in control of a segment of the road leading from Bardia to Tobruk, which is 80 miles from the Egyptian frontier.

With the British siege lines firmly established around beleaguered Bardia, there had been speculation the British forces might attempt to starve out the Italians there without risking a possible costly frontal attack.

These sources said everything

Sirois Report Adoption Would Assist Stability Commerce Chamber Told

Adoption of principles of the Sirois report on Dominion-provincial relations would give Alberta stability and security at a time when that may be needed to meet some difficult years that are before this province, J. E. Brownlee, K.C., said in an address at a luncheon meeting of the Chamber of Commerce in the Macdonald hotel, Friday.

While the province would sacrifice certain financial prerogatives, mostly of a variable nature, it would acquire new revenues in the form of national adjustment grants which would be stable and dependable and which would, over a long period, more than offset any taxation rights given up, the speaker said.

He declared that there was need for rewriting provincial debts at lower interest and, under the plan of the commission, holders of bonds would willingly accept this for the additional security they would attain.

GOOD FAITH

He felt that the Dominion government was acting in good faith in calling the conference of federal and provincial representatives and intended to implement the report. The Dominion, he believed, however, would not be prepared to take over such large burdens as unemployment relief and provincial debt except as part of a large scheme of revision of government financial structures.

Alberta, Mr. Brownlee contended, had more to gain than it had to lose in acceptance of one of the plans proposed by the royal commission.

WOMEN ATTEND

W. A. Thomson, president of the Chamber of Commerce, was chairman of the meeting, which also was attended by members of several women's organizations.

Approximately 250 attended the luncheon. Amongst those seated at the head table were His Honor Lieut.-Gov. John C. Bowen and Chief Justice Hon. Horace Harvey.

Following is the text of the address.

On the 14th of this month, representatives of the Dominion and the provincial governments will meet in conference at Ottawa—a conference that can potentially prove to be the most important of its kind since Confederation. For the subject matter of discussion will be the report of the Rowell Sirois Commission on Dominion - Provincial Relations, which was made public early this summer. The report merits the study of every Canadian particularly in view of the emergency which now confronts this country. For, while some may differ from some of the interpretations or arguments contained in the report, still it may be said with confidence that it will undoubtedly be regarded for a generation at least the most complete and comprehensive survey of our Canadian economy that has so far been made and its treatment of many constitutional problems may well be the basis of any intelligent consideration of those problems for many years.

When the report was first made public I must confess I was somewhat surprised at its essential and principal recommendation, that is that the Dominion should take over and assume responsibility for all provincial debts.

Somewhat similar proposals, although not as part of such a comprehensive plan, have been made from time to time over the past decade but they have never seemed to meet with much sympathy among Dominion officials even in peace time. I feared that with the tremendous financial obligations which must be undertaken by the Dominion in carrying on the present war, it was hardly probable that the federal government would undertake the additional burden of

NEW SHAKEUP ANNOUNCED IN VICHY CABINET

Darlan, Flandin, Huntziger Make Up New Inner Executive

VICHY, France, Jan. 3.—(UP)—Marshal Philippe Petain today formed a directorate of three men as an inner executive cabinet and announced the resignation of Paul Baudouin, minister for youth and propaganda.

Appointment of the directorate was expected but the resignation of Baudouin was a complete surprise.

A terse communique said:

"M. Baudouin, minister of state at the presidency of the council, has asked Marshal Petain to accept his resignation. Marshal Petain consented to that desire."

NOT NAZI PRESSURE

An explanatory statement was expected later.

Baudouin had been Petain's first foreign minister. Pierre Laval, the vice premier, succeeded him. Later Laval was dismissed from the cabinet. German-French negotiations on collaboration have been suspended since Laval's dismissal in mid-December.

As in the case of Laval, it was said that Baudouin's resignation had nothing to do with French-German relations. It was said also, of Baudouin, that his resignation was not a result of German pressure but was a part of a general reorganization of the French cabinet and especially the cabinet's method of functioning.

Darlan will be the man next in authority to Petain, as senior member of the directorate, but he will

WESTERN AIR EXPRESS GETS LETHBRIDGE RUN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3—(AP)—The United States Civil Aeronautics Board authorized Western Air Express, Incorporated, today to provide transportation service between Great Falls, Mont., and Lethbridge, Alta., via Cut Bank-Shelby, Mont.

The new route of 195 miles, the Board said, would effect an extension of the route from Salt Lake City to Great Falls, now operated by Western Air Express.

At Lethbridge connection will be made with the transcontinental and with the Edmonton-Calgary routes of Trans-Canada Airlines.

At Edmonton Trans-Canada connects with a route to White Horse, Yukon Territory, where another connection is made with Pacific Alaska Airways, which operates between Juneau and Fairbanks, Alaska.

The board denied the application of Inland Air Lines, which also sought a certificate to operate between Great Falls and Lethbridge.

SHIPS IN PORT OF TRIPOLI HIT IN R.A.F. RAIDS

CAIRO, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Royal Air Force bombers pounded shipping in the Libyan port of Tripoli in two heavy raids on the night of Jan. 1 and early yesterday, a general headquarters communique announced today.

During the first attack bombs straddled the southeast mole where five cruisers were moored.

Several fires were started near seaplane hangars.

Other bombs hit one ship and the customs jetty.

In the second raid, the communique said, direct hits were registered on the customs jetty, causing five fires and three explosions "probably on ships moored alongside."

SENATOR CARTER GLASS

Wants British Win

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—(BUP)—Senator Carter Glass, a Democrat from Virginia, wants Britain to win this war quickly and thoroughly, and doesn't care who knows it.

In an interview today just before the start of the new session of Congress, Glass told reporters that he favored loaning Great Britain all the war equipment the United States can spare "to wipe Germany off the face of the map."

"I've used those very words 40 times so far—and my opinion hasn't changed a bit," Glass said firmly.

Heavy Attack Also Made On Important German Port Of Emden

LONDON, Jan. 3.—(CP)—The second big Royal Air Force raid on Bremen in two nights lasted all of Thursday night and started "enormous" fires, the Air Ministry announced today.

The R.A.F. was sent back over Bremen, the Air Ministry bulletin said, "to continue the destruction of shipbuilding yards and factories . . . and to prolong the inevitable disorganization of the city."

LONDON, Jan. 3.—(BUP)—The Royal Air Force is blitzkrieging German cities to give the Nazis a taste of their own medicine. According to the air ministry today, British planes heavily bombed Bremen during the night, starting great new fires which added to those still burning from the British blitzkrieg fire raid of the night before.

Emden, an important German port and naval base seventy miles west of Bremen at the mouth of the Ems River, also was heavily attacked.

Announcing the Bremen raid, the air ministry said:

"Although last night's raid on Bremen was not on the same scale as Wednesday night's attack, it was again very successful. Large new fires were started. Fires from the previous night were still burning and increasing. An early report speaks of pilots who were unable to observe bursts of bombs on account of flames."

In attacking Bremen the British planes combined a reconnaissance flight, to observe damage done the night before, with a follow-up rain of incendiary and explosive bombs.

The Emden attack was its 29th of the war. It was believed that shipping, docks, airdromes and oil stores were bombed. Bremen has been raided more than 50 times.

EIRE BOMBING IS DELIBERATE PAPER ASSERTS

LONDON, Jan. 3.—(BUP)—The Daily Telegraph charged today that German planes had deliberately bombed Ireland in a series of raids.

Pointing out that Ireland has refused to impose a blackout, The Daily Telegraph said:

"It was impossible that Nazi airmen could have mistaken the country beneath them, for the lights of towns and villages must have shone like beacons against the darkness of the rest of the British Isles."

Pointing out that the attacks had been made along a 100-mile line on the eastern side of the country, The Daily Telegraph commented:

"It is as if the raiders had swept down Eire, keeping the Irish sea in view of one flank."

Britons have complained that Eire, refusing to impose a blackout, has served as a beacon for German planes bombing Britain.

Bombs Dropped In Daylight Raids On Nation's Capital

Charge d'Affaires In Berlin Instructed To Launch "Energetic Protest" With German Government

DUBLIN, Jan. 3.—(CP)—German aircraft bombed Dublin in daylight today in a continuation of sporadic attacks of the past 24 hours.

The Eire government ordered its charge d'affaires in Berlin to deliver an "energetic protest" to the Nazi government.

The government's action was disclosed in an official statement which coincided with a rumor circulated in informed quarters that the German minister might be handed his passports if the bombings continue.

"Fragments of explosive and incendiary bombs dropped at Curragh, Julianstown, Duleek and Borris have been examined and found to be of German origin," said a statement issued by the department of external affairs.

CLAIM REPARATION

"The charge d'affairs in Berlin has been instructed to make an energetic protest to the German government against the violation of Irish territory by German aircraft and the loss of life and destruction of property which took place as a result of bomb explosions and fire.

"He was further instructed to claim full reparation and insist that effective steps be taken to avoid recurrence of such happenings.

"An investigation of bombs dropped at other places is proceeding."

PLANES FIRED ON

In the first daylight raid on Dublin bombs were dropped shortly after noon by planes which drew rifle and machine-gun fire from ground troops.

Before the late afternoon statement, the nearest the government

MARSHAL PETAIN'S appointment of his navy, war and foreign ministers as a special directorate may mark a step forward in strengthening France's difficult position toward Germany. Co-ordination of the French army and navy with foreign policy will give Petain at least some power in negotiating with the Nazis.

Although France has capitulated and the German army of occupation makes armed resistance in Europe out of the question, nevertheless, it is wrong to believe that the Vichy government is helpless. France still has considerable power outside the area of German control.

French troops are in North Africa and in Syria, where they occupy a position of semi-independence. The French navy is partly at Toulon and party in African ports still manned by French crews able to move the vessels at Petain's orders.

REPUDIATE CAPITULATION

Those fighting forces of the tricolor cannot be arbitrarily instructed what to do by Hitler. They are an integral part of the France that has surrendered, but they also are in a position to repudiate their capitulation if the Germans try to bring

GERMANS FIND BRITISH PEOPLE TOUGH TO FIGHT

BERLIN, Jan. 3.—(UP)—The German newspaper Lokalanzeiger—commenting on a high command review of the year—admitted today that Germany has a tough fight on her hands and that "war against England is no child's play."

The newspaper said that German soldiers now have to deal not with the rabble from the French bourse banks and clubs who started the war but with that English element which can deal and take hard blows."

GERMAN FIRE BOMBS RAINED OVER CARDIFF

Men, Women and Children Assist In Putting Out Many Blazes

By HARRY FLORY

LONDON, Jan. 3.—(BUP)—German planes dropped thousands of incendiary bombs on Cardiff, the chief industrial city of Wales, during the night in their second fire raid on a British city. Women and children of the Welsh city stood on rooftops and in the streets, assisting air raid precautions workers and men volunteers in putting out the fire bombs.

German planes attacked Cardiff from dark last night until the early hours of this morning, scattering incendiary bombs mixed occasionally with explosive bombs.

Damage was heavy but reports indicated that it had been kept to a minimum by a tireless fight of persons of all classes, who were warned by the first fire raid Sunday night on London's ancient "city" district.

First reconnaissance planes flew over the city. Bombing planes which followed in waves dropped incendiary bombs by thousands while anti-aircraft guns put up the heaviest barrage ever heard in Wales.

Many persons were in movie theatres when the raid started. They soon joined with cafe patrons, people at home and regular fire fighters in stamping out the many blazes. Home Guards were mobilized to aid the fire fighters.

NAVAL PATROL PLANE PILOTS OUTWIT STORM

Five Of U.S. Bomber Crew Bail Out—One Is Killed

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Riding out a snow storm, two pilots of a United States navy patrol bomber which had been unreported for several hours landed their craft on a lake 70 miles southwest of Corpus Christi, Tex., the naval air station was notified today by telephone.

When forming ice threatened to crash the plane yesterday afternoon, five members of the plane's crew obeyed orders to abandon ship and one of the parachuting five was killed.

A navy spokesman said the telephone call came from the pilots Lieut. Murray Hanson, 30, and Ensign Robert B. Clark.

Both men were reported uninjured.

W. F. Percich, 25, machinist's mate of Friday Harbor, Wash., died in the jump ordered by Lieut. Hanson at the peak of the storm.

AMERICAN NAVAL PLANES SEEKING MISSING AIRMEN

BIG SPRING, Texas, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Navy planes sped from San Diego, Calif., today to search West Texas' sparsely settled range country for two courageous pilots who refused to abandon their bomber in a "terrible snowstorm".

Five crewmen of the ship, en route from San Diego to Pensacola for delivery to the navy, leaped in parachutes on orders of the pilots. One, W. F. Percich, 25, machinist's mate from Friday Harbor, Wash., was killed. Three were injured, but not seriously.

Lt. Murray Hanson, 30, pilot from Alamagorda, N.M., and Ensign Robert B. Clark, 25, co-pilot from Pomona, Calif., stuck with their ship. Army officials at Fort Bliss, El Paso, Texas, feared the bomber had crashed with Hanson and Clark.

Radioman A. M. Perry, 31, of Los Angeles, who landed unhurt, said Lt. Hanson ordered the crewmen to bail out at 17,000 feet but undertakers said Percich had not fallen from a high altitude. His parachute was minus its rigging.

The governor said he rejoiced that Free French soldiers from the Pacific had been able to join New Zealanders on the battlefields of North Africa.

Japan Planes Drop Leaflets On Chinese City

KUNMING, China, Jan. 3—(AP)—Kunming, China, terminus of the Burma road, was visited late yesterday by 12 Japanese planes which dropped leaflets denouncing Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek and urging the populace to support the Japanese-dominated Nanking government of Wang Ching-Wei.

As if to lend emphasis to this exhortation, other Japanese planes bombed points west of the city, along the Burma road, China's main supply route for imported war materials. The explosions were heard here.

Dental plates first were patented in the United States in 1840.

Blaze Causes Slight Damage Wholesale Firm

Fire that started in a heap of excelsior in a storage room beneath a railway spur track at the rear of the H. H. Cooper Ltd., wholesale house, 10221 104 street, shortly after 8:30 Friday caused slight smoke and water damage to stock.

The blaze was soon extinguished by chemicals after the arrival of fire equipment from No. 2 hall and the damage is very slight, it was stated by H. H. Cooper, manager of the firm.

Cause of the fire was not determined.

EIRE MAKES PROTEST ON BOMB RAIDS

had come to linking the Nazis with the attacks was the official announcement that one incendiary bomb and green silk parachutes which landed a number of magnetic sea mines were German-manufactured.

The planes, drawing rifle and machine-gun fire from Irish soldiers, swept over the city at 12:20 p.m. (4:20 a.m., M.S.T.), within nine hours after the blasting of two houses on Donore avenue, in a Dublin suburb, where some 20 persons were injured.

CEMETERY IS HIT

In the afternoon attack incendiary bombs fell in the cemetery of Glesnemin, where many prominent figures of the revolutionary past are buried. Little damage was done.

The fire from the ground forces appeared to have little effect on the aircraft which turned and flew north after unloading their bombs.

Public indignation mounted. People on Dublin streets muttered that "the bombers must be held responsible." Others shouted that "Eire's army will exact punishment."

The Donore avenue bombing was the work of one plane and a single bomb. This afternoon's attack was by more than one plane and the first assault on this city in broad daylight.

BOMB IS GERMAN

This afternoon raid was the latest of a series against the Dublin region in the past two days, carried out heretofore by night attackers.

The closest officials have come to naming nationality of the planes were announcements that one incendiary, dropped the night before last, was German and that green silk parachutes which landed a number of magnetic sea mines last night were of German manufacture.

Observers said today's pre-dawn attacker appeared to be a heavily-laden bomber.

A battalion of defence forces at Griffith Barracks turned out immediately to care for the injured and hunt through the ruined houses of Donore Avenue for persons at first thought to have been trapped in the wreckage.

GAS HAMPERS RESCUERS

Rescue workers were impeded by gas escaping in the shattered houses. Large families occupied each of the two wrecked houses.

The raider droned in from the north in the dark hour before dawn while Dublin was illumined with its modified screened type of street lights.

Careful government statements intimated the raiders, which began scattering bombs extensively on Wednesday night, were German, but did not say so directly.

Army engineers arranged to destroy today a number of magnetic sea mines which fell on land yesterday near Enniskerry in county Wicklow. Experts said these mines were of the type Germany used against British shipping early in the war before the British devised a defensive system, and that the green silk parachutes which brought them to earth also were of German manufacture.

NUMBER OF BOMBINGS

Residents within a half-mile of the mines were moved out and all persons within three miles were instructed to open their windows to prevent damage from the detonations.

Eire, looking anxiously to her defence needs and acknowledging the pinch of the blockades which Britain and Germany have clamped upon each other, has suffered a half-dozen bombings in recent months.

The German government expressed regret for the bombing of Campile, Eire, last Aug. 25, in which three girls were killed. It did not acknowledge responsibility, but admitted the possibility a Nazi flier might have lost his way over Ireland.

It was not until Wednesday night, however, that anything like a concentrated bombing attack occurred.

Then at least three persons were killed and several injured in a five-hour raid on the area within a 60-mile radius of Dublin. The Eire defence department said one of the bombs bore German markings.

Again last night three bombs fell near Enniscorthy, County Wexford, some 60 miles southwest of Dublin, and this was followed by the blow at Dublin itself today.

'Vladivostok Leak' Of War Materials Worrying Britain

LONDON, Jan. 3—(CP)—Hugh Dalton, minister of economic welfare, said today the "Vladivostok leak" of war supplies, including United States cotton, through Soviet Russia into Germany is a source of worry to Britain.

Today's War Moves

pressure on Vichy beyond the limits of the armistice terms.

France has not yet signed any peace treaty with Germany. An armistice represents no more than a suspension of hostilities while final terms of peace are awaiting negotiation.

It is always possible to break off peace discussions. After the Spanish-American war armistice, there was a period during the subsequent discussions when Spain threatened to end the peace parley and resume fighting, though in the end this action was not taken.

REJOIN THE WAR

Although continental France could not become actively belligerent because of the overwhelming force of German troops on French soil, it is well within the possibilities for the French colonial armies and the French navy to rejoin the war against Germany. If that were to happen, after cancellation of the armistice by Petain, the Germans would be in a quandary.

They could imprison the whole of European France and impose various penalties. But the situation would not be essentially different from that of the world war, when the Germans occupied part of France while the other part continued fighting.

It is certain that Hitler does not want to force such a condition. The resulting civilian confusions and perplexities would add to his present increasing troubles, while the active opposition of the French navy and the French colonial troops would compel a major revision of Germany's war plans.

Reports are circulating in Europe that the Fuehrer is seeking possession of France's navy to try to redress Italy's loss of sea power in the Mediterranean. It also is probable that the German high command's plans for an offensive through Turkey to Suez are hampered by uncertainties concerning the attitude of French troops in Syria.

SHORTEST ROUTE

If Suez is the German aim, the shortest route from Turkey is through Syria. It is questionable, however, whether the French would voluntarily consent to a German army marching through Syria to attack Suez, any more than Petain would agree to German seizure of the French navy. Those are some of the problems involved in existing Franco-German relations.

By appointing Admiral Darlan, General Huntziger and Foreign Minister Flandin as members of the inner cabinet, Marshal Petain has really organized a special board of "peace strategy." The three ministers will be able to concentrate what remains of French power, not truculently but with Gallic sauvity, in facing any German efforts to stretch the terms of the armistice. Petain, himself, remains with full authority strengthened by the co-ordinated policy of France's fighting services, still possessing some vigor.

Interpreting War News

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

THE dropping of German bombs on neutral Eire, whether by error or deliberate design, comes at a time when Hitler can least afford an expansion of his war with Britain on that front.

If it is, finally confirmed that German planes caused casualties in south-eastern Eire, an upsurge of resentment could go far to make Irish bases available to the British sea and air patrols. Prompt Nazi repudiation or apology for the incident should be forthcoming unless it was deliberate and intended by Berlin as a grim warning.

It might have been that Irish ears must still be humming with echoes of President Roosevelt's fireside chat references to that country. Berlin may have decided that the proper answer to that broadcast would be a demonstration of what would happen to Eire if she yields base sites so vitally important for Britain just now.

WOULD RESIST FORCE

Irish temperament is historically noted, however, for prompt and vigorous resistance to force or threats of force. Much as they need bases in Eire, British leaders have walked wide of any hint at force to obtain them.

Berlin strategists must be well aware of that aspect of Irish character.

Dublin has stated officially that one fire-bomb picked up had "German markings." There is some speculation that Nazi bombers aiming at English west coast targets might have gone astray due to unfavorable weather conditions. That does not seem possible.

A navigation error of 200 miles or more, and involving crossing of the Irish sea, is hardly credible. It appears far more likely that Nazi spokesmen will charge Britain with using reconstructed German planes and German bombs against Eire in order to stir up resentment against Germany.

OPEN NEW CHAPTER

Whatever the origin or purpose of the air raids on Eire, they have opened a new chapter in the British-axis war books. If they lead Eire eventually to abandon her neutrality and cast her lot against the axis, they may have a major place in the history of this war.

Irish bases are probably the most vital strategic element of the war at this stage. Use of west-of Eire ports from Lough Swilly in the north to Berehaven in the south would permit Britain to double her protection of north Atlantic convoys.

They would cut in half the refuelling turn-around period for British aircraft, surface craft or submarines assigned to guard the danger zone reaching 400 miles or more westward off the Irish coast. That would be tantamount to doubling the size of the protective fleets in that area.

From bases on Eire's southern coast, British craft could supplement the protection now afforded the southwestern English coastline against Nazi invasion. Increased use of the south route via St. George's channel to English west coast ports would be possible for cargo ships.

Prime Minister Churchill has made no secret of the vital strategic importance of Eire bases. President Roosevelt did his bit to help that by asking whether Eire could "hope to hold out" as a free nation if the Nazis down Britain.

Yet the bombing incident could do more than British pressure or United States argument to take Eire into the war, if the Nazis stand convicted in Irish eyes of a wanton air attack.

Deputy Minister For Air Inspects Winnipeg Schools

WINNIPEG, Jan. 3—(CP)—J. S. Duncan, Canada's deputy minister for air, today inspected headquarters and training facilities of the No. 2 training command here.

Accompanied by Air Commodore A. B. Shearer, officer commanding No. 2 command, Mr. Duncan visited the air observers' school at Stevenson airport, a repair depot, equipment depot, recruiting station and an aircraft factory. A wireless school also was inspected by Mr. Duncan.

F.D.R. May Get Unlimited Power For British Help

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Senator Alben Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, said today the United States Congress probably will be asked to give President Roosevelt unlimited authority to lend or lease war supplies to Britain.

Although Barkley said no attempt had been made yet to put the proposal into legislative form, he said it was his understanding there would be no limitation placed on the amount of this aid.

Women To Be Fire-Fighters In Bombing Raids

LONDON, Jan. 3—(CP)—Plans for drafting women as well as men for fire control forces to meet the incendiary bomb menace were disclosed today by Herbert Morrison, minister of home security.

"Scores of thousands" of men and women have volunteered for the fire-bomb fighting force, but more thousands might be drafted, he said.

Conscription of fire fighters would be the first application of the broad defence powers granted by parliament last May 22, under which both labor and capital may be drafted for needs that arise.

Eight-Hour Day Is Suspended For Work On Defences

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3—(AP)—President Roosevelt has suspended the eight-hour day for laborers and mechanics employed by the United States government in constructing army and navy bases at Atlantic and Caribbean sites leased from Britain. It was disclosed today with publication of an executive order declaring that it was made necessary by an "extraordinary emergency."

French Political Prisoners Moved To South France

VICHY, France, Jan. 3—(AP)—Informed sources said today that all French political prisoners formerly held at Pellevoisin—including former Premier Paul Reynaud and former Interior Minister Georges Mandell—were transferred on Christmas Eve to another prison in southern France.

Several other former high officials arrested after France's capitulation for trial on "war guilt" charges were reported still in custody at Bourrassol Manor. Among them were Gen. Marie-Gustave Gamelin, former Premiers Leon Blum and Edouard Daladier and Guy la Chabre, former air minister.

Must Reduce Meat Diet To Send Arms To Army In Africa

LONDON, Jan. 3—(CP)—Britons must reduce the meat in their daily diet because food-carrying ships have been diverted to transporting munitions to the army in Africa, Lord Woolton, minister of foods, said today. Explaining a reduction, ordered yesterday and effective Jan. 6, in the weekly meat ration from the equivalent of 44 cents to 36 cents, Lord Woolton said: "We are deliberately sacrificing meat at home for munitions in Libya."

World Oats King Will Be Honored At Vilna Meeting

VILNA, Alta., Jan. 3.—(CP)—Hon. D. B. McMillan, Alberta minister of Agriculture, will be chief speaker at a dinner here Jan. 10 in honor of Paul Francis Pawlowski, recently crowned world oats king.

E. C. Hallman, supervisor of junior grain clubs, of which Pawloski was a member, other agriculture department officials and representatives of the Alberta Wheat Pool and United Grain Growers, are expected to attend. The commercial firms sponsor the junior grain clubs.

Besides a large delegation from Edmonton, many district residents will be present.

TORONTO, Jan. 3—(CP)—Injured by a blow which police said was dealt by her husband, Mrs. Della McIntee, 38, of Toronto, died in hospital here Thursday night. Her husband, 47-year-old Kenneth McIntee, is being held without bail on an assault charge.

NEW SHAKEUP ANNOUNCED IN VICHY CABINET

DIVIDE RESPONSIBILITY

The new triumvirate will function at the head of and within the cabinet, dividing with Petain responsibility for supervision and direction of the cabinet at large.

It was understood that Darlan would direct all home affairs, including interior and justice (and the police). Huntziger would direct all national defense matters and Flandin not only foreign affairs but domestic economic matters, including finance, labor, national production, provisioning and agriculture.

It was believed that Darlan might retain control of the navy, and that Baudouin might be named to some minor post in the cabinet at large.

DARLAN IS POWERFUL

Within the last few weeks Darlan had stood out as the second strongest man in France, second only to Petain.

He had become Petain's chief negotiator with the Germans and had twice gone to Paris in his behalf.

At 59, he is known as a salt water, not a mahogany desk, sailor. At 48 he was the youngest admiral in European navies. At 53 he commanded the French Atlantic fleet.

He, Flandin and Huntziger had constituted informally a sort of triumvirate in place of the vice-prime ministry. It was expected that the triumvirate officially recognized would relieve Petain of much responsibility which Laval's dismissal threw on him, but it was emphasized here that he would retain full authority.

NOT A POLITICIAN

Like Petain, Darlan is an authoritarian with no political leanings and a horror of the turbulent parliamentary system which had overthrown cabinet after cabinet before France's collapse. He is represented as not a Fascist but a stern disciplinarian and an ardent advocate of national revolution on Petain's lines, with a strong central government based on non-political collaborators. He has not past political ties to cause the opposition which Laval encountered.

Darlan is a Gascan, of a seafaring family. He was born on a farm at Nerac. His father was a politician, member of the chamber of deputies. Darlan entered the naval academy in 1899 and won high honors. During the last war he asked for front line service on land and comanded big naval guns on the western front. He was cited many times and won several promotions. He was in all the worst action where big naval guns backed up hard-pressed infantry.

was likely to depend on how the initial stages of the present attack succeed and how operations develop.

Even if the attack were only a large-scale raid it was believed to indicate preparations were under way to begin the all-out assault on Bardia.

The defences of the Italian base were said probably to consist of a ring of pill-boxes and anti-tank ditches and traps supported by heavy guns, centred on heights near the town.

Bardia, frequently bombarded by the British fleet and the Royal Air Force, is believed to shelter some 20,000 troops, so penned in it is considered likely only a few of the garrison would be able to escape through the siege lines.

BRITAIN SEEKS WAR MATERIALS TO AID GREEKS

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3—(BUP)—It was learned today that British purchasing commission officials have turned their attention temporarily to getting American war materials for Greece.

The British purchasing program, except for orders already made, is at a standstill until President Roosevelt reveals details of his plan for loaning and leasing war materials to Britain. There was no aid-to-Britain activity at the Washington treasury, and at the British purchasing offices officials said "we are marking time."

Mr. Roosevelt will reveal his plan to congress Monday when he delivers in person his "State of the Union" message. The senate foreign relations committee is expected to begin work on it immediately.

Authoritative sources said the Greeks have been able to purchase a small quantity of ammunition in Washington through the facilities of the British purchasing mission. British officials are trying to arrange for some arms manufacturing facilities for the Greeks. They are checking all parts of the United States in search of even the smallest industry that might be able to produce munitions for Britain's ally.

Senator Charges Secrets Are Kept From U.S. Public

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3—(AP)—Senator Rush Holt (Dem., West Virginia) charged last night President Roosevelt was keeping "secrets" from the citizens of the United States about foreign policy. In a radio address, Holt asked if Col. William J. Donovan, who recently left for Europe, had gone to "see if England can hold out until we get in" the war.

assuming the debts of the provinces amounting as they do to the vast sum of approximately $1,900,000,000. I was therefore inclined to doubt that the Dominion would give serious consideration to this part of the commission's recommendations, at least until after the conclusion of peace.

READY TO IMPLEMENT

However the Dominion has called this conference specifically to consider the recommendations of the report and a special staff has been at work at Ottawa for some weeks bringing the details of that report up to date. It must be assumed therefore that the Dominion is prepared to implement in substantial measure the recommendations of the Commission if the provincial governments are to a sufficient extent in agreement with its general principles. That being the case, it remains for the province to consider what attitude it shall adopt towards those general principles.

Incidentally the fact that the Dominion may be willing to assume the vast obligations implicit in the acceptance of the report at a time when it is so obvious that the financial resources of the Dominion are being strained to the utmost to meet its necessary war obligations, may have a significance which in itself should provoke careful thought.

Is it possible that certain features of the present division of taxing authority in Canada and certain factors involved in the present debt structure of the various provinces are considered handicaps in the proper and efficient financing of our national war effort? Is it probable that the Dominion fears that it must levy such additional imposts on personal and corporation earnings as to make it difficult for the provinces to remain in the field of income taxation? Assuming, as I do, that the Dominion is acting in good faith in calling this conference, then these questions cannot lightly be dismissed. For I presume we all consider this report from a common viewpoint. We are Canadians first and Albertans next, and as Canadians we of course insist that all other considerations must take secondary place to those things which are necessary to preserve intact that freedom and liberty of thought and action which has been the glorious tradition of our Empire.

FEDERAL SYSTEM

Some seventy-three years ago the Pact of Confederation was completed and our Dominion entered upon its national life. A federal system of government was established in Canada. The essence of such a system is that the exercise of the sovereign power of the Crown should be divided and with respect to certain matters the Crown should act through the Dominion government, while with respect to other matters the Crown should act through the provincial legislatures; the Dominion and the provinces each being supreme with respect to those matters assigned to them by the various sections of the British North America Act.

In the system of government thus created there have been in my opinion certain inherent weaknesses. One is that however wise might be the Fathers of Confederation in framing our constitution, they could not foresee the revolutionary changes that might take place in the economic and social development of Canada and no provision was made for adjusting the terms of Confederation excepting by Act of the Imperial Parliament. This, in practice, certainly requires the approval of the Dominion House and would only be undertaken with the support of a reasonable number of Canadian provinces. The result has been that constitutional changes cannot be readily made to meet changing needs and our governments have been slow to meet certain problems arising from time to time in our Canadian economy.

IS INFLEXIBLE

In other words, while students of the British constitution laud its flexibility, I fear our Canadian constitution has taken on some of the inflexibility of the American constitution. I feel this trend towards inflexibility has been aggravated by the tendency which has developed over the years for the federal government on the one hand and the provincial governments on the other to look anxiously to the strict letter of their respective duties and responsibilities and so make difficult that joint action with respect to certain particular problems which cannot be adequately dealt with under authority of either the Dominion or the provinces.

The best interests of Canada cannot best be served as long as the Dominion and the provinces look upon the British North America Act as being as unchangeable as the laws of the Medes and Persians.

Examples of the difficulties thus created are not hard to find. Witness the years of effort in Canada to work out some satisfactory scheme for the co-operative marketing of certain agricultural products by reason of the inability to bring together the jurisdiction of the Dominion with respect to property and civil rights within the province. Or witness again the somewhat ridiculous situation which prevails with respect to labor legislation. The Dominion alone can be represented at international labor conferences formerly meeting at Geneva but it cannot be a contributing party to any international agreement by reason of the fact that the provinces, who cannot be directly represented at these conferences, still have supreme authority within Canada with respect to that type of legislation.

The commission has made two recommendations designed to meet this difficulty and to give greater flexibility to our constitution, both of which I regard as important as the more interesting recommendations they have made with respect to the fiscal problems of Canada. The first is that the British North America Act should be so amended as to give the power of delegation of authority by the Dominion to the provinces on the one hand and by the provinces to the Dominion on the other. Such a power of delegation would enable the Dominion to delegate to the province of British Columbia, for example, power to legislate with respect to the marketing of natural products and thus enable the fruit growers of that province to obtain from their own provincial government that authority which they so much desire with respect to the packing, processing and marketing of British Columbia fruit.

The commission has suggested certain definite amendments to the constitution with respect to labor legislation which would unquestionably tend to greater uniformity of such legislation throughout Canada. Even if these amendments were not made the power of delegation of authority by the provinces to the Dominion might go far to meet difficulties arising in provincial fields because of the competition of industry in other provinces.

ANNUAL CONFERENCES

The second recommendation to bring about greater co-ordination of effort as between the Dominion and the provinces may appear to some to be of secondary importance; to me it is of major importance. It is that there should be annual conferences between the Dominion and the provincial governments for the purpose of considering problems of common interest. In the past I have at times been unkind enough to feel that from the standpoint of the Dominion these conferences were primarily called to get the stamp of approval of the provinces on some one policy only, after which it was a case of hail the coming, speed the parting guest.

The commission visualizes these conferences as being an essential part of the governmental activity of Canada; organized with a permanent secretariat and with a sufficient staff of experts to insure a continued study of those problems which arise from year to year in the economic and social life of the various parts of Canada; all to the end of bringing about that joint effort on the part of the Dominion and the provinces so necessary to a satisfactory solution of those problems.

A more dangerous weakness lies in the maladjustment of the division of taxaiton powers with the division of constitutional authority as between the province and the Dominion. This brings us to a consideration of the existing fiscal system of Canada which a recent writer has described as "being wasteful and inequitable in the best of times, but in times of crisis positively vicious."

DESTITUTION UNKNOWN

It must be remembered that the British North America Act was framed in an era when over eighty per cent of the population of Canada was rural, living on farms or in village communities. There was only one city with a population of over 100,000. In such a society mass unemployment or mass destitution were unknown. Social welfare was therefore a relatively unimportant and minor function of government. The dominant conception of economic and social life was strongly individualistic. The humanitarian principles of social reform which have come so strongly to the fore since the last World War were not dreamed of in Confederation days. The motor car was then unknown.

Apart from the railways, which at that time were in an early state of development, the only method of transportation then known was the horsepower of good old Dobbin and he was shod with steel and not with rubber and so a highly developed system of surfaced highways now so widely demanded was then not dreamed of.

Today less than forty five per cent reside on the farm and a very substantial industrial system has been created. The conception of state responsibility for widowed mothers, the aged and the unemployed, the sick and the destitute, is now generally accepted but is a development of the last generation.

It is interesting to note that in the brief filed with the commission by the majority of the Canadian provinces very great stress was placed upon the fact that while the Dominion was given all rights of taxation of every kind and description, the provinces were limited to a narrow field of direct taxation within the province and yet, with this restricted field of raising revenue, the interpretation placed upon the pertinent sections of the British North America Act over the years by a series of court decisions has had the result of throwing upon the provinces complete jurisdiction and responsibility with respect not only to the development of adequate highway systems but also with respect to the majority of public welfare and social service activities which an enlightened people now demand. This point of view was forcibly voiced in the brief filed by the province of Manitoba while in the case filed by this province there are frequent references to the fact that it was essential that the Dominion government should assume a wider responsibility for social services on the one hand and at the same time should assist in strengthening the financial position of the provinces by under-writing the debt structure of the province at lower rates of interest.

EFFECT IS STATED

The effect of the increased responsibilities thus placed upon the province and municipalities is stated in the report in the following words:

"Over the whole period 1931-37 the relief expenditures amounted to more than 25 per cent of the total municipal-provincial revenues. In nearly every province during the early thirties these revenues fell short of the requirements for ordinary purposes. There were distressing deficits even before anything had been provided for relief. In not one province in any year following 1930 did the municipal-provincial revenues left over after provision for ordinary services meet the total cost of relief. The amount of borrowings necessary to pay for the whole or remaining requirements would have bankrupted most of the provinces and municipalities in the country."

This brings us to the most interesting of the recommendations made by the Commission, that is the recommendations for financial reform embodied in. what it terms Plan 1. Stated in its simplest form this plan is a follows:

PROVINCE RELIEVED

A. What does the Dominion take over from the province?

1—The Dominion will take over and assume completely the entire public debt of this province and will relieve the province entirely of the annual interest charges on that public debt less only the interest actually earned by that part of the public debt which represents revenue producing assets and will also relieve the province from payment of sinking fund. Based on the annual accounts of the province for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1938, the Dominion would relieve the province of payments totalling $6,959,000.00, assuming all interest is to be paid.

2—The Dominion will in future assume complete responsibility for the employable unemployed in Canada. By that I mean the responsibility for those who are able to work but are without employment, as distinguished from those commonly referred to as destitutes, who, by reason of infirmity or old age, are quite unable to work. The responsibility for destitute persons is left with the provinces. Based on the figures for 1937 and 1938 the province would be relieved of payments totalling $540,000.

3—By a system of national adjustment grants the Dominion will contribute to each province annually such amount as is considered necessary to enable the province to provide for its people a reasonable standard of living, particularly in the field of education and public welfare. These grants are to be the subject of review every five years by a permanent finance commission to be established by the Dominion and equipped with the necessary research staff to insure a continued and thorough study of the needs of the provinces of Canada. In the words of the report, "This commission would recommend to the Dominion an increase in the adjustment grant whenever a provincial government established that it would not supply Canadian average standards of service and balance its budget without taxation (provincial and municipal) appreciably exceeding the national average in relation to income." It is true that the commission holds that at present this province ranks with British Columbia and Ontario in not qualifying for the payment immediately of a national adjustment grant. However the provision will be made should the province at any time in the future show that it is entitled to receive such a grant to provide an average standard of services for its people.

4. To meet the needs of parts of Canada suffering from any abnormal reverse or set-back, emergency grants will be paid by the Dominion on the application of a province. Again while not immediately qualifying for such a grant the provision would be there as a safeguard for the future.

5. The Dominion will agree to recognize an obligation to respect remaining sources of provincial taxation and in addition will pay to any province in which there is mineral or oil development a sum equivalent to a tax of ten per cent. of the net income of the companies engaged in mining and refining of minerals and oils. In computing the benefits of this plan to the province of Alberta no account was taken of the possible revenue which this province might obtain from this source. A single company operating in Turner Valley in 1939 had a net income of over three-quarters of a million dollars, which alone would mean a payment from this source of at least $72,000. I submit that this provision might mean the payment of a very considerable sum of money annually, possibly approximating some two or three hundred thousand dollars at a minimum.

These are the financial obligations which the Dominion government would take over from the provinces and on the basis of the fiscal year 1937 and 1938 would aggregate a total of $9.124,000.

WHAT PROVINCE GIVES UP

B. What does the province give up?

1. The province abandons the field of income taxes, corporation taxes and succession duties, estimated in the fiscal year 1937-38 at $3,739,000.

2. To pay over to the Dominion "an annual payment equal to the interest which the province received from its investments and all other interest or profit earning assets." It will be noted that the province turns over an amount equal to the interest earned by these assets and not the entire earnings. For the report states that "if provincial investments and utilities increased their returns, such increase would be a clear gain to the provincial government concerned."

3. The province will give up the right to the subsidies payable by the Dominion to the provinces under the terms of the British North America Act, estimated at $1,776,000.

4. The province agrees to limit its borrowing in the future to borrowing within the Dominion and in Dominion funds.

Supports Report

JOHN E. BROWNLEE, K.C., Edmonton barrister, who claimed in a speech before the Chamber of Commerce Friday that adoption of principles of the Sirois report would give Alberta stability and security.

5. To the extent that the province may wish to take advantage of the national adjusment grant, the province should seek the approval of the finance commission to any new loans. If the province desires to disregard the national adjustment grants it will be free to borrow without the consent of the finance commission.

BENEFIT TO PROVINCE

The amount thus given up by the province to the Dominion was estimated on the basis of 1937 and 1938 public accounts at $5,515,000 or to summarize:

Benefits received by the province $9,124,000.

Revenues given up by the province $5,515,000 or a total improvement in the financial position of the province based on full interest rates of $3,609,000.

As an alternative estimate, based on the fact that only slightly more than fifty per cent of the interest was actually paid, the net improvement was estimated at $209,000. In addition, by assuming all responsibility for unemployment relief the municipal goverments in the province benefit to the extent of $1,092,000.

It is interesting to note that this calculation was made by Mr. James C. Thompson who was until a few years ago the provincial auditor of computation based on the fiscal year 1937 and 1938 is accepted as correct by the treasury officials of the province. With a competent staff he is now engaged in bringing these figures up to date. I have made some calculation myself based on the annual accounts of the fiscal year ending March, 1940.

I will not claim my calculations are strictly accurate but I believe they are approximately accurate and it is my opinion that, using the same method of computation, the financial improvement to the province based on the last fiscal year would not vary greatly from the results shown for the year ending March, 1938.

It is true that the province enjoyed larger revenues from income tax and corporation tax in the year 1939 and 1940 but on the other hand in the year 1937 and 1938 the income from succession duties was over $1,000,000 greater than the long term average due to duties on an exceptionally large estate. In the last fiscal year the revenue from succession duties was only approximately $375,000. No good object however is gained by confusing you with too many figures. As I have stated, these calculations will be brought up to date and an authentic statement will no doubt soon be issued showing exactly what the improvement to the province would be, based on the latest fiscal years.

I would not be fair if I did not point out that when the population of this province increases to 800,000 people the annual subsidy payable by the Dominion will show an increase of $227,900 over the amount now received and it is hoped that there will be a large decrease in unemployment relief costs this year so that basing an estimate on the payment of part interest only it is possible that for the next few years the application of the plan would show a loss to the province rather than a gain. I am clearly of the opinion however that based on the payments of full interest charges the application of the plan would show an improvement in the financial position of this province for many years to come.

I therefore express the opinion that the province should be slow to reject the recommendation of the commission as set out in Plan 1, believing as I do that it constitutes a good trade for the province and that for many years the application of the plan would show an improvement in the financial position of the province.

Again I consider that Plan 1, while resulting in a financial benefit to the province, at the same time offers a very practical solution to the public debt problem of this province on a basis that may be accepted by the Dominion. Alberta's net funded and unfunded debt, including guaranteed liabilities, stands at approximately $157,000,000 of which under $25,000,000 represents realizable or income producing assets. As stated before, the interest charges on this debt, after deducting interest earned from revenue producing assets at full interest charges are well over $6,000,000. Without expressing any opinion as to the merits of this action it is true that the government of the day a few years ago arbitrarily reduced the interest which the province would pay by nearly fifty per cent. and ceased setting aside any portion of the public revenue by way of sinking fund.

HOLDERS SUFFER

Since that time the market value of Alberta bonds on a 5½ per cent. basis has averaged less than seventy per cent. of the par value of the bonds so that the holders of these bonds, many of whom are private citizens of Canada, not only suffer a reduction in interest but also can only realize approximately seventy per cent. of their investment. On the basis of present revenues it is impossible for the government to meet the present expenditures of the province and essential capital expenditures to provide for necessary development work and at the same time use any substantial amount annually for the reduction of this public debt. Unless some plan of rewriting the capital debt of the province is evolved therefore it is apparent that those who invested in Alberta bonds have become subjected to a distinct loss in capital or what might be referred to as a capital levy. The feeling is general that the credit of the province has been impaired. It is my humble opinion that before many more years have passed the province will be faced with capital expenditures which cannot be met from its ordinary sources of revenue but until the public debt problem of the province has been met in some way the province will not be able to borrow in the ordinary money markets of the world.

NEED FOR REWRITING

The need for rewriting the public debt was recognized in the Alberta Case presented to the commission where one of the recommendations therein made is as follows:

"In recognition of the disabilities borne by the province arising out of national policies, such as the tariff and the present freight rate structure as well as from high interest rates which have heretofore prevailed in Western Canada and also in recognition of the special disabilities suffered by the province as a result of the monetary policy of the Dominion during the depression years, the Dominion government should instruct the Bank of Canada to underwrite the refunding of the balance of the provincial debt at a low rate of interest, not to exceed 2%."

Accepting therefore the need for some policy of rewriting the capital debt of the province, so far only two policies have been advocated. One is that the Dominion government, by guarantee or otherwise, should make provision for the underwriting of the entire debt of the province. Having regard to the fact that at the end of the fiscal year 1937 the total public debt of all the provinces of Canada amounted to the huge sum of $1,960,000,000 it will be seen that this would at any time be a gigantic undertaking and it is hardly probable that the Dominion would undertake any such scheme, unless as part of a much wider policy of reorganization of the financial structure of the Dominion. The only other solution which has been advanced is that contained in Plan 1.

IMMEDIATE RESULTS

In my judgment the acceptance of Plan 1 would have the following immediate results:

1—It would take the province of Alberta out of the category of a defaulting province.

2—It would restore the credit of the province and remove any excuse or obstacle to the investment of capital and the introduction of such plans as the National Housing Scheme and other projects which call for the investment of money in the province.

3—While investors might have to be content with a lower rate of interest they would accept a lower rate in consideration of the greater security they would obtain and they would be assured of being able to realize their investments at somewhere approximating par.

Whatever views the individual citizen in this province may have as to the wsidom of making an arbitrary reduction in interest, surely no citizen of the province would be reluctant to see some scheme worked out whereby the investors in provincial government securities would be enabled to at least realize something approximating par on their investments. I therefore submit that the recommendations of the Rowell Sirois Commission should not be lightly dismissed because I see in it a practical method of solving the public debt problems of this province, which the province is unable to do by itself.

Again I believe that Plan 1 is entitled to sympathetic consideration because in my judgment the province receives a fixed and certain benefit while in return the revenues which it gives up to the Dominion are variable and uncertain.

Let us consider for a moment the taxes which the province is asked to give up. Dealing first with the income tax, the uncertain nature of this form of provincial taxation is sufficiently set out in the Alberta case filed with the commission. At page 365 we read as follows:

> "The fact that the Dominion had already become established in this field of taxation prior to the provinces, and has thus obtained a paramount position, and levies this tax year by year on the basis now prescribed by the Dominion Income Tax Act, definitely restricts the extent to which the province may have recourse to this form of taxation. There is a practical limit to the total burden of any form of taxation upon the taxpayer, and if the Dominion tax makes up a certain proportion of this total burden then the province is limited, in the scale upon which it should make its assessment, by the practical necessity of keeping within the balance of total burden."

> "The four major difficulties confronting this province in connection with the income tax are as follows:
> "1. The comparatively few individuals in the province possessing incomes in excess of $5,000 per year.
> "2. The tendency of many residents to retire in their later years to one of the provinces possessing a less rigorous climate, particularly during the winter months.
> "3. The difficulty of obtaining information with respect to the incomes of individuals earned outside the province.

IS INEQUITABLE

The levying of income taxes by both the Dominion and the province does result in an inequitable distribution of this form of tax burden as is set out in one of the schedules in the report which shows that, based on a gross income of $3,000 a taxpayer in Edmonton pays $65 while one in Toronto pays only $44.55, in Winnipeg $77.04, in Montreal $33. This form of tax is probably the best form of taxation available to any state, adjusting as it does the burden of taxation to the ability of the taxpayer to pay, but it is obvious that such a tax can only be efficiently levied and collected and the burden equitably distributed if the tax is levied by a central government.

I have this further thought. The cost of Canada's war effort in this war is vastly greater than it was during the last war. We have already witnessed more than one example of the strain that is being put upon the Dominion treasury to finance our war effort. When I was in Ottawa in the early part of December it was generally accepted that the Dominion would be forced to raise some two billion dollars to carry the cost of the war in 1941. When one considers how two billion dollars is to be raised in a nation of ten million people in one year it should give us occasion for grave thought. Already the Dominion income tax has been greatly increased. An excess profits tax has been levied. There is every indication that we have much higher taxation still to face in Canada.

And let us be under no delusion that this high rate of taxation will end with the war. The debt burden built up in Canada by reason of our war effort will require a continuation of high tax levels for a very considerable period after the war and of course the longer the war lasts the greater will be the financial burden of the Dominion and the greater the sacrifices we will be called upon to make. There is a distinct limit to the amount of taxation which can therefore be placed on corporations by provincial governments.

I am not an alarmist but I respectfully suggest that the provinces have some reason for concern as to whether the exigencies of Dominion finance may ultimately gravely affect the revenues to be derived by provinces from corporations and income taxes; and please remember always that the Dominion first entered the income tax field and therefore holds a paramount position.

SUCCESSION DUTIES

Succession duties are equally unsatisfactory taxes to be levied by a province and due to the greater centralization of wealth in the province of Ontario and the province of Quebec and the fact that business flows from every part of Canada to those central provinces places those provinces in a most advantageous position with respect to both income taxes, corporation taxes and succession taxes. The adoption of the recommendation of the Rowell Sirois Commission is an effective means of distributing evenly over Canada the collection from these sources of taxation and removing the injustice which now prevails in which the provinces of Ontario and Quebec benefit greatly by reason of business thrown from every part of Canada.

I see in the adoption of the report a means of giving stability to the province in the difficult period that lies before us without in any way detracting from the position which it holds under the constitution. In examining the criticisms which have been voiced by those who apparently are opposed to the report, I have been intrigued by two; first, that the report has within it such seeds of dissention and disunion in Canada as might seriously prejudice our Canadian war effort. I fail entirely to find any support for this argument, and I ask how? Certainly one may read the various volumes of the report from cover to cover without finding a single word which in itself could possibly lead to Canadian disunity.

Certainly too, no attempt will be made by a majority in Canada to force the acceptance of the report over the objections of a substantial minority. The Dominion has not indicated the slightest desire to force its acceptance against the wishes of the provinces. If any two or three provinces strongly opposed the recommendations of the commission there is not the slightest danger of the Dominion making the matter a question of acute national controversy. I therefore personally dismiss this argument completely.

WON'T SACRIFICE

The other objection is that the acceptance of the commission's recommendations would lead to centralization of authority in Canada and would place the provinces under the control and dictation of the federal government. Again I ask how and in what way? Not that any harm would result if it did. Recently the provinces by common agreement surrendered to the Dominion exclusive jurisdiction with respect to unemployment insurance. Has there been any suggestion that in so doing the position of the provinces in Canada were in any way prejudiced? Surely the position of the province will not be impaired if the Dominion assumes the full responsibility for unemployment in Canada and indeed it must be remembered that every province and every municipality in Canada has been clamoring for the Dominion to do that very thing. Since 1930 more than one province in Canada has had to rely entirely upon loans from the Dominion to meet provincial needs because of the complete inability of the provinces to borrow in the available money markets of the world, particularly in the early stages of the depression. Has there been the slightest sign or suggestion that in so doing they have in any way placed themselves under the control of the Dominion with respect to those matters over which the province has exclusive legislative jurisdiction?

Has the acceptance of subsidies from the Dominion impaired the status of the provinces? No! The status of the province is fixed by section 92 of the British North America Act and not by its financial relationship with the Dominion.

PRINCIPLE NOT NEW

But someone will say that the whole principle of national grants and emergency grants advocated by the commission will tend to give the Dominion control over provincial policies, particularly when these grants are linked up with the recommendation that provincial loans should, under certain circumstances, be subject to the approval of the finance commission. My reply is that the principle of the national adjustment grant is neither new nor novel. It is now an accepted part of the constitution of Australia, a part of the Empire which enjoys a federal constitution the same as that of Canada. There the principle of national adjustment grants was established as a result of a conference of the premiers of the Commonwealth and the separate states. I believe it is generally accepted that the plan has worked out well in Australia and to the great advantage of some of the states. Is there any reason why the principle should not work out equally well in Canada? The Alberta case recommends a system of grants-in-aid to be paid by the Dominion to the provinces to assist in financing education and public welfare. What is the essential difference between grants-in-aid and national adjustment grants? None.

WOULD GIVE STABILITY

No, the status of the province will not be impaired and there will be no undue centralization of authority. The adoption of the principles of Plan 1 would, however, give stability and security to the province at a time when that may be needed to meet some difficult years that are before this province.

I have already spoken of the certainty of increased taxes and the possibility that such increases might seriously interfere with the ability of the province to collect corporation and income taxes.

The fact that unemployment is diminishing and the financial position of the province may be improved thereby may lull some to a false sense of security. If anyone can go through eastern Canada as I have recently done and witness the tremendous expansion of war industries now taking place and not feel a shiver of apprehension over what will happen when the war is over, then I envy his equanimity.

In the last war we mobilized man power for overseas service but we did not mobilize civilian man power for purely war industry to anything like the same extent as we are now doing. In the last war wheat prices soared and purchasing power was high; in this war there is a glut of wheat and purchasing power is low. Last fall the farmer could deliver an initial eight bushels per acre; next fall he will hardly be able to deliver a bushel of the new crop and it will move into market during the following year in driblets. What the effect on price will be, on purchasing power no one can say. Unemployment will be with us again. We hope Canada can evolve sounder measures for dealing with it but whatever measures are adopted the cost will have to be met and if that cost has to be met by the provinces and municipalities the results will be disastrous for land can carry no higher taxes. Our security is that the Dominion assume the burden.

GENERAL PRINCIPLES

In conclusion let us keep our attention fixed on general principles and not be led away by criticism of details. My interpretation of the commission's report is that the commissioners sought to lay dawn what might be considered a general chart embodying certain wide principles. If the report were accepted by the principle, then certain adjustments might be made in matters of detail to meet some particular difficulties which might appear in the discussions between the representatives of the provinces and the Dominion. For example, I have heard the objection raised that as a result of the long continued period of unemployment relief in Canada a number of those that were originally employable unemployed have now, by reason of age or other disability, really come into the category of destitute persons and that consequently the relief afforded to the provinces and municipalities is not as great as it might appear. This is a matter of detail which should prove no insuperable difficulty once an agreement has been reached on the general principle that the Dominion should become responsible for unemployment relief in the future.

Fixing our attention on the principles enunciated in the report and not upon matters of detail, it would seem that the commissioners have formulated a chart which, if interpreted liberally, may well point the way to such a reorganization of our constitutional and fiscal systems in Canada as will insure uniform standards of living based upon uniform taxation rates and do much to preserve that spirit of unity so essential to the welfare of any state.

Getting Out The Goods

Figures given out at Ottawa show that production in Canada in 1940 was 22 per cent greater than in 1939. It was 40 per cent greater than the maximum reached during the former Great War. The all-time peak was attained in 1928. A prediction is made that the output in 1941 may exceed that of 1928 by 50 per cent, and will be 70 per cent more than that of 1917.

These figures do not relate to money value, but to physical volume. The measuring stick is the ton, not the dollar. If the values of 1917 or 1928 were applied to the tonnage of today the comparison would be still more striking, because it is in money such calculations are commonly made.

Because the measuring is done in volume and not in value, the result is a more trustworthy guide to the expansion of employment and the improvement in general living conditions. When the physical amount of goods produced shows a heavy increase, this means that more persons are employed and wage money is distributed more freely.

Most Canadians, probably all but a few, are still depression-conscious. The memory of the long bitter years is still vivid, and it is hard to really sense the change that has come about. These per centage gains in production help to clear the picture. They show that Canada is getting out the goods at a rate it never did before, and creating plants to swell the output at a faster pace.

Canada's Army Corps

The Canadian Corps in Britain is to become an all Canadian Corps, the Second Division replacing a British or other Empire Division which has hitherto been included. The significance is that the Second Division is now oversea complete, has reached a high alongside the First. With other units of right alongside the First. With other units already oversea the two divisions will make up an entirely Canadian Army Corps, under command of Lieut. Gen. McNaughton.

This grouping of the Canadian troops into a distinctive Canadian force follows the arrangement adopted in the last war. It was found then to be highly satisfactory to the men, and agreeable also to sentiment at home; and will be equally approved now. Because they were banded together, the achievements of Canadian units were recognized as they could not have been had these been scattered in mixed divisions and army corps. The men of our new Corps will have the same advantage, and will enjoy the congenial atmosphere of Canadian comradeship.

This change in the composition of the Corps will give its name a new and more intimate meaning for Canadians at home. Henceforth it will be "our" Corps, composed exclusively of men from this Dominion. Every man in its ranks will represent a Canadian home and locality. His wellbeing and welldoing will be a matter of concern to all Canadians. The movements of the Corps will be followed here with a keener interest because it is altogether Canadian.

Those who listened to the broadcast on Christmas day know that our men over there are in fine fettle. They know also from the words of the officers that the Corps is a well drilled, well equipped fighting force, battle-worthy and keen. The new Corps will have to do valiantly to uphold the traditions it has inherited from its predecessor of twenty-odd years ago. This it will do, wherever and whenever it may meet the enemy.

The United States And The War

The driving force of President Roosevelt's broadcast review of the world situation on Sunday was that he spoke to the people of the United States as one concerned primarily and supremely in safeguarding them, not some other people. The President did not pose, nor propose that the United States should act, as a chivalrous defender of Britain and its Allies. His whole argument was that the security of his country and countrymen is at stake in the furious battle now raging about the British Isles, and this security could best be preserved by supplying Britain and its Allies with the implements of war while at the same time the defences of the United States are being built up. Britain was the "first line" of American safety. If it held all would be well.

But—

> "If Britain goes down, the Axis powers will control the continents of Europe, Asia, Africa, Australasia, and the High Seas—and they will be in a position to bring enormous military and naval resources against this hemisphere. . . . Frankly and definitely there is danger ahead—danger against which we must prepare. But we well know that we cannot escape danger, or the fear of it, by crawling into bed and pulling the covers over our heads. There can be no appeasement with ruthlessness. There can be no reasoning with an incendiary bomb. We know now that a nation can have peace with the Nazis only at the price of total surrender."

No unprejudiced person in the United States who knows his history and reads his newspapers can challenge this presentation of the basic facts. No country has secured peace with Nazi Germany except by surrender, and none can. Everyone who has read the speeches of Herr Hitler and observed the course of events knows this to be true.

The other half of the proposition is equally true, that if Britain and its Allies win, the United States will be freed of any possible molestation from Europe. The British fleet is keeping the Atlantic seaboard and coastal waters of the United States today, against possible incursion by Axis forces. But there is nothing new in this. It has been doing the same for more than a century. The Monroe Doctrine originated in the suggestion of a British statesman back in 1823. Britain offered to join the United States in proclaiming that doctrine. The doctrine was slated for repudiation in the days of the Spanish-American war—but not by Britain. Germany sounded out the chancelleries of Europe on the subject of a joint intervention on behalf of Spain. The Marquis of Salisbury, then Prime Minister, replied openly that "Britain would be obliged to regard any such attempt as an act of hostility against itself." That squelched Berlin's scheme to tear up the Monroe Doctrine and bring a combination of European powers against the United States. Britain with its fleet has been from the days of Canning the first line of defence of this continent against molestation from Europe, is so today, and will be so long as its stands as a great maritime power.

The question thus put up to the Congress and people of the United States is not whether they want to help Britain for Britain's sake, but whether they can afford to do anything else for their own sake. That is the straight, plain issue they have to decide, and it could not have been so well stated by anybody else as it was by President Roosevelt.

The Bulgarian Premier calls on his countrymen to remember the maxim that "Every nation must shape her own destiny." If he acts on that principle he will hear from Herr Hitler one of these days. The Czechs, Poles, Norwegians, Danes, Dutch, Belgians and French thought the same thing. Bulgaria's Premier states what should be the case, but is not, and will not be if the Axis powers can succeed in their aim to dictate the destinies of all countries as they have dictated the immediate course of the states they have struck down.

Canada's reindeer herd on the delta of the Mackenzie has grown in three years from 2,300 head to 5,000, though one-third of the annual increase goes to supply meat for the Eskimos. The new venture in government stock-raising may be counted a success, comparable to that of "bringing back" the buffalo. Their new home must be suited to the needs of the migrant reindeer, and a new era seems to be dawning for the original Canadians who live up on the fringe of the continent.

A second battle was fought at Pine Ridge, Dakota, between soldiers and Indians on Tuesday. Thirty-three hostiles of "Two Strikes" band and several soldiers were killed and many wounded.

Five hundred cavalry attempted to dislodge Big Foot's band of 150 Sioux at Knee Creek, near Pine Ridge, Dakota, on Monday. A bloody battle ensued. Gen. Miles' report says that eight Indians are known to have been killed. Forty prisoners were captured. He thinks very few of the band escaped. Thirty soldiers were killed and 40 wounded. There are five thousand Sioux in the vicinity and a general massacre of the whites is feared.

From The News

By Harold L. Weir

With her tail dragging in the mud, Italy has asked Germany to come to her assistance ostensibly in Albania and North Africa.

It was officially announced yesterday from Rome that Nazi air squadrons will assist the glorious Italian forces in the Mediterranean basin.

British and Greek observers in these areas, however, report that no sign of German fighting planes has been seen yet.

This last item is significant as it throws light upon the real purpose for which Nazi units have been invited to aid the Italians.

No matter how Mussolini's invitation may have been worded, the fact is that German forces are with the Italians, not to blitz the British and the Greeks, but to preserve order among rebellious Italian civilians and among mutinous Italian soldiers.

It is the most natural thing in the world that some specious device would be used to explain the presence of German units in Italy.

Any open admission that Mussolini required foreign assistance to keep order among his own people would reduce Italy's crumbling prestige to barnyard mud in a few hours. It might have grave repercussions among the bedevilled people of Germany.

Thus the suspicous haste with which General Francesco Pricolo, Italian under-secretary for air, rushes to announce Germany's decison to aid Mussolini against his enemies.

He forgets that the world is well aware by this time that Mussolini's most dangerous enemy is neither the British nor the Greeks but the outraged and humiliated people of Italy who, even after eighteen years of fascism, have not forgotten the taste of freedom on their tongues.

Supporting the proposition that Pricolo's announcement of German "aid" is merely a pretext to explain the presence of Nazi units in Italy are these facts:

Since the subjugation of Britain is Hitler's chief objective, the German leader would not withdraw bombing planes from the attack on Britain to support Italy's private attack on Greece or to enable Italy to hold territory in Africa in which Hitler has no immediate interest.

Hitler would, however, divert his expeditionary forces from Britain to prevent revolt in Italy because such a revolt would damage Axis prestige and might even invite the intervention of such a power as Russia on Hitler's own pretext of seizing a country to save it from itself.

There is the further consideration — and probably the most compulsive one — that an Italy revolted against Mussolini would likely seek a British alliance and endeavor to hand Italian ships and planes over to the control of Britain.

For no less serious reason than the prevention of such an act as this would Hitler draw planes away from the assault on the British Isles.

Another circumstance which must cause disquiet to Der Fuehrer is the tenacious rumor that his relations with Vichy France are rapidly going from bad to worse.

There is a report from Lisbon that Vichy has broken off all negotiations with Berlin. There is a further report that Marshal Petain is moving units of the French fleet to Africa with the determination to resist German domination when the time is ripe.

While these stories must be taken with a sizeable grain of salt so far as details are concerned, in principle they may be regarded as containing the elements of the truth.

The dismissal of Pierre Laval may have been motivated by venality; his enemies within the Vichy ministry might have been moved by jealousy and fear of his power; but no matter how unworthy the motives that caused his downfall, the fact that his colleagues did kick him out must be taken as indication of their opposition to the policy for which he stands.

However feeble this move may have been and however abjectly it was explained to the Germans, it was still a little flicker of open defiance of Nazi rule.

This Laval incident and others like it give some credence to the report that relations between Vichy and Berlin are not so harmonious as when Petain declared, after the fall of France, that his country would work with Germany for a new order in Europe.

It is reasonable to believe that France meditates a strong blow to regain her freedom.

If she cherishes any such ambition at all, the protection of her fleet from Germany would be essential.

There will be a German attempt to invade Southern Ireland.

And Eamonn de Valera himself has opened the way for it.

The area around Dublin was subjected to a five-hour air raid yesterday and several persons were killed. This is but a prelude to what is going to happen.

Answering the British request for the use of Eirean ports, President de Valera expressed defiance of both Germany and Britain. He inferred that Southern Ireland may yet have to defend herself against British aggression.

This is enough for Hitler. It is quite sufficient to give him cause to attempt to seize Ireland to protect her against the dreadful British.

Norway was invaded and seized on the same pretext. Indeed, almost every victim of Hitler's greed has fallen to the tune of this same hypocritical refrain.

Possession of Eire would be useful to Hitler.

It would afford a splendid base for operations against Scotland and England. It would make a nice jumping off place for air attacks on Canada and the United States.

If Southern Ireland has to fight for her life and go crawling to the British for assistance, they can only blame the short-sighted policy and sharp tongue of Eamonn de Valera.

He has virtually invited the Germans in.

The Passing Show

By J. S. Cowper

The most ironic note of the recent Christmas festivities comes from the little Judean town of Bethlehem, where once the herald angels sang their message of peace and goodwill.

The service in the Church of the Nativity was held under a blackout. Even the campfires of the shepherds, watching their flocks upon the hills, were un-lit lest they give direction to enemy bombers.

Fifteen hundred miles away in Vatican City, the successor in the See of Rome was presented by his cardinals with what is described as the most super-safe air-raid shelter yet constructed. It is the design of Enrico Galeazzi, Vatican architect and consists of a suite of three rooms heated by electricity—study, bedroom and kitchen—of concrete and vanadium steel. Situated in the courtyard of the Holy Office near to the papal apartments — with which it is connected by an elevator—it is said to be absolutely bombproof.

That piece of engineering betokens both the advance man has made in technology and the growing ruthlessness of war.

Ki-Kung's "Flying Chariot"

According to the late Dr. Berthold Laufer of the Field Museum who wrote "The Pre-History of Aviation," a Chinese mechanic of many centuries ago, constructed a "flying chariot." Leonardo da Vinci is said to have designed a flying machine on paper, but Ki-Kung is credited with having built one.

When Ki-Kung proudly displayed his machine before the Emperor of that day, the sage "caused the airship to be destroyed, as he did not wish his people to see it."

Centuries later, in 1670, the Jesuit, Francesco Lana, after planning a similar flying machine expressed the reason why the early Chinese machine was destroyed. Wrote he, "I do not see any difficulty that could prevail against this invention, save . . . that God will never permit such a machine to be constructed, in order to preclude the numerous consequences which might disturb the civil and political government among men. No city would be safe from surprise attacks, as the airship might appear at any hour directly over the market-square and would land there its crew. The same would happen to private houses and to ships crossing the sea. Without descending, it could hurl iron pieces which would capsize the vessel and kill men, and the ships might be burnt with artificial fire, balls and bombs."

Warfare from the skies was too terrible for Lana to contemplate. We haven't advanced in that respect since his day.

German Spy; New Style

You'd think that no human being of British stock could sink so low at the present time as to play the part of traitor. The lines between the two sides are so sharply cut.

Yet at the Hampshire Assizes in England last month, a 42-year-old housewife, Mrs. Dorothy Pamela O'Grady, was convicted as a spy and sentenced to death for betraying her countrymen, for a price. She had drawn a map of the Isle of Wight, with military information, cut a military telephone wire and was furnishing information to help the Nazis in their hoped-for invasion of England. Can any crime in this hour be blacker and more despicable?

The woman is about the reverse of everything the fiction writers depict when they write of women spies. Short and stolid, she looked more like a good dependable cook than a German spy. She lived very quietly in a residential part of Dandown in the Isle of Wight, and was rarely seen out unless walking her dog. She made the false step of entering on a prohibited area, was summoned and investigation followed. Her husband, a fireman, it is said, was entirely unaware of his wife's espionage work.

A man or woman may do espionage work for their own country and feel proud of it. To be a spy on one's own country is treachery of the blackest kind. Three other spies two Germans and a Dutchman—were hanged or shot last month. It would be a ridiculous act of quixoticism if, because she is a woman, the sentence should not be carried out on Mrs. O'Grady. There is no redeeming element in her crime. Her sex, by virtue of which she was exempt from military service, adds to instead of detracts from her iniquity.

Orange or Tomato Juice

Canada is striving to limit all expenditures abroad, in order to have money with which to pay for war supplies from United States. Official appeals to that effect have been made.

Here's one way in which every housewife can help, to which we are indebted to Prof. G. A. Harris of the Plant Nutrition Department of the University of B.C.

Most every housewife serves orange juice because of the anti-scorbutic value in its Vitamin C. Oranges don't grow in Canada, but there are other fruit juices produced in Canada that are as effective and cheaper than orange juice. Tomato juice is one (yes, a tomato is a fruit, not a vegetable). While tomato juice, volume for volume, contains only half the quantity of Vitamin C that orange juice does, tomato juice is only a fourth of the price of orange juice.

Substitute tomato juice, made in Canada, for the orange juice, made abroad. You can use twice the volume and still save half the present cost. It will help the Canadian treasury more than you think.

Perplexing Names

From the Brantford Expositor

This war is certainly giving people unusual exercises in geography, pronunciation and spelling. For recent examples, take the cases of Sollum and Bugbug, points along the north African shore. Sollum appears variously as "Salum", "Soloom", and "Zalum", while Bugbug transforms itself, on occasion, into "Buqbuq" and "Bagbag". Then there is Argyrokastron, which seems to take just as easily to "Argirocastro".

What Is Your Opinion?

The story of creation was told in ten words. If you have a bigger subject you are welcome to more space.

Lousy Columnist

Editor Bulletin: I endorse every word, and then some of "Enough Said" in the Edmonton Bulletin of December 31.

The so-called "Brilliant Columnist" H. W. Weir is the bunk! He smashes every good cause he tries to sponsor with his ridiculous language, hotchpotch of words, vile epithets and absurd simile.

Surely there are better arguments for instance, to score Hitler, than by calling him a "Paper Hanger"! I prefer a good paper-hanger to a lousy columnist, and if "lousy" in a letter lacks dignity, such lack of dignity in a column is worse!

J. S. Cowper is a joy forever, but H. W. Weir is a pain in the neck!

A BULLETIN READER

Hitler's Low Cunning

Editor, Bulletin: I listened with keen interest to Harold Weir's usual Saturday night comment, and it was most interesting, especially when he said that Hitler was afraid. I quite agree with him in that, still I do not agree in what he is—or rather what he was afraid of—on Christmas.

I don't think Hitler has any more regard for public opinion now than he has ever had, but, I do think he is afraid, a coward if there ever was one, on this earth, it's he.

He wanted to see France, he wanted a first hand look at what England had done to the French channel ports. He was afraid to venture there, heretofore, so Christmas was his one chance.

He is not so crazy yet, but that he knew if he sent no bombers over England, England would send no bombers over enemy territory. He called a halt, and I'll bet he toured the whole of the channel ports and all the other places the R.A.F. have been pounding so mercilessly.

He gave England three days or more rest. Why? Because it took him that long to make his tour of inspection. Christmas happened just right to suit his purpose. He is too cowardly and afraid to ever inspect or rather take a look while there is a chance of the R.A.F. with their deadly aim, flying about.

He isn't smart. He isn't brilliant. But he has a certain amount of low cunning that seems to work out pretty well some times.

I look for Mr. Weir's column first when the paper comes.

Today And Tomorrow

On Negotiating With Germany

Of the five "prerequisites" which the Pope has laid down as "indispensable" for "the search for a new order," there is one which is of peculiar immediate importance because it is the prerequisite to any discussion that could lead to a negotiated armistice. This, in the words of the official English summary of the Pope's Christmas address is:

> Triumph over mistrust, which bears down as a depressing weight on international law and renders impossible the realization of any sincere agreement.

The four other prerequisites are: "triumph" over hate, over the principle that might makes right, over the germs of conflict which consist in two-sided differences in the field of world economy, and over the spirit of cold egoism. These are the prerequisites of a good settlement once negotiations begin; and it may be added that there can never be a good settlement unless it is a negotiated, rather than a dictated, settlement. But until there is a triumph over the mistrust which renders impossible the realization of "any sincere agreement," there cannot be a sincere agreement to make an armistice or a sincere agreement to begin to negotiate peace.

This mistrust is the immediate crucial matter on which any one must fix his attention if, like Senator Tydings and Senator Vandenberg, he wishes — quite properly, I think—to make sure that the British and American governments are not failing to explore the practical possibility of an armistice.

The problem of how to end the war is the problem of how, assuming that Hitler is prevented from dictating the peace, in negotiating with Germany to have confidence that the agreements will be kept. Unlike the other war, there is not now in this war any specific question which is not negotiable once there exists a conviction that the negotiation can be sincere.

For in the other war the Allies had specific claims upon the Central Powers — some openly avowed such as the recovery of Alsace-Lorraine, others secret such as the terms of the Italian treaty and of the Russian. In the other war, France, Italy, Russia, Japan, the Serbs, the Rumanians, the Poles, the Czechs, the Zionists, the Arabs, the South Africans and the Australians had territorial claims based on inter-Allied diplomatic commitments. These necessarily made the Versailles Treaty a dictated rather than a negotiated settlement. The object of President Wilson's fourteen points was to supersede these commitments and his failure at Paris was due to the fact that he could not supersede them.

But in this war Great Britain has no territorial commitments to her Allies. She is committed to the restoration of the freedom of France, Belgium, Holland, Denmark, Norway, Poland and Czechoslovakia. Beyond the commitment to liberate these subjugated nations so that they may participate in the negotiations for a new European order, Great Britain cannot possibly have any other "war aim" on the continent of Europe. Boundaries, economic and political organization, the problems of minorities are negotiable once there is a Germany, a France, an Italy, a Belgium and so forth which can be relied upon and are able to negotiate. That is to say, though Britain is bound to have strong views about the security of Scandinavia, the Low Countries, and France, since they are the bases for the attack upon Britain, the nature of the security is negotiable provided these countries are freed and there is a Germany with which to negotiate.

The crucial question of the war, therefore, is to find a Germany with which it is possible to negotiate. This was the crucial question in dealing with Napoleonic France. In 1802 Great Britain made peace with Napoleon by signing the Treaty of Amiens; the war broke out again in a few months. In 1814 Britain again made peace with Napoleon in the Treaty of Paris. The war broke out again in a few months and was not finally terminated until after the Battle of Waterloo. The question in this war is the same question as it was then: not what are to be the terms of peace but with whom can an enduring peace be signed?

It was impossible to sign one with Napoleon though Britain made two attempts and other nations in Europe made several more attempts. Is it possible now to negotiate with Hitler and sign a treaty that he can be relied upon to keep? There are some who think so though none of them has as yet said why or how. But the British do not believe they can negotiate with Hitler, and the reason they do not believe it is that they have tried and have failed, and that so many other nations have tried and have failed.

With what kind of Germany could negotiations be undertaken with some confidence, a minimum of confidence, that the agreements could be depended upon. The answer to this critical question is, I believe, in principle the same answer that men at last came to in the Napoleonic wars. It is that peace can be negotiated only among legitimate governments, that is to say among governments based on the lawful constitutional foundation of their nations. In the Napoleonic era legitimate governments were in general—though Switzerland was an interesting exception in the Europe of that day—hereditary monarchies, and it was not until France replaced the usurper Napoleon by her legitimate king that a negotiated peace become feasible. That negotiated peace, incidentally, lasted without serious interruption for a hundred years.

What is the present-day meaning of legitimate government? It does not mean republicanism, for Britain, Holland, Belgium, Denmark, Norway all have monarchs. What it does mean is government conducted according to a lawful constitution in which public opinion is free to learn the facts and to express itself. This is what is meant by "democracy" in any careful discussion of the issues of the war. By this standard Hitler, who is subject to no constitution and accountable to no lawful representatives of public opinion, is an illegitimate ruler — therefore an arbitrary ruler—therefore a ruler with whom it is not possible to make lawful and binding agreements.

It follows that the practical prerequisite to negotiations with Germany is the appearance of German negotiators who are sufficiently responsible to a free German opinion to be considered representative and legitimate. It is not for non-Germans to say who they should be or what should be the internal political structure of Germany. But it is necessary to say that the eventual German negotiators must represent some kind of lawful authority in Germany, be it only the army, and that the preliminary condition of any negotiation would be the restoration in Germany of the older German civil liberties as to the press and the right of public discussion.

For unless during the negotiation the German nation can hear what the other side proposes and its arguments, if during the negotiations there is freedom of the press on one side and a totalitarian censorship and propaganda on the other, how can there be any assurance that the German nation has really underwritten the promises of the German negotiators? Yet surely the very minimum guaranty that the rest of the world must have is that any agreement rests not on the word of a usurper but upon the freely considered and freely accepted assent of the German nation.

And all things whatsoever ye shall ask in prayer, believing, ye shall receive.

And when he was come into the temple, the chief priests and the elders of the people came unto him as he was teaching, and said, By what authority doest thou these things? and who gave thee this authority?

And Jesus answered and said unto them, I also will ask you one thing, which if ye tell me, I in like wise will tell you by what authority I do these things.

The baptism of John, whence was it? from heaven, or of men? And they reasoned with themselves, saying, If we shall say, From heaven; he will say unto us, Why did ye not then believe him?

But if we shall say, Of men; we fear the people; for all hold John as a prophet.

And they answered Jesus, and said, We cannot tell. And he said unto them, Neither tell I you by what authority I do these things.

But what think ye? A certain man had two sons; and he came to the first, and said, Son, go work to day in my vineyard.

He answered and said, I will not; but afterward he repented, and went.

Simple Solution

From The Halifax Herald

With enormous quantities of Canadian grain available, with no market for great and growing surpluses, this feed problem could be solved overnight.

All it needs is prompt and courageous action as part of Canada's war effort, not on the basis of peacetime quibbling, but as an urgent war measure.

Let us keep in mind the fact that the grain industry is not only state-controlled, but a government-subsidized industry, as well.

Paying their share to support this industry, the people of all Canada have a right to call for action to solve the feed problem right now.

Toast To The King

By R. C. R. in the Canadian Veteran

The toast to His Majesty is drunk (in an officers' mess) in this manner: As soon as the president has satisfied himself that all is in readiness for the toast, viz., that the wine decanters have been placed in front of himself and the vice-president, he fills his wine glass and then passes his decanter clockwise to the diner on his left; the vice-president does likewise. Diners who are teetotallers should ask a waiter to fill up their wine glass with water or other non-alcoholic beverage before this passing of the wine takes place.

When the president sees that all glasses have been filled, he rises to his feet with his wine glass in his right hand, and in a loud, clear voice says, "Mr. Vice, the King", whereupon the vice-president rises, glass in right hand, and says, "Gentlemen, the King", after which all diners rise with glasses in right hand, all standing to attention while the band plays a few bars of the national anthem.

When the band ceases playing, the commanding officer raises his wine glass and says, "The King, God bless him". After the commanding officer has said these words, but not before, all diners raise their glasses and say "The King" and then drink from their glasses.

The words "God bless him" are permitted to field officers only; the use of these words is optional and not compulsory.

60 MINERS ENJOY CHRISTMAS DINNER THANKS TO PILOTS

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

OUTPOST ISLAND, N.W.T., Jan. 3—Residents of Canada's far-flung northern frontier enjoyed a bounteous Christmas, thanks to those adventurers of the air, our bush pilots. At Goldfields, Fort Smith, Outpost, Yellowknife, Aklavik and Coppermine dinner tables overflowed with good things. The delicacies of civilization were served in mining camp cookeries, trappers' cabins, and mission houses from end of steel to the Arctic coast.

At Outpost Island, that isolated mining camp in the middle of Great Slave Lake, where sixty men labor in the production of three strategic minerals, tungsten, copper and gold the Christmas dinner included cream of tomato soup, roast turkey and dressing, cranberry sauce, mashed potatoes, fresh lettuce, celery and sliced tomatoes, nuts and grapes, plum pudding with rum sauce, mincemeat pie, tea, coffee and fruit cake. Similar menu graced mining camp tables at Goldfields and Yellowknife.

NO TIME LOST

Despite festivities little time was lost, day shift took the afternoon off but the night shift went to work as usual. Northern mines are playing an important part in Canada's war program and holidays are, for a time, forgotten.

Bush fliers out of Edmonton and Prince Albert took turkey, fresh vegetables and fruits north just ahead of Christmas and several had to fly on Christmas day in order to get back home for their own Christmas dinner.

Veterans Salute New Year's Eve With Party, Dance

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

Driver Receives Head Injuries As Car Hits Horses

Lloyd Gibbons was the victim of a nasty accident at the week-end while driving to Clyde. At 9.30 p.m. Saturday, about five miles south of the town, nine horses ran on to the road directly in front of the car, which plowed into them. Two of the horses were struck and the car slewed off the road into the ditch.

The windshield, a door and a window were smashed, but Mr. Gibbons was able to extricate himself and flag the Plamondon truck. The truck driver raced him to the Clyde druggist, who rendered first aid for a severe cut above the right temple. Mr Gibbons was taken to the Westlock hospital by Lloyd Chisholm. Two arteries which had been cut were attended to by Dr. Mason and Mr. Gibbons remained in the hospital for three days. He returned to his home in Beverly on New Year's night.

The horses are owned by Bert Nichols and had come through a fence which had been broken when a car skidded off the highway several days previous.

Sailor Brings Souvenirs Home

Signalman Stanley G. Gibbons, who spent his Christmas leave with parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Gibbons, Beverly, has returned to his station with the Canadian Navy at Esquimalt. Among the interesting souvenirs brought home by Sgm. Gibbons was a beautiful pair of white linen towels with the words "Norddeutscher Lloyd, Bremen" woven across the ends of them. These towels had been taken from the rich German prize ship the Weser, which was captured by H.M.C.S. Prince Robert off the southern port of Manzanillo, Mexico. The Canadian Geographical Journal describes the Weser as "a useful addition to the Canadian merchant marine."

New Year Shows No Damage By Fire

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

INNISFAIL, Jan. 3.—No serious fire damage was recorded in Innisfail on New Year's day. One chimney fire broke out, causing very little damage and no financial reverses. Just after midnight Thursday however the fire brigade was called out to a fire in the Royal Bank. Prompt action by the firefighters saved the building.

ROSALIND

People of Greenview and Rosalind districts gathered at the Greenview church Thursday evening to welcome back Rev. and Mrs. Pybus and children, who have been holiday guests in Daysland for the past week. A number of Christmas carols were sung, and refreshments were served.

Funeral services were held in Camrose recently for Mrs. McNeight Sr. Borden McNeight, of this district attended the service.

McCoy Health Service

Dr. McCoy's menus suggested for the week beginning Sunday, January 12, 1941.

SUNDAY—Breakfast: Eight ounce glass of orange juice thirty minutes before breakfast; poached egg on Melba toast; stewed raisins. Lunch: Baked sweet potatoes; string beans, salad of shredded raw cabbage and celery. Dinner—Tomato and celery soup; steak; spinach; carrots, lettuce salad; gelatin with whipped cream.

MONDAY — Breakfast: French omelet; toasted cereal biscuit; stewed pears. Lunch: Baked ground beets; asparagus; ripe olives. Dinner: meat balls cooked in tomato juice; cooked greens; salad of raw celery; baked apple.

TUESDAY — Breakfast: Whole-wheat mush with cream; stewed raisins. Lunch: eight ounce glass of orange juice. Dinner: Roast pork, mashed turnips; green peas; salad of shredded lettuce and endive; stewed apricots.

WEDNESDAY — Breakfast Coddled eggs; Melba toast; stewed figs. Lunch: French fried parsnips; cooked lettuce; stuffed celery. Dinner: Boiled tongue; baked eggplant; string beans (canned); ice cream.

THURSDAY — Breakfast: crisp waffle; small slice of broiled ham; applesauce. Lunch: Canned corn, beets; celery and carrot salad. Dinner: Cream of spinach soup; casserole of mutton, five-minute cabbage; salad of chopped beets, celery and string beans; pineapple whip.

FRIDAY — Breakfast: Poached eggs; Melba toast; stewed prunes. Lunch: Cooked carrots and peas; raw celery. Dinner: Baked sea bass; spinach; parsnips; shredded cabbage salad; gelatin.

SATURDAY — Breakfast: Whole-wheat muffins; peanut butter; stewed pears. Lunch: Baked potato, served with butter; salad of chopped celery, peas and raw cabbage. Dinner — Salisbury steak; baked ground beets; salad of cold cooked asparagus; minced prunes in gelatin with whipped cream.

*Casserole of Mutton—Purchase mutton as for stew and remove as much as possible of the [illegible]. Place in a casserole with the desired amount of carrots and a little chopped parsley, adding a cup or more of boiling water. Bake until tender, and just before taking from the oven mix in about a cupful of small green peas. The remaining liquid in the casserole may be thickened with dextrinized flour, which is prepared by browning white flour in a dry pan.

Questions and Answers

QUESTION—Mrs. Jack N. writes: "What are some of the main signs of neuritis and what is the cause?"

ANSWER—The chief symptom of neuritis is pain, which may be of a sharp, boring character and is frequently more intense at night. The painful sensation is generally made worse by movement. Neuritis refers to an inflammation of the nerves. The nerves of the arms are more often affected than those of other parts of the body. Simple neuritis refers to neuritis which remains localized in one nerve, while multiple neuritis means that several nerves are affected. Sciatica is simply a neuritis occurring in the large sciatic nerve and is one of the common forms of neuritis. The principal cause of neuritis is a systemic toxemia. If you desire further information, I suggest that you send for my article on "Neuritis." This article will be forwarded to any one who writes to me in care of this newspaper and encloses a large, self addressed, stamped envelope.

QUESTION—Mrs. T. R. wants to know: "When one is so tired he can hardly drag one foot after the other following a difficult day's work, is it best to eat first or rest first."

ANSWER—The wisest plan is to lie down and rest for at least half an hour before eating the evening meal. The tired person needs rest more than food. If you will follow this rule, you will find that you will digest your meal far better than if you try to eat when over-fatigued.

German Could Not Understand Why Women Didn't Cry

MELBOURNE, Jan. 3—(CP)—Women with faces disfigured by shell splinters, children with shattered limbs, men with all kinds of minor injuries, were among the survivors of the ships attacked by German raiders in the Pacific. Yet they bore their injuries with stoicism.

One of the women related that the German captain, when meeting them aboard the raider as captives, looked at them, then said:

"Don't your British women ever cry?"

Canadian Navy Ship Is Named "Wetaskiwin"

WETASKIWIN, Jan. 3—According to information received by Mayor Enman and aldermen of Wetaskiwin, two new warships have been named for Wetaskiwin and Kamloops, B.C.

Lieut. Commander Guy S. Windeyer wrote the mayor from Victoria stating that he is in command of one of the warships, H.M.C.S. Wetaskiwin, named after the Alberta town. At a recent council meeting City Clerk J. E. Fraser was instructed to telegraph the best wishes of Wetaskiwin to the commander and his men.

TWO HILLS

NEW BRITISH SYSTEM HITS IRISH TRADE

Export License Ends Eire's Economic Dependence On Britain

LONDON, Jan. 3—(CP)—Imposition of a licensing system on Eire exports, announced Wednesday by the ministry of economic warfare, was viewed here yesterday as adding a finishing touch to Eire's economic dependency on the country with which it refuses to co-operate in prosecution of the war.

The ministry said that, beginning Jan. 22, exporters in Eire must procure navicerts (British cargo certificates) for shipments to several European neutrals, Soviet Russia, French West Africa and certain smaller territories. The United States is excepted.

RATION IMPORTS

Britain already has started rationing Eire imports with restrictions on cattle, feed, fertilizer and other supplies. Eire is mainly dependent on British shipping arrangements both for importing and exporting, and her money is tied up with the Bank of England.

The Eire pound is payable in London, and Eire bankers are careful to prevent clients circumventing British defence regulations conserving foreign exchange.

Under the Navicert system, Eire can export to neutrals only when and what Britain sees fit. If they have a surplus of hogs, for instance, and want to sell them to Russia, Britain can prevent it if she takes the view that the ultimate destination might be Germany.

ECONOMIC PRESSURE

Economic pressure has been added to the press campaign criticizing Eire's refusal to turn over her ports to the Royal Navy, which would use them as advance Atlantic bases in the anti-submarine and anti-raider campaign.

Some sections of British opinion have been advocating that Eire be "cut adrift" completely if the ports are not handed over. Eamon de Valera, prime minister, contends that handing over the ports would put Eire in the war and subject her to axis bombing, for which she lacks defence.

GREEK AIRMAN DOWNS ITALIAN BY PROPELLER

ON THE SOUTHERN ALBANIAN FRONTIER, Jan. 3—(AP)—A Greek pilot said Thursday he downed an Italian bomber with the propeller of his plane after running out of machine-gun ammunition and captured its crew of three at pistol point.

His story as related by military sources said he exhausted his ammunition in a dogfight, then streaked for the bomber's tail and veered away just in time to avoid a full collision.

His blade cut the Italian's rudder and elevator surfaces and forced them to land, he reported, and he sat down in the same pasture with his propeller bent.

Twin Brothers Are Instructors In R.C.A. Force

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Jan. 3.—(CP)—Twin brothers, members of the Royal Air Force now in Canada as instructors, met Thursday for the first time in many months when FO. C. C. Lee visited the bombing and gunnery school at nearby Fingal where his brother, FO. M. D. Lee, is an instructor.

Sons of Mrs. Margie Lee of St. Thomas, the brothers were with the R.A.F. when war was declared. FO. M. D. Lee returned to Canada as an instructor soon after the outbreak of the war and his brother, recently returned to Canada, will be an instructor at Moose Jaw, Sask.

Trainees Urged To Keep "Faith" By Air Marshal

TORONTO, Jan. 3.—(CP)—"There is no doubt in my mind about the outcome of this war—we will win it and win it in the air." Air Marshal W. A. Bishop told 3,000 trainees in the Royal Canadian Air Force at Manning depot here Thursday.

"Keep faith, keep firm," Air Marshal Bishop added. "Be loyal to yourselves, your service and the Empire and we will have nothing to fear. The Royal Air Force saved the world last summer by knocking the Germans out of the sky. The Royal Canadian Air Force played a prominent part in that victory."

German Move In Italy Will Make Fascism Hated

MONTREAL, Jan. 3—(CP)—Count Charles Sforza, former Italian foreign minister, said in an interview here Thursday night any intervention by Germany in Italian affairs at the present "will make Fascism even more disliked by the Italians."

Count Sforza, visiting here from the United States where he has lived for the last six months, met Henri de Kerrilis, a representative of Gen. Charles de Gaulle, leader of the Free French Movement, yesterday. The former Italian minister declined to say anything about a "Free Italy" movement among anti-Fascist Italians and added that he had met de Kerrilis because he "knew him."

SPORTS BULLETIN

Looking them Over

by JACK KELLY

Pancho Had Only System

RACING down California way is holding much of the sportlight these days as the big winter meets get into full swing and every time this happens I think almost reverently of Pancho Villa, the old king of Mexican bandits.

Mere mention of the word "bandit" is enough to make most people think of race horses and tracks, but this isn't what recalls Pancho to my mind in connection with southern racing. What does, is that this jolly cut-throat had the only system for beating the races that never failed.

It was the essence of simplicity too. Pancho would consider the entries very carefully, make a selection and lay a wager—just like any law abiding citizen. Then he would remark pointedly to riders, stewards and officials: "Thees horse mus' win." At the same time the members of his staff would carelessly fondle the handles of their revolvers.

Here are a few yarns of the Villa technique that gives you an idea of just how effective it was.

Villa took possession of the Juarez track, across from El Paso, in 1912. One day the agrarian rebel made a $500 bet. There were two horses with similar names—Lady Panchita and Panzareta. The seller gave him tickets on Lady Panchita. Panzareta won.

Villa appeared at the cashier's window.

"Pay me," said he.

"But you bet on Lady Panchita, general," replied the mutuel clerk.

"No. No. Pay me, I bet Panzareta," insisted the insurrecto chieftain. His staff members commenced to appear nervous.

They paid Villa. Gladly.

Villa was touted on a good thing. "I'll bet, yes," the old boy told them. "The horse mus' win." He was no sucker.

Col. Phil Chinn and Pat Knebelkamp laid the general for a large wager . . . then got to thinking about his remark—"The horse mus' win." So the horse which "mus' win" was scratched. It was one time the bookmakers couldn't win. Villa got no action . . . his money back.

The boys at Caliente recall one fellow being ruled off the turf for touting Villa on a steed which didn't win.

Villa demanded payment. The bookmakers paid. For 10 years that widely known race tracker wasn't restored to good standing because he started something too hot to handle.

Those were exciting days on the border. It perhaps was the only time a race meeting was called off while armies battled. The Villaistas demonstrated they could shoot cannon straight . . . with track buildings as their targets. The Federals retaliated. There was much sniping. The grandstand steps were stained with blood. It was two weeks before Col. Matt Winn could resume operations.

Meanwhile, Villa had his fling at the races. And when Pancho Villa bet, "the horse mus' win."

Optimists Burn Powder

THE war areas are not the only spots where powder has been burned lately. For the past month the Edmonton Optimist Club has been conducting a turkey shoot in the basement of the LaFleche Building and no less than 13,000 rounds of .22 rifle ammunition has been blasted at a total of 3,250 targets.

These targets are 18 yards from the shooter and a perfect score is 40. So far no one has been able to make it although half a dozen have shot 39's. Turkeys or cash prizes have been given for scores of from 33 to 39. No less than six turkeys have been won by ladies.

Today, Friday, will bring this big shoot to an end. Shooting starts at 4:30 p.m. and closes at 10:00 p.m.

The Optimist Club took this novel and attractive way of raising funds for its boys' work and the public's support has been so good that the club will be able to carry on now for another year. Present plans call for a similar shoot being held next December.

Slammin' Sam Snead Favored To Take Los Angeles Open

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 3—(AP)—Slammin' Sam Snead of Hot Springs, Va., Canadian Open champion last year, is regarded by many players as the man to beat in the Los Angeles $10,000 Open golf tournament, opening today.

Snead, in a workout, breezed around the difficult 7,000-yard Riviera Country Club course in 65. The course lays stress on distance for both the tee and second shots.

Snead is competing against a tough field, which includes Ben Hogan, the Texan, rated as one of golf's most consistent performers in 1940, and Byron Nelson of Toledo, O., held by many as the greatest professional of the last two seasons.

Since it will be possible for some of the big hitters to reach a couple of the five-par holes in two shots, Chicago's Jimmy Thomson is regarded highly. He says he is playing better than at any time since shooting his record 273 in winning the 1938 Los Angeles open.

Also in a possible favored first 10 are Dick Metz, Clayton Heafner, Ralph Guldahl, Jimmy Demaret, Horton Smith and Chick Harbert.

Trade Wingers

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., JaJn. 3—(AP)—Springfield Indians of the American Hockey League Thursday night traded Normie Schultz, a left winger, to Pittsburgh Hornets for Pete Kelly, veteran right winger.

Ancient Race Track Saved As Auctioneer's Hammer Falls

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 3.—(AP)—No photo finish ever unchained more confusion that the announcement Thursday, just as New Orleans racing was being smashed under an auctioneer's hammer, that a group of "civic minded" men had stepped in at the 11th hour to save the Fair Grounds track.

William Helis, wealthy oil man, late in the day declared:

"I put up a $525,000 cheque to close the deal on a 30-day option. Racing will be continued in New Orleans but I will take no "part in the track."

The Fair Grounds, where there had been horse races for 103 years, was sold last September to a real estate syndicate.

For weeks the newspapers carried extensive advertisements that the fixtures and equipment of the track would be sold Thursday.

For an hour and a half Al Pallet, red-faced auctioneer, banged away with his hammer, selling about $2,000 worth of chairs, tables and desks. He suddenly paused to declare a five-minute recess, and finally informed the audience that the auction was called off.

MANITOBA LOOP HAS ALL POWER IN THREE CLUBS

WINNIPEG, Jan. 3.—(CP)—Manitoba's junior hockey races, usually close, have developed into one-sided high-scoring battles this season with Winnipeg Rangers, Portage la Prairie Terriers and St. Boniface Athletics away out in front.

Coach Lorne (Baldy) Northcott, former Montreal Maroons and Chicago Black Hawks National League star, pilots Winnipeg's latest threat in the south division four-team loop.

His Rangers swept to a 17-3 victoryy over St. James Canadians last week and then came back New Year's Day for an easy 9-2 triumph over the forcer Canadian champions, Winnipeg Monarchs. Rangers have lost one in seven starts and have a scoring average of almost nine goals a game. They are tied for first place with Terriers, each with 12 points.

Jimmy Arnott's Terriers, not to be outdone by Rangers' high-scoring abilities, drubbed St. James 11-1 New Year's Day to bring their scoring average for eight games to almost seven goals. Harry Neil, who coached Monarchs to Memorial cup victories in 1935 and 1937, has his squad in third place with four points. St. James won only one game in seven starts.

In the north division, Gordon Starr's St. Boniface Athletics are Manitoba's only defeated junior sextet. They have won five straight and are six points ahead of the second-place Canadian-Ukrainian Athletic club. East Kildonan and Winnipeg Falcons trail.

Art Kendall and Jack McDonald Portage wingmen, and Bill Robinson, of Rangers, are tide for scoring honors in the south division, each with 17 points, more than two points a game. In the north section, eight St. Boniface players are listed in the first 13 with Roy Allen, Athletics on top with nine points.

Ten military teams in two leagues form Manitoba's senior ranks. Four of the six active service squads began play last Saturday. Winner of the active service league will meet the victor in the four-team reserve loop for the right to represent Manitoba in the Allan cup playdowns.

STACK OF SOX FIRST DRAFTEE

CHICAGO, Jan. 3.—(BUP)—The Chicago White Sox, American League baseball club, announced today that Eugene Stack, 22, a right-handed rookie pitcher, was first member of the club to be called for army service through peace-time conscription.

The Sox said they believed him to be the first player under a major-league contract to be drafted. His home is in Saginaw, Mich.

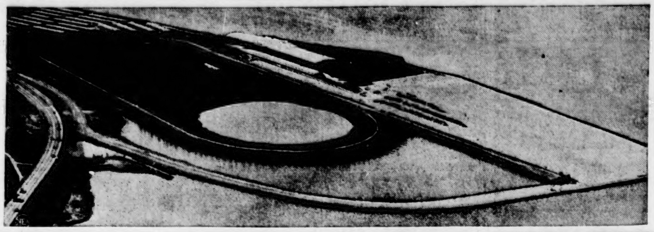
Stack was bought from the Lubbock, Tex., club of the West Texas-New Mexico league last season, after winning 19 games and losing 11. He was regarded as an outstanding rookie by club officials, although he had no major league experience.

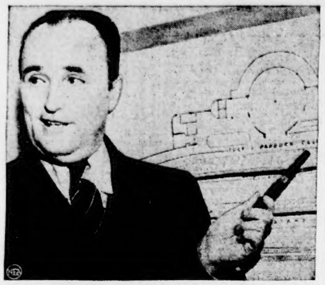
He was ordered to report to Camp Custer at Battle Creek, Mich., Jan. 7. He had no previous military training.

Galento Prefers To Fight Maxie

ORANGE, N.J., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Tony Galento Thursday received an offer to meet Buddy Baer at Sacramento, Calif., in February and then wired the promoter he would be more interested in taking on Buddy's older brother, Max. Galento said the offer for the match was sent him by F. A. Pearl, Sacramento promoter.

Maxie scored an eight-round technical knockout over Galento last July in Jersey City.





Beautiful New 'Frisco Track

Madigan Picked To Manage New Golden Gate Race Track

By HARRY GRAYSON

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 3.—(NEA)—The last time I saw Edward Patrick Madigan he was head coach of the Saint Mary's College football team.

Slip Madigan, the old Notre Dame centre, once was beaten as coach of the Galloping Gaels by California, 100 to 0, or something like that, but he stuck with it, and soon was trimming the Golden Bears as often as they repelled him.

If a year ago you would have told men I would now find Madigan general manager of a tremendous race track venture, I would have laughed. Madigan's only previous experience with the bangtails was as a $2 bettor, and he seldom went to an oval to risk that amount.

HE'S BEWILDERED

Madigan says he is still bewildered as to how he became general manager of the new $2,000,000 Golden Gate Turf Club, but the directors are by no means hesitant in stating specific reasons for hiring him on a three-year contract at $15,000 a year. They engaged him because of his terrific crowd appeal, great popularity in northern California and proven executive ability.

Madigan says he's been having a lot of fun, although he now puts in 16-hour days to complete business before the opening on Dec. 28. He suspects he'll soon be able to tell the eighth pole from a goal post.

The Golden Gate Turf Club is situated at Albany, between San Francisco Bay and the Berkeley foothills, 15 minutes across the Bay Bridge from San Francisco, eight minutes from the thriving city of Oakland. There are 7,700,000 persons within easy distance of the strip.

STAND THREE-TIERED

The plant of the new Golden Gate Turf Club is the third major track in California. The others are Santa Anita and Hollywood Park, the latter at Inglewood, not far from Los Angeles. Golden Gate is the first track built upon such a scale in northern California.

The course is unique from a structural standpoint. It has the only three-tiered racetrack grandstand in America. The grandstand, clubhouse and Turf and Paddock Club enclosure are under one roof.

Through such construction, clubhouse customers, on the second tier, and Turf and Paddock Club members, on the third tier, are directly centered on the finish line. At most other tracks, customers who pay the most money are to the right of the finish, and have a poor visual angle due to the sprawling construction of stands. This is eliminated at Golden Gate by building up in the air. Grading of turns makes both front and back stretches 183 feet longer than those at any other mile track.

The track is built on the side of a hill. The front of the hill was blasted away to make a place for the front of the stand. The back of the stand is, literally, the hill itself. This saved $1,500,000 in steel construction. It also enabled the architect to outline roads that follow the contour of the hill, so patrons of the higher tiers can drive right up to entrances.

SEASON RUNS 36 DAYS

Golden Gate has the only paddock built in front of the stand, enabling racegoers to watch the horses being saddled.

Circular lounge rooms of the clubhouse and the Turf and Paddock Club are completely glassed, Bay, the Golden Gate and the two great bridges—Bay and Golden Gate. There are $75,000 worth of fixtures in these thickly carpeted lounge rooms.

Harry Brown, president of the Interocean Steamship Co. of San Francisco, is president of the track. George T. Williams, owner of the Geo. T. Williams Steamship Co. of San Francisco, is vice president and the largest single stockholder. It's a seagoing outfit.

Golden Gate has 36 racing days between Dec. 28 and its closing date, Feb. 22. A total of $424,900 will be distributed in stakes and purses. Stakes are headed by the $50,000 Golden Gate Handicap at a mile and a furlong, Feb. 15.

Horses will shuttle back and forth between Santa Anita and Golden Gate.

I repeat—that's the trick in California racing.

Indians Beat Pittsburgh 3-1

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Jan. 3.—(AP).—Eddie Shore's Springfield Indians got back into winning stride Thursday night when they handed a 3-1 setback to Pittsburgh Hornets in a roughly played American Hockey League game.

YOUNG MOWERS POWER BEHIND DETROIT'S WINGS

TORONTO, Jan. 3—(CP)—The halfway mark of the National Hockey League race is only three games away, so the challenge of Detroit Red Wings must at last receive the serious consideration their strangle-hold on second place demands. The rest of the league has been crying "fake" about it so long it threatened never to emerge.

The figures never lie and the figures in the most-important column — goals against — tell the story of Detroit's success and give new weight to the old hockey adage that goalkeeping is 80 per cent of a good team. The Wings' rookie netminder, Johnny Mowers, is only a goal behind Walter (Turk) Broda, of Toronto, in the race for the Vezina trophy.

They will duel against each other in Toronto Saturday as Wings fly against the four-point margin the Leafs hold on first place. There was no N.H.L. action last night and another open date tonight brings the clubs to the regular heavy week-end firing nicely rested.

The Wings have a chance to knock Toronto out of undisputed possession of first place for the first time during the week-end. To accomplish this they must beat the Leafs Saturday night, and knock over Montreal Canadiens at Detroit in a Sunday night fixture.

That, of course, is a tall order for Toronto are not beaten easily, especially at home, and the Canadiens are at their best at the moment, tied with three others for fourth place in the tightest race in several seasons.

The Wings, Canadiens and New York Rangers tackle week-end doubleheaders with the latter two clubs playing against each other in Montreal Saturday night and the Rangers and Americans in one of their intra-city battles the following evening. With only four points separating the third-place Boston Bruins and last-place Americans, the five week-end games probably will scramble the bottom teams worse than ever.

The Leafs and Detroit and Canadiens and Rangers have met three times so far this season, with Toronto and Rangers each holding a 2-1 edge in games. It may be significant of things to come Saturday night that Detroit and Canadiens both won the third meetings.

'PEG TRUNDLER CLAIMS RECORD

WINNIPEG, Jan. 3.—(CP)—Eddie Sobie, a youthful Winnipeg bowler, Thursday night claimed the Canadian three-game ten pin record after compiling 844 points including one perfect 300 game.

Officials of a Winnipeg bowling alley said that Sobie made 32 strikes out of a possible 36 in the three games. His scores were 299, 300 and 245 and the perfect game was his second in two years.

Seek New Title Challenger In New York Bouts Tonight

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Promoter Mike Jacobs bows in the 1941 boxing season in Madison Square Garden tonight with a card that probably will uncover the next challenger to the middleweight championship and may provide the same thing in the lightweight department.

Two middleweight bouts are on the card, and the four 160-pounders who will be turned loose represent the class of the division which is headed in some sections by Ken Overlin of Norfolk, Va., and Washington, and in other places by Tony Zale, the Gary (Ind.) Husky.

In one tussle, Billy Soose, an ex-Penn State College clouter who holds 1940 decisions over both Overlin and Zale, has a 10-round date with Tami Mauriello, from the Bronx, who has been all-victorious in his two-year career of 24 fights. In the other middleweight attraction, an eight-rounder, Ernie Vigh of Newburgh, N.Y., one of the hardest-punching fellows in the division, squares off against Coley Welch from Portland, Me.

The lightweights will be represented by Dave Castilloux, the Canadian champion from Montreal, and Aldo Spoldi, a knocker-outer from Italy, regarded as the European titleholder. There has long been a Castilloux cheering section in these parts, rooting for the Canadian to get a title shot.

CAPE BRETON FONDLY DREAMS OF ALLAN CUP

SYDNEY, N.S., Jan. 3.—(CP)—Dazzled by the glitter of the Allan Cup, and so hockey crazy they expected the baby New Year to arrive complete with skates and shoulder pads, Cape Breton sport enthusiasts are expecting great things from the expensive array of hockey talent collected from the four corners of Canada's ice-world and shoved into their colliery league.

Chief among those "great things" is the Dominion hockey supremacy.

Every performer in that coal-district circuit, from sharp-shooting Jo-Jo Graboski, of the league leading Glace Bay Miners to the water-boy of the cellar-dwelling North Sydney Victorias, is dreaming of the day when Cape Breton for the first time will hold the Allan Cup. And they are backed in this by the most devoted of fans ever to answer a finance manager's dream.

A brutal schedule of 60-odd regular league games will give the winning team a polish hard to equal in the Dominion. Though the Glace Bay boys are roosted on the league pinnacle, only the breadth of a mosquito's eyebrow separates them from the hard-pressing Sydney Millionaires and North Sydney Victorias.

Athabasca Defeats Waskatenau By 3-2

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

ATHABASCA, Jan. 3.—Athabasca Clippers retained possession of the Tip-Top cup for Junior hockey team north of Edmonton when they turned back the New Year's Day challenge of the Waskatenau Generals by a score of 3-2.

Both teams played sparkling hockey throughout and it was not till mid-way in the third period that the home town boys salted the game away with three quick goals, one by each of the first string forwards, Budge Jones, Reg. Dunster and Alex Walsman.

Waskatenau had scored first in the second on a hard shot by Watt and tallied their second counter just before the final bell on a goal by Hicky. George Grandbois, Athabasca goalie, received a nasty gash on the forehead in the second period but finished the game in his usual brilliant form. Only three penalties were handed out by Referee R. Labrie.

Truro Wins 3-1

TRURO, N.S., Jan. 3—(CP)—Truro Bearcats Thursday scored a 3-1 over a Winnipeg military team from the Debert camp in the opening game here of the Antigonish-Pictou-Colchester Hockey League.

CAMROSE MEETS FIRST SET-BACK IN SCHOOL LOOP

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

CAMROSE, Jan. 3.—The Camrose high school hockey club, met defeat here Thursday night for the first time to the Lacombe high by a score of 9-8 in overtime battle.

The home club was very much weakened owing to sickness to three of their outstanding players but managed to dish up a good brand of hockey. This brand of young hockey should receive more backing from the adults to help encourage the up and coming youngsters. Only a handful turned out to see this game.

LINEUPS

Lacombe — Avery, Sage, Nelson, Hoppus, Linstkog, Minklair, Sharp, Wilkes, Marshall.

LONDON'S SOCCER FACES BLACKOUT AS GATES FALL

LONDON, Jan. 3.—(CP)—Association football, beset by war problems, has run up against a snag that may lead to the London clubs quitting league play shortly.

The roof spotter system, expected to help draw larger crowds, came and went after only a week's trial. As an experiment it was a success and probably would have been adopted for all league games by the Football Association but the government refused to lift its ban on play during alerts.

The Ministry of Home Security reaffirmed its stand that all sports must be suspended when air raid warnings sound. The official viewpoint was that the risk of bombs falling on a crowd of spectators did not justify continuing play. It is understood that the main reason for the ministry's action was the possibility of a wild rush for shelters when the spotter's warning was given and the likelihood of casualties being caused before all the people could reach them.

COMMENT DIVIDED

Press comment on the decision was divided, some papers supporting the ministry and others sparing no criticism. It generally was agreed, however, that unless something is done to bring back the crowds, war-time football in London will die a natural death. The situation in the provinces, where air raids are less frequent, is not so serious. In London, however, scarcely a Saturday passes without at least one afternoon warning.

There's no way of knowing how long the alert will last, but more than one game has had to be abandoned because darkness came before the "raiders passed" signal. Spectators, with no assurance that they'll see more than a few minutes' play, have been staying at home. Millwall, which a year ago played to crowds of 15,000, had 500 fans at a recent match. Three important London games that never drew fewer than 150,000 spectators in peacetime, had a gross attendance of 5,000.

WILL BE CONFERENCE

Representatives of the London teams will meet shortly to discuss plans for the future. Charlton Athletic are expected to drop out of the league unless a solution is found and other clubs may follow suit.

It has been suggested that the London clubs form their own league for the second half of the season, inviting local amateur teams to play with them. By arranging such a competition there would be more local color to the games and lighter travelling expenses.

If no solution is found Londoners may see no more football unless teams do as Clapton Orient did in a game against Queen's Park Rangers. Unable to field a full squad, Manager W. Wright appealed to the crowd of 200 for four volunteer players.

Three were chosen from the 20 who came forward and Wright kept goal himself. Orient lost the game 3-0 but their perseverence in keeping their colors flying won them the praise of all English football supporters.

Professional football doesn't exist on praise, however, so the conference of London managers is being awaited with more than the usual interest.

Irvin Visits Pigeon Loft To Insure Canadien Wins

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—(CP)—Silver-haired Dick Irvin put down the pigeon he was admiring at a New York poultry show and solemnly predicted that Montreal Canadiens would finish fourth in the National Hockey League this season.

That was how the Regina pigeon fancier spent New Year's Day—pondering over his Canadiens and taking in a bird show.

"Wherever I go to see pigeons, we win," he said. And the Canadiens edged New York Rangers 2-1 here for their fourth victory in five games. Victory also took them from the league cellar by one count.

Coming from the usually reticent Irvin, the fourth-place prediction is not to be taken lightly. So perhaps Montreal Forum had better go ahead with playoff arrangements.

"We're building with an eye to the future," said the former Toronto Maple Leaf coach. "Only five of the present team members were with Canadiens last year. We believe in giving youth a chance—for instance we have six players who were amateurs last year. Take Ken Reardon and Jack Quilty, for instance. They're only 19—still juniors. Quilty came out of collegiate hockey in Ottawa and Reardon from Edmonton Athletic Club.

"Boston and New York Rangers passed up Elmer Lach, who was with Moose Jaw seniors last year. We grabbed him and I think he's a find."

With The Pin Busters

Cam Scott started out well for the New Year in Thursday Nite Mixed five pins on Thursday night by knocking over 275 for high single on his first string. He then followed with 235 and slipped to 163 for a total of 673, but that took high triple.

Blake Barker of Dynamiters in Woodwards' Fives dynamited his way through for both one and three game honors. Blake's counts for the three games were 174, 185 and 272 for a total of 631.

Bertnick of New Method in Thursday Ladies rolled 244, 174 and 142 for a total of 560 and captured both single and triple honors. Swifts had the best team score with a count of 2282.

Nancy Stewart of Civics led the Sienos five pins with 223 for best single and 436 for high double. Orphans and Bowleeros each won both games, with the latter rolling 1,552 for best team aggregate.

Saints Move Up

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 3.—(AP) St. Paul Saints took over second place in the American Association Hockey League Thursday night by shutting out Amaha Knights 3-0. Ted Saunders, Virg Johnson and Bert Connolly scored Saints' counters.

Junior Hockey

According to an announcement made by officials of the City Junior Hockey League on Thursday night, two games will be played this week-end.

On Saturday night at 9 o'clock E.A.C. and Canadians are to oppose each other and the Sunday afternoon attraction is to be Maple Leafs vs. E.A.C.

City Youngsters Settle Down To Winter's Hockey Problems

Although big time hockey may have had rather a quiet session on Thursday night neither cold weather nor even the pleasant memories of the big turkey dinners of the day previous could dampen the ardour of the young players in the various City groups where the really serious brand of the great pastime is played.

No less than 14 Community League teams were reported in action, while four Parks League sextets operated in addition to the two scheduled fixtures for City Juveniles.

COMMUNITY LEAGUE

ROSSDALE RUNS UP RECORD SCORE

Honors for the winter for high scoring went to Rossdale Community League Midgets, who overwhelmed their Cloverdale opponents 18-2.

Doug. Worsfold led the attack of the Rossdale team with a total of five goals, while Ronald Lane, Dallas Bredner and Bill Groff each added a trio.

Bill Ingram also scored two and Arnold Brunner and Jack Hinchburger counted one each.

Referee Douglas Foster did not report how many players were on the team, but seven Rossdale boys took part in the scoring in any event.

RITCHIE MIDGETS BEAT BONNIE DOON

For the winners Vern Williams and Bob Hawse each contributed one goal and Tom Skatt scored twice.

G. McAllister and J. Hume were the sharpshooters for Bonnie Doon.

HIGHLANDS WINS FROM JASPER PLACE

McNichol led his Highlands teammates with three goals, while Sinclair scored a pair and Smith counted one.

For the Jasper Place boys D. Moret, J. Purdy and J. Martin were the goal-getters.

C. Houlihan was referee.

Jasper Place—B. Smith, J. White, C. Croucher, D. Willets, D. Moret, P. Smith, J. Purdy, G. Thompson, J. Martin, K. Keating, B. Martin.

McCAULEY BEATEN BY WESTMOUNT 2-1

West mount Midgets took a close game from McCauley in a Community League fixture, the final score being 2-1.

John Noonan started the Westmount team off for the win by counting in the first period on a pass from Bob Fleming and the same pair duplicated in the third session.

Furman scored McCauley's goal in the last period.

H. Gould handled the game.

Westmount — E. Newell, Gord Newell, Art Crossley, Glen Barker, Bob Crossley, Dough McClocklin, John Noonan, Gordon Johnson, Bob Fleming, Bill Angus, Jack Bennett.

CLOVERDALE BEATS KING EDWARD PARK

Cloverdale took the big end of a 4-3 score in a Community League Juvenile game against King Edward Park on Thursday night.

All scoring was limited to the first and last periods, the count standing two-all at the end of the first 20 minutes on goals by Charlie Styles for Cloverdale with two equalizers by H. Mann for King Edward Park.

In the third period Bill McKenzie counted twice for Cloverdale, while Mann again scored for the Park team.

Tom Bielby was referee.

King Edward Park—D. Myler, M. Murray, W. Baird, H. Mann, G. Martin, Don Smith, R. Smith, R. Pronsom, E. Hudson.

PLAY TIE GAME

Highlands Juveniles battled Westmount to a 2-2 draw in a Community League scheduled game at Westmount on Thursday night.

BONNIE DOON DEFAULTS

CITY PARKS LEAGUE

FLYERS WIN FOUR STRAIGHT

The Flyers ran up a 15-4 score against Bruins at the Stadium rink Thursday night in a City Parks League Midget game, which boosted the Flyers' undefeated string to four straight.

Cunningham was the scoring ace for the high-flying Flyers with five goals, which, incidentally, tied Doug Worsfold's mark also made Thursday night in the game between Rossdale Midgets and Cloverdale in a Community League tilt.

Lavallee, Emmelman, Chimmeck and Bellman each registered twice and Bradshaw and Woywitka added singleton's to the Flyers' total.

Oddly enough, there were seven points-makers on the Flyers, the same number who sported Rossdale colors in their record-breaking score, which speaks volumes for the scoring punch on both of these high-powered teams.

Referee—Seigelman.

HUSTLERS TRIM WALLACE STATIONERY

Hustlers defeated Wallace Stationery Midgets 4-1 in a Parks League game Thursday night.

LINEUPS

Referee—Flaherty.

CITY MIDGETS

SOUTH SIDE WINS FROM MAPLEOS

South Side Juveniles of the City League defeated Mapleos 4-3 on Thursday night.

In the first period Younie scored from Elke to put the South Side in the lead, but Baer equalized on Mazuryk's pass. Squire put the winners up 2-1 on a relay from Isaac.

Goals by Dawe and Pratt on passes from Ornest and Isaac made the count 4-1 for the South Siders in the second period.

In the last period Mazuryk scored on Christian's relay and the latter counted with the help of Blanchard to leave the score 4-3.

South Side—Shaw, Stollery, Fraser, Pratt, Isaac, Adair, Squire, Dawe, Younie, Elke, Anderson, Ornest.

Mapleos—McLennan, Blanchard, McColl, Vance, Collingwood, Lawrence, Baer, Mazuryk, Twaite, Christian, Williams, Shirvell, Davis.

McLemore Kindly Supplies Resolutions For New Year

By HENRY McLEMORE

PASADENA, Cal., Jan. 3—(BUP)—When a man has as little strength of character as I have he is foolish to make New Year's resolutions. I have tried it in the past and always managed to break them before the horns and whistles stopped blowing.

But I know that lots of folk do have the will to keep resolutions so I am going to list a few suggestions for others.

My Readers: To quit using up energy writing McLemore mean letters and trying to direct my efforts toward some worthwhile cause such as the development of a $100 counterfeit bill that can't be detected, the passing of legislation which would prohibit the use of sage in cooking and the selection of All-America football teams.

Tommy Harmon: To remember once every twenty-four hours that silence is golden, even if everyone except Minnesota does agree that I am the greatest football player since Jim Figg.

KEEP RIGHT ON JOE

Joe Louis: To keep on behaving the way I have, even if a quiet, modest, fellow who knocks out any opponent named for him isn't the American ideal of a heavyweight champion.

Del Baker: To pitch Dizzy Trout more during the regular season and less during the world series.

Golf Stars: To play a little faster. No one yet has ever willingly paid money to watch a golfer take five minutes to line up a putt. If the boys don't improve the P.G.A. soon will have to include a box lunch and a sleeping bag with each ticket of admission.

FOR GRUNTERS

Wrestlers: To quit the business and buy a jimmy and a pair of sneakers and get into a more honest game.

Henry Armstrong: To quit fighting before my last one is a benefit trap a friend who wants to co-

Bob Crosby: To consider a sand operate with my sand wedge and help me get down in two, and not as an enemy who wants to wreck my life.

Philadelphia Nationals Baseball Club: To change the name of the team from the Phillies to the "Philadelphia farm for the development of players to be sold as soon as they get good enough to help us give our customers a decent team."

Larry Macphail: To do my best to quit being such a modest, shirking fellow, and get out and assert myself.

Sammy Snead: To try in one National championship to think one-fifth as well as I play. If Sammy ever does this he'll win by fifteen strokes.

FOR THE BADGERS

United States Lawn Tennis Association: To hold the women's championship behind locked doors with admittance by password only. And the password to be given to no one.

Guy Kibbee: To quit sinking long putts when playing a certain fellow who is getting almost as fat as I am.

To the man who wrote the story on Alabama football in Colliers: To look at myself in a mirror and ask myself if the money was worth blowing the whistle on a school which accepted me as a teacher without first plugging the keyholes.

Henry McLemore: To be grateful that I live in a country where they still play for cups and not for keeps.

Schriner Peps Up Stampeders

The National League sharpshooter limbered up for an hour before the Cowboys took to the ice, for what Coach Burke declares was their best practice of the winter. Schriner, a star with the Calgary Bronks in amateur hockey before turning pro with New York Americans, appeared to inspire the Cowboys.

Schriner will fly back to the Queen City leaving Friday night and will have ample time to limber up before taking his place with the Leafs against Detroit Red Wings Saturday night.

SOCIALITE GETS CLOP ON CHOPS FROM PUCKSTER

CHICAGO, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Bill Tobin, president of Chicago Black Hawks, said Thursday he would file a report of the National Hockey League president, Frank Calder, regarding Wednesday night's post-game incident in which a spectator was felled by the fists of Jimmy Orlando, Detroit defence player.

Orlando attributed the incident, involving the socially prominent Charles Y. Freeman, Jr., to a round of name calling. It followed a rough game won by Detroit 4-1 and in which there were two free-for-alls among players.

Freeman's father, chairman of the Board of Commonwealth Edison Company, said Thursday his son is "too good a sport" to attempt to attempt to prosecute the player. Carrington Clark, a friend of Freeman, who also was struck in the fisticuffing, said the Detroit manager, Jack Adams, "incited the whole thing."

Meanwhile, Manager Paul Thompson of the Black Hawks had his own troubles, and was forced to send out a call for reinforcements Thursday when Goalie Paul Goodman and Johnny Mariucci turned up with injuries after last night's play. Goalie Sam Lo Presti was recalled from Kansas City and Dave Mackay, with Providence, was asked to join the Hawks in their game at Boston Sunday.

FEATHER CHAMP IS ONE LUNGER

LONDON, Jan. 3.—(CP)—Nel Tarleton, British feather-weight boxing champion, has only one lung, was given grade two rating by the Army medical board, and told by boxing experts that his legs would let him down.

Yet at 34 he has fought 500 contests and in a recent title fight went 15 rounds against an opponent 13 years his junior, Sergeant Tom Smith, of Sunderland. His superb ring generalship and clever footwork and stamina figured prominently in the victory. He easily outpointed Smith.

Tarleton, who intends to join the Royal Air Force next month, retired twice from boxing and came back both times apparently as good as ever. He won the title for the first time in 1931.

Married and the father of twins, he follows a rigid diet and schedule. He eats only two meals a day, refuses to touch potatoes and takes a halibut liver oil tablet after each meal. The capsule, he says, is good for his chest, weakened by past attacks of pleurisy and pneumonia.

He rises between 8:00 a.m. and 8:30, combining late breakfast with early lunch, and has dinner at 6.30 p.m. He smokes lightly and drinks an occasional glass of beer.

Company Donates Profit On Sales As War Measure

TORONTO, Jan. 3.—(CP)—John Kennedy, president of the United Drug Co., Ltd., said here Thursday that all profits made on the sale of drugs to the dominion government by his company during 1940 were returned to the government as a voluntary war time measure.

He would not disclose the amount of money involved, but said it was "sizeable."

Five Rangers Battling Flu

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—(CP)—Five members of New York Rangers are recovering from bad colds and touches of 'flu, it was disclosed Thursday, but Manager Lester Patrick said all would be in condition to play a scheduled National Hockey League game in Montreal against the Canadiens Saturday night.

The five are the Colville brothers, Neil and Mac, Alf Pike, Alex Shibicky and Art Coulter. None of the players was confined to bed, said Patrick, who himself is suffering from a slight cold.

The Ranger manager said he chiefly is concerned with Bryan Hextall who suffered a charley horse here Wednesday night. The injury is responding to treatment and it was hoped the crack forward would be able to play Saturday.

Tie Leaders

GLACE BAY, N.S., Jan. 3.—(CP)—The cellar-place North Sydney Victorias Thursday night gained a 2-2 overtime tie with Glace Bay Miners, leaders of the Cape Breton Hockey League.

Pays Penalty

LONGDEN RIDES FOUR WINNERS AT SANTA ANITA

Longden rode winners in the first three races and added his fourth in the eighth when he won with Nipponese, a long shot which paid $15.00, $6.00 and $3.60.

The Canadian jockey, who won the National Riding Championship in 1938, was runner-up in 1939, and finished third in 1940. He piloted Valdina Alden in the first, Recoatna in the second and Hetch Hetchy in the third.

Valdina Alden paid $9.00, $5.00, $4.40, Recoatna $10.60, $4.80, $4.00, and Hetch Hetchy $6.60, $4.40, $3.40.

Longden also had a third in the 5th race.

Longden complained of illness just before the first race and for a short while considered cancelling his mounts for the day. The first race convinced him he was all right.

Bisons Play Tie With Reds

BUFFALO, N.Y., Jan. 3.—(AP).—Buffalo Bisons had to come from behind three times in their American League Hockey contest with Providence Reds Thursday night to wind up all even at 5-5. It was the first tie game of the season for both clubs.

George Johnston netted twice and Ab Demarco, Art Giroux and Normie Mann sniped one apiece. Loren Mercer who scored the tieing shot less than four minutes before regulation time, Jack Toupin and Morey Rimstad each tallied once, while chuck Shannon scored a brace for Bisons.

Montreal and Toronto

MONTREAL, Jan. 3—(CP)—Stock market leaders continued to pilot an even course in today's late trade although a few more declines appeared. The utility and metal sections suffered the majority of the declines with Shawinigan, Noranda and Smelters giving up fractional amounts and Brazilian and Montreal Power easing narrowly.

BISHOP TO BE ELECTED JANUARY 28

Synod To Fill Vacancy Following Rt. Rev. Burgett's Retirement

Election of a bishop for the Anglican diocese of Edmonton, will take place at a diocese synod meeting to be held at All Saints Parish hall at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday, January 28. Clergy and lay delegates will attend matins in the Pro Cathedral at the same hour, it was announced Friday by Archdeacon S. F. Tackaberry, administrator for the diocese.

Immediately after matins, clergy and lay delegates will assemble in the parish hall where the synod will be opened.

Ven. W. Leversedge will offer prayer and Rev. W. M. Nainby and D. W. F. Richardson will be appointed as the credentials committee.

After nominations for bishop have been made by ballot, members of the synod will proceed to the pro-cathedral, where holy communion will be celebrated. Balloting will take place in the pro-cathedral following the service.

Election of a bishop was made necessary following the resignation last month, owing to ill-health, of Rt. Rev. Bishop A. E. Burgett, who had held the post for many years.

FIRST WAR VET ENLISTS WITH FUSILIER UNIT

Joining as a captain, second-in-command of a company, Frank L. Simmonds, veteran of the First Great War and manager of Barber-Ellis of Alberta Ltd. for the past 11 years, has enlisted in the Edmonton Fusiliers, C.A.S.F., it was learned Thursday.

In the last war he served with the 23rd Battery overseas, with which unit he enlisted in Brantford, Ont., in 1914. He was with the army of occupation in Germany, reutrning to Canada as a sergeant.

In recent months he was a captain in the Edmonton Fusiliers N.P.A.M. and C.A.R., and was with the 13th Machine Gun Battery prior to its being absorbed by the Fusiliers when it became a machine gun unit. He was president of the Edmonton Lions' club two years ago and among his other activities were memberships in the Edmonton Saddle Club and the Edmonton District Thoroughbred Society.

Other officers who have joined the "Fuzzies" this week include Second Lieut. Thomas McLeod, Calgary, transport officer; Second Lieuts. D. Thexton, Edmonton, Ernest Wood and J. A. Hardisty, all from the Infantry Training Centre, Calgary.

It was announced that the Fusilier unit now has eight "Jeeps"—tough little trucks used in general platoon manoeuvres and transport.

Call Sent Out To 2,400 Young Men For Training At Three Militia Camps

Call has been issued to approximately 2,400 men of the 21-to-24-year-old classes to attend camps opening at Red Deer, Camrose and Grande Prairie on January 10, it was announced Friday by J. P. McIsaac, K.C., divisional registrar for National War Services in Alberta.

This is the third camp to be held under the compulsory training plan, and will possibly be the last camp at which the one-month training period will be in effect.

One thousand of the men called for January 10 will go to Red Deer, a further 1,000 to Camrose, and 250 to the Grande Prairie camp. Only recruits who applied for postponements from the two previous camps have been called from Edmonton for the January 10 camp.

Friday morning the Alberta board, headed by Chief Justice Horace Harvey, was considering applications from individual conscientious objectors. The hearings were in private.

Joins Dutch Unit

KARL HOUBA, employee of the Checker Cab Co. for several years, who left Edmonton Friday for Stratford, Ont., where he will join a force of Netherlanders resident in Canada who are being recruited to fight on the side of Britain. Houba, a former lietenant in the Dutch army, takes the rank of sergeant with the force now being raised in Canada. He recollects the German invasion of Belgium in 1914 when the Kaiser's army passed close to the Dutch frontier as they drove westward toward the channel.

CITY TO ADOPT TAX PREPAYMENT PLAN FOR 1941

Invitation is being issued to Edmonton's taxpayers to take advantage of the tax prepayment plan under which four per cent. interest is allowed on all property taxes prepaid prior to January 15. The invitation is contained in a circular being prepared by the city assessor's office.

While it is impossible to state how taxes for 1941 will compare with 1940, it is suggested that pre-payments should be based on the amount of taxes paid in 1940. Interest at four per cent. will be allowed on any amount prepaid, so that even if the taxpayer is unable to pay the total taxes he can still take advantage of the plan.

Payments with interest will be credited on the 1941 tax roll, and after the taxes have been levied a statement will be issued to individual taxpayers showing the amount of balance of taxes due, or refunds will be made if taxes have been overpaid.

CITY TRANSPORT PASSENGERS HIT ALL-TIME HIGH

Smashing all previous passenger carrying records by 943,488, the Edmonton street railway system soared to an all time record of 16,002,071 passengers carried in the street cars and trolley busses during 1940. Previous high total was that of 1939 when 15,058,583 passengers patronized the system.

Commenting on the increase of patronage of nearly a million customers, Commissioner R. J. Gibb stated that "much of this increase was attributable to the popularity of the trolley busses and the greatly improved service being given on the routes they follow.

Mrs. M. Douglas Passes In City: Rites Saturday

A resident of Alberta all her life, Mrs. Mildred Douglas, 30, of the White Mud Creek district, west of the city and formerly of Calgary, died in the University hospital Thursday. She was born in Calgary.

Surviving are her husband and one daughter Evelyn, at home; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Evans; three brothers and three sisters.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. from Hainstock's funeral chapel, conducted by Rev. McElroy Thompson. Interment will be made in the Mount Pleasant cemetery.

QUARTERS FOR TRADES COUNCIL ARE PROVIDED

It is business as usual with the Edmonton Trades and Labor Council despite the fact that its meeting place has been rendered useless to the organization through fire which damaged the Labor Hall on New Year's Eve.

Announcement was made Friday by Carl E. Berg, president of the Council, that city commissioners had offered the Council the use of the council chamber in the Civic Block for meetings until such time as necessary repairs have been made to the hall.

The regular monthly meeting scheduled for the first Monday in January, Mr. Berg stated, will be cancelled. The executive of the Council, however, will meet on that night to transact any necessary business.

In the meantime, business will be carried on, and necessary meetings will be held at the headquarters of Labor Union No. 92 in the Canada Permanent Building.

Alfred Farmilo, president of the Alberta Federation of Labor, and Mr. Berg, secretary, were scheduled to leave Friday for Calgary to attend a special meeting of the executive of the Federation.

FIRST WAR DAYS TO BE RECALLED AT 49TH DINNER

Stirring days of the Great War of 1914-1918—days that saw friendships formed in fire and the smoke of battle from Edmonton to Ypres to the Somme and forward to Mons—will be recalled at the Macdonald hotel at 7 p.m. Saturday when members of the 49th Bn. (Edmonton Regiment) Association meet for their 26th annual banquet.

Men who fought with the famous Edmonton Regiment are expected to come from all sections of the province to renew memories of the old days. Mainly drawn from this city, the 6,000 men who served with the regiment, however, were representative of all parts of the northern section of the province, running from Red Deer to the Peace River territory.

Maj.-Gen. W. A. Griesbach, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., V.D., K.C., Inspector-General for western Canada, original officer commanding, will preside.

Branches of the Association established at Toronto, Vancouver and London, will celebrate the occasion.

Invited to the banquet are all members of the other regiments of the 7th Canadian Infantry Brigade, of which the 49th formed a part. These regiments, the Royal Canadian Regiment, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry and 42nd Royal Highlanders of Canada, all have representatives here.

A splendid program of entertainment has been provided.

Two special sound motion pictures have been obtained in addition to the regular program of "movies" lined up previously for the entertainment of guests at the dinner it is announced by John Michaels, executive member of the organization.

Temperature At 12 Below Friday

Clear skies, sunshine and nippy weather summarized the weather situation in Edmonton Friday morning with an 8:30 a.m. temperature of 12 below, a barometric reading of 28.10 inches, increasing, and a forecast of "continued cool, with not much change."

The mercury dipped to 12 below often during the night, with a high of 6 above at 9:30 p.m. Thursday.

Low for the near north is 40 below at Athabasca with a minimum of 5 below at Spirit River. The weather is mostly clear and calm.

There are 1,024,000 persons by the name of Johnson in the United States.

Deputy Air Aide Will Visit Here

James S. Duncan, deputy minister for air of the Dominion and vice-president and general manager of Massey-Harris Company Limited, will arrive in Edmonton on the C.N.R. January 7 to inspect R.C.A.F. training centres here. He will be accompanied by senior officials of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan.

City Building Gets Away To Brisk Start As Year Opens

City building got away to a good start in 1941, applications for permits totalling $12,700 having been made to the city architect's office since the first of the year.

Honor of making the first application for a permit went to James R. Robinson, 10030 114 street, who was given a permit to convert a two-family residence into three-family dwelling. The cost of the alterations was set at $500.

The Lincoln Hotel Ltd., 102 street and 103 avenue, took out a permit for $4,000 for alterations to the second storey of the hotel.

A permit for $7,500 was taken out by the Bank of Nova Scotia for installation of a new safety vault and other alterations.

Five other permits amounting to $700 for alterations and repairs to existing buildings were taken out on the first day of business in the new year.

AROUND THE TOWN

Funeral services for one of the best-known Indian mission workers in the province, Rev. Father Gustave Simonin, O.M.I., 71, who died at the Hobbema Indian school, were held Friday at St. Albert. Born at Nance, France, Rev. Father Simonin came to Canada 48 years ago and worked as a missionary in all parts of the province, including Lac Ste. Anne and Hobbema. Burial was made in the St. Albert cemetery.

Howard D. Harper, well-known athlete, formerly of Edmonton, his wife, and daughters Leann and Dallerie, motored up from North Bergen, New Jersey, recently on a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Lane McAthey of Edmonton. Mr. and Mrs. Harper were married in Edmonton five years ago. Also visiting in the city are Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Harper of Cadomin, the former being High school principal in that district. The visitors were in Edmonton during the Christmas holidays.

Operation of the new provincial government system of coloring gasoline sold specially for use in farm machinery is expected to commence at an early date, provincial secretary's department officials stated Friday. Purple in color, this fuel will be used for farm machinery instead of the ordinary type sold to the general public. In the interval, the system by which rebates were allowed on gasoline purchased for farm use, has been cancelled. It is pointed out that applicants must pay the full seven-cent tax, and then apply for the six cents a gallon rebate, within six months after purchase of the fuel. Officials stated this plan will continue until the purple gasoline on which farmers are to pay the tax of one cent gallon, is ready for distribution.

The Inquiring Reporter

THE QUESTION:

What was your favorite movie of 1940 and why?

THE ANSWERS:

ELSIE PARK GOWAN, Edmonton dramatist: "The Grapes of Wrath" is my nomination as the best movie produced over the past year. In theme and importance, I can't recall a picture that has touched it. John Fords' direction and the photography were exciting, and the acting of Jane Darwell, John Carradine and Henry Fonda seemed to me unforgettable. Oddly enough, the screen seems to have been more successful in bringing Steinbeck's books to life than many a lesser authors. There is an artistic and powerful appeal in their conception that is admirable.

• • • •

DOREEN REES, drama enthusiast: My favorite was Thornton Wilder's "Our Town." In a world of chaos, this film brought such a feeling of peace and security into our lives, as though all the old values of living were not yet forgotten. There was an honesty and sincerity of purpose in its conception that I can't recall having been approached in any other recent cinema. Far from the simple way of "Our Town," I liked very much, the sophisticated farce by Clare Booth, "The Women." Always amusing, there was a shrewd and clever interpretation of a certain type of female society in this film that I heartily enjoyed.

• • • •

INEZ MacDONALD, make-up expert: "Rebecca" I enjoyed as much as any that I've seen during the year. One particular reason I liked it so, was its absolute fidelity to the text of the book. The atmosphere of England was so real and vivid throughout and Hitchcock's direction was excellent as was the acting. The heroine, particularly, impressed me for her naturalness and completely "unglamorous" performance. She was so refreshing.

ECONOMY IS FORECAST IN 1941 BUDGET

Maximum Aid Planned By Alberta Government For War Aid

Turn of the year saw government departments direct their attention to the next legislative session. It was learned in reliable quarters that word has gone out to the departments for preparation of estimates and first draft is to be turned in to Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer, at an early date.

From department sources, it was learned that this year's budget is likely to be of the "economy" variety. That is, expenditures will be kept down to a minimum, as will new services, in order that a maximum contribution can be made to the Dominion war effort.

NO TAX INCREASE

Already Mr. Low has announced that there will be no increase in the income tax and so far there are no indications of any new taxation.

The departments are busy preparing annual reports.

With the return here next week of Premier William Aberhart the cabinet is expected to take up intensive preparations for the session. One of the first matters to be attended to probably will be the actual date of the session.

MAY BE DELAYED

Although tentatively set for February 6, there is likelihood the opening may be delayed on account of the Dominion-provincial conference at Ottawa on January 15, at which the Rowell-Sirois report will be discussed. Premier Aberhart and Hon. Solon Low probably will represent Alberta.

As the deliberations on this report might have an important bearing on the government's legislative program for the next session, opening thereof probably will be delayed until its results can be fully surveyed by the provincial government.

Northern Mine Boom Is Expected With Opening Of B.E.A.R. Properties

With the announcement in the east of the early re-opening of the Giant mines of the Bear Exploration and Radium Ltd. at Yellowknife a real boom in northern mining operations can be expected soon, L. E. Drummond, president of the Alberta and North West Chamber of Mines, stated Friday.

The B.E.A.R. properties at Yellowknife shut down in July of last year when a general slump hit gold mining operations in the far north, but the valuable part that gold must play in the successful prosecution of the war has been recently stressed by prominent government spokesmen and renewed activity of already developed properties has been foreseen for some time.

The Giant property is expected to go back into production early in the present month.

Mercury properties at Wray Lake, 150 miles north of Yellowknife, are also expected to re-open soon, Mr. Drummond said. This is also a gold producing field.

The mining chamber president also predicted that the Tungsten company at Gilmour Lake will start activity again in a short time. This firm will be engaged in the production of industrial tungsten for war purposes.

Mining Boom

L. E. DRUMMOND, secretary-manager of the Alberta and North West Chamber of Mines, who stated Friday that re-opening of B.E.A.R. mining properties at Yellowknife would cause a boom in northern mining.

Through The Mill

Separate a true son of Scandinavia from his "snoose" and you're in for trouble of the first magnitude. Lumber camps have been disorganized for days when there has been a shortage of the soothing, munching substance, and even the sedate dignity of a court room is no place for a Scandinavian to run short of his favorite chew. This was demonstrated Friday morning when a descendant of Lief Erickson answered a charge of dangerous driving.

• • •

While the evidence was being taken the accused suddenly grew faint and waved to the court orderly. "He wants a chew of 'snoose' for his nerves," the officer told the magistrate.

"Well, he better not spit on the floor," warned His Worship.

After a short consultation accused announced with pride that he never expectorated. After stuffing a good chaw into his mouth, accused sat down and the case proceeded.

A verdict of guilty was followed by imposition of a fine of $10 and costs or 14 days.

A woman driver, found guilty of a similar offence, was fined $15 and costs or 21 days in jail, while another motorist was fined $5 and costs for passing a standing street car.

A relief recipient was fined $10 and costs for being in the possession of a revolver for which he has no permit. He was granted until January 17 to pay the fine. The court stated it is "very important" that revolvers be registered at this time in ordering the confiscation of the weapon.

PHONE BOOKS TO BE READY DURING MONTH

The first edition of the 1941 city telephone directory is in process of printing and will be ready for distribution in about two weeks, it was announced Friday by Supt. Robert Christie. Approximately 30,000 copies are being printed, of which 17,000 will be distributed in Edmonton. The balance of the books will be sent to country points for reference, or stored for use of new subscribers. Tenders for the distribution of the books in Edmonton will shortly be called for by the city commissioners.

Have You Seen

City police have been asked by letter to assist in locating two persons who are missing from their homes and were last heard of in Edmonton or this district.

A letter from Miss Johannon Carlsgaard of Superior, Wisconsin, seeks knowledge of Hazel Wilhelmina Jensen, who is believed to have worked in a department store in Edmonton while she lived here. The writer states she has very important news for Miss Jensen. The missing girl resided at 10032 103 Street when last heard from.

Andrew Hanson, known to have lived in Edmonton, is being sought by Mrs. Nikolai Nelson of Bremerton, Wash. Hanson is 5 feet 10 inches in height, weighs 170 pounds, with blue eyes and brown hair.

Those possessing knowledge of the present location of either of these two missing persons should communicate at once with the Edmonton city police or the R.C.M.P. headquarters here.

Twenty-one per cent of the meals eaten by Americans are eaten outside of homes.

INDEPENDENTS OPEN PARLEY AT CAMROSE

W. N. Chant May Be Chosen As Candidate For By-Election

Meeting of Independents to discuss the forthcoming by-election and possibly name a candidate to contest the Camrose constituency seat opened at Camrose Friday afternoon. The by-election is being held to fill the vacancy created by the death of Hon. D. B. Mullen, member for that constituency.

It was reported early Friday that W. N. Chant, former minister of agriculture who was ousted by Premier Aberhart, would likely be proposed as a candidate. It was expected that the names of nominees from Bashaw and Donald would also be submitted.

Elected as Social Credit member for Camrose in the 1935 general election, Mr. Chant held the agriculture portfolio until he broke with the government in 1937.

The C.C.F. Party has named Chester A. Ronning, provincial leader, as its candidate while the Social Credit Party has named a panel of three from which the selection committee will choose a candidate.

It is likely the government will set the date for the by-election next week following Premier Aberhart's return.

Fire Threatens Training Centre

WINNIPEG, Jan. 3.—(BUP)—A fire which destroyed a large building on a chicken farm on the outskirts of Winnipeg this morning threatened to envelop Number Seven Air Training Centre. The farm which burned was north of the air school, and a north wind was blowing.

Members of the Security Guard of the RCAF aided in fighting the blaze but the farm was a total loss. About one thousand chickens were burned.

Bermuda Message

LONDON, Jan. 3.—(CP)—Eight large packing cases of clothing have arrived at London from Bermuda, bearing the inscription "goods win through—London will too," the British Broadcasting Corporation reported last night.

Greek Aid

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Harold S. Vanderbilt, honorary chairman of the Greek War Relief Association, said Thursday $1,000,000 had been cabled to Athens for the aid of the civilian and wounded

Von Luckner Is Believed To Be Raider Commander

LONDON, Jan. 3.—(CP)—Naval circles said Thursday night the commander of a wide-ranging and destructive German raider in the Pacific "probably" is Count Felix von Luckner, first Great War commander of the German raider Seeadler.

These sources said they knew von Luckner went to the United States soon after the war began and that although he was not a regular officer in the Nazi navy, the command of a Pacific raider was the sort of a job he would get.

BULGAR PREMIER IN VIENNA; MAY SEE RIBBENTROP

By FREDERICK OECHSNER

BERLIN, Jan. 3.—(UP)—The question of Bulgaria's relations with the axis powers was brought to the forefront of interest in Berlin diplomatic quarters today by arrival of Bulgarian Premier Bogdan Filoff in Vienna and constantly recurring rumors of German troop concentrations on the Bulgarian frontier.

Interest was increased by the fact that Filoff, ostensibly in Vienna to consult a medical specialist, was accompanied by the German minister to Bulgaria, Herbert von Richtofen.

The question of Bulgarian relations with Germany and Italy was more to the forefront than at any time since Sofia a month ago was expected to join the tri-parrite military alliance.

It was certain that Filoff had not yet seen German Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop, but German authorized quarters decline to say whether he might not see him within the next few days.

However, it was generally assumed here that there was no reason to believe now that German-Bulgarian talks at this juncture would have any connection with adherence by Bulgaria to the Axis pact.

Replying to inquiries about German troop movements in the Balkans, authorized German quarters said that "Germany has vital interests in southwest Europe and will not tolerate 'foreign influences' in that area."

FORMER NAZI WAR MINISTER NOW PRISONER

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The British Broadcasting Corporation, in a broadcast heard here by the National Broadcasting Company, declared Thursday that Marshal Werner Von Blomberg, one-time German minister of war, is imprisoned in a Bavarian fortress by personal order of Hitler.

This deepens the eclipse into which Von Blomberg fell because of his marriage on Jan. 12, 1938 to a carpenter's daughter named Erika Grohn.

Hitler himself attended the wedding about which the German high command was distressed. It was said Von Blomberg's fellow staff members felt he had married out of his class.

He resigned almost immediately as war minister and went with his bride on a honeymoon to Capri.

Hitler chose the incident as the occasion for a thorough house cleaning in which he ousted 13 high officers and took personal charge of all German armed forces.

MORE VESSELS ON LIFELINES BRITISH NEED

London Seeking Additional U.S. Destroyers For Convoy Duty

LONDON, Jan. 3.—(CP)—Britain was said reliably Thursday night to be seeking additional United States destroyers for convoy duty and to use as anti-submarine patrols on her trans-Atlantic routes.

An informant, who termed this one of the most important ways in which the United States could expand her aid, intimated the destroyer question and the need for cargo ships to replace those being sunk, would be among the first matters brought up when Viscount Halifax arrives in Washington as the new British ambassador.

FOOD SUPPLY

British maritime circles pointed to the recent assertion of Food Minister Lord Woolton that "the danger is much worse than it was in the last war."

To all this, they said, the only answer is more convoy and hurting craft.

In 16 months of war approximately 4,500,000 tons of British, allied and neutral shipping has been estimated by some sources to have gone down. In the entire period from 1914 to 1919 Britain lost 7,759,000 tons of merchant shipping and in that war Britain had United States shipping which now is kept from British waters by neutrality laws.

TAKE OVER ROUTES

From time to time during the last year Britain and United States shipping circles are understood to have discussed the possibility of a working agreement to have United States ships take over British routes in South American and Pacific waters, aand thus release British merchantmen for service in the Atlantic.

This would give work to some United States ships thrown out of service by the neutrality law. One source said that while Britain needs more cargo ships, an ever graver need is for more destroyers to escort them.

"The more unprotected ships there are on the Atlantic routes tne more targets," he added. "We want destroyers to protect them and to hunt and catch and kill the submarine and surface raiders."

U.S. May Strengthen Britain's Lifelines

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—(AP)—This capital has heard talk that the administration soon might take further steps to strengthen Britain's sea lifelines, but no announcement has been made.

It has been known for some time that Britain feels the need for additional destroyers and additional cargo craft.

There is an inclination on the part of some navy officials to oppose transfer of additional over-age destroyers, unless the United States gets an exchange comparable to the base sites which Britain leased to the United States in return for 50 destroyers given her last year.

The United States recently increased its destroyer construction program to provide 40 more destroyers than was contemplated under the original two-ocean navy plan. At the same time the navy placed orders for about 30 new submarine chasers.

In some quarters, it was suggested that Britain might acquire some of these light, swift chasers to aid in hunting down U-boats.

RUMANIA SAYS GERMANS ONLY TRAIN TROOPS

By HENRY T. GORRELL

BUCHAREST, Jan. 3—(BUP)—Rumanian official quarters asserted today that German troop movements in Rumania were intended to defend Rumania's integrity under a guarantee given last summer.

An official when asked the meaning of the accelerated movement of men and material into Rumania said that "emphasis should be placed on material and not men."

"We have men but lack material," he asserted. "This material is now being brought to Rumania in ever increasing quantities with only sufficient German troops to handle it and instruct our troops to make the best use of it."

Official Bucharest quarters expressed disbelief of persistent reports that Germany was preparing for a drive against Russia, or against Greece through Bulgaria.

But diplomatic circles are inclined to attribute more importance to the influx of German troop and material than are Rumanian officials. Recent diplomatic arrivals from the southeast have asserted that the Turks were ready to move if necessary.

Wheat In Store At Record Level

Engineers Will Dynamite Bombed London Buildings

LONDON, Jan. 3—(CP)—Dynamiting all buildings damaged by the German fire-bomb raid on London's "city" last Sunday night with the exception of some of the most ancient churches planned by military engineers, informed sources said today.

Damaged buildings near these churches will be pulled down.

A block of buildings in Falcon street, Aldersgate, just north of the Guildhall and St. Paul's cathedral was blown up today.

The first big blast in the demolition work was set off yesterday and shook all central London.

MONARCHY FOR FRANCE, BERNE REPORT HINTS

Petain Negotiating For the Return Of Napoleonic Regime, Stated

By CHARLES S. FOLTZ, JR.

BERNE, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Possibility that a modern "L'Aiglon" might rule France was disclosed today when it was learned that the government of Marshal Philippe Petain and Bonapartists, are negotiating for the return of Napoleon's great grand-nephew, last of the emperor's line.

Since Hitler's gesture in returning the ashes of the original "L'Aiglon," Bonaparte's ill-fated son who never saw France, the name of the dark and handsome young prince has been mentioned frequently among royalists.

Hitler's action was said by some observers to be a forerunner of the Napoleonic restoration, but friends of Louis Napoleon Jerome Victor Emmanuel Marie say he would not be a puppet ruler.

He now lives quietly in Switzerland.

Prior to learning of the current negotiations, Gringoire, most widely read French weekly, published a laudatory article about the 26-year-old prince.

Since Petain took office, it was learned authoritatively, the supporters of the Count of Montfort, as he is called, have been seeking to have the Vichy government abrogate the law forbidding the return to France of any male descendent of a French ruling family.

Abrogation of the law would be the first step in restoration of the young prince over his one rival, the Count of Paris, the pretender to the old Bourbon-Orleans line. The next would be obtaining the blessing of Hitler, which perhaps is more necessary than that of Petain.

The prince, an extremely active youth, is unmarried.

FRENCH NAVAL VESSEL, SUB ARE REPORTED SUNK

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The British Broadcasting Corporation today said the French admiralty had announced at Vichy that the "submarine Sfax and the auxiliary naval vessel Rhone sank after heavy explosions on their way from Casablanca (French Morocco) to Dakar (French West Africa)."

Jane's Fighting Ships lists the Sfax as one of the "very successful" ocean-going Redoubtable class, with a surface tonnage of 1,384 and armed with one 3.9-inch gun, two anti-aircraft guns and 11 torpedo tubes. The 2,785-ton Rhone is listed as an oil tanker.

The broadcast was picked up by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

DISCOVERY OF NEW OIL FIELD IS ANNOUNCED

Standard Oil Of British Columbia Tells Of New Alberta Field

CALGARY, Jan. 3.—(CP)—Discovery of a new Alberta oil field, climaxing a search carried on for years in this province, was announced Thursday by officials of Standard Oil of British Columbia, subsidiary of Standard Oil of California.

The Standard Company's C.P.R.-Princess No. 2 well, located in eastern Alberta 1½ miles from Princess siding and five and a half east and one mile south of Patricia, is flowing crude oil into a sump, with 75 pounds back pressure, at a rate of about 160 barrels a day.

John Galloway, Alberta superintendent for Standard, said tankage would be installed at the location as quickly as possible. The well will be acidized and given a thorough production test.

CLASSED AS "IMPORTANT"

Mr. Galloway said that even if the present production was not improved by [illegible] yield at the present rate, would certainly mean that the Princess area could be classed an important crude oil field.

Outside Turner Valley, no oil well in Alberta, despite a search carried on for more than 20 years, has produced steadily at a rate of 160 barrels or more of crude oil daily.

Oil from the Standard well is coming from the top of the Madison limestone, the same formation which is productive of crude oil in Turner Valley.

The well was drilled down to 4,250 feet and then plugged back. The present oil yield is coming from 100 feet of open hole between 3,335 feet and 3,325 feet.

ATTRACT CAPITAL

Fred Graham, vice-president of the Alberta Petroleum Association, said the strike was "a great thing for Alberta." It would attract capital for development and, because of the war, the striking of a new field in Canada was of the greatest importance.

A great deal of the oil acreage in the Princess area is held by the Standard Company. A royalty of 12½ per cent is payable to the Canadian Pacific Railway. No royalty, it is understood, is payable to the provincial government which obtains a substantial revenue from many Turner Valley producers.

When Standard of British Columbia first commenced a search for crude in Alberta, under Mr. Galloway's direction in 1938, it was indicated that if a crude oil were discovered, Standard would engage in refining and marketing of petroleum products in Alberta.

LONDON ORDERS REDUCTION IN MEAT RATIONS

LONDON, Jan. 3.—(CP)—The food ministry Thursday ordered reduction in the weekly meat ration effective Jan. 6 from the equivalent of 50 cents to about 42 cents in Canadian money.

From that date pork and some other meats will be included in the rationed list, which will affect supplies issued by canteens, caterers and residential establishments.

The ministry warned that full [illegible] this week-end.

Manufactured meat products are not affected.

Earlier yesterday the food ministry, without explanation, announced cancellation of a concession whereby purchasers were to be permitted to buy two weeks' supply of meat at one time in 1941. The concession was announced November, 1940.

Big Ben Chimes Skip Note Due To Machinery

LONDON, Jan. 3.—(CP)—The famous chimes of Big Ben have been "skipping a note" since Wednesday, the British Broadcasting Corporation said Thursday night.

"It now has been explained that the chimes are intact but a slight fault has developed in the mechanism," the B.B.C. said. "When this is remedied the note will be restored."

The B.B.C. said the fault "is not [illegible]

Officers On Way To Australia To Man Queen Mary

HONOLULU, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The British motorship Aorangi arrived today bearing four British officers, including Capt. W. F. Nattle, reported en route to Australia to take command of the Queen Mary.

Capt. T. V. Mickey, of the Aorangi, said the ship would continue toward the Antipodes. Asked what he would do if he met the German raider reported operating in the south Pacific, Captain Mickey replied.

"I'd turn and run like hell!"

POPULATION OF U.S. TERRITORIES SHOWS INCREASE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—(BUP)—The population of the United States territories and possessions, excluding the Philippine Islands where no census was taken, totaled 2,595,956 on April 1. This was a gain of 441,933 or 20.7 per cent above the 1930 [illegible] census [illegible].

The rate of increase in the outlying possessions, boosted by rapid rises in the canal zone, Samoa and Alaska, was far above the 7.2 per cent rate for continental United States.

The most rapid gainer was the canal zone, where the population increased 12,360, or 31.3 per cent during the decade from 39,467 to 51,827. A large part of the gain was due to increases in military personnel.

All told, 134,265,231 persons were living under the American flag on April 1, a rise of 9,339,162 or 7.5 per cent over the 124,926,069 registered 10 years ago. An approximate estimate of 16,356,000 persons in the Philippine Islands would boost the total to 150,621,231.

War And Social Welfare Work To Be Theme Of New Year

Ukrainian Women's Association Plans Varied Program Of Activity For Coming Year As Delegates Gather For Annual Meeting

DECISION to continue their program of war and social work that has held the interest of members during the past year was agreed upon unanimously by 100 delegates attending the 11th annual convention of the Alberta provincial executive of the Ukrainian Women's Association recently.

The convention was held in the Parish hall of the Ukrainian Greek Orthodox church. Delegates also pledged full co-operation and support to the newly formed Canadian Ukrainian organization and the Canadian government in its present war state.

Provincial president during the past six years, Mrs. D. Yanda, resigned her post owing to ill health. Her position has been filled by Mrs. V. Syrotuck. Mrs. M. Tkachuk of Saskatoon, national president of the Ukrainian Women's Association and Mrs. Yanda were named honorary presidents.

GROWTH DURING YEAR

Mrs. Tkachuk, who attended the convention, commented upon the progress and growth of affiliated branches throughout the Dominion and of their loyal support in Canada's war work. Mrs. E. Verchomin, a delegate to the national convention at Saskatoon, gave a brief report of the resolutions and plans adopted for 1941.

Need for more clubs or organizations for girls was stressed by Mrs. Symchyk of Andrew, Alberta.

Reports were also presented by Miss A. Romanchych, Mrs. Yanda, provincial president, Mrs. Verchomin, recording secretary and Mrs. V. Syrotuck, treasurer.

A tea was arranged for the delegates to the convention and the proceeds amounting to $21 were donated to the ambulance fund being sponsored by the Ukrainian Women's Association of Canada.

EXECUTIVE

Former City Man Marries In Ontario

Interest of many friends in Edmonton, where the bridegroom formerly resided and where his parents still reside is centred in the marriage ceremony performed in the Anglican Church at Thamesford, Ontario recently, when Mr. James Walker of Brantford and Miss Mona Irene Barker also of Brantford were married. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Barker and the late Mr. Barker of England.

The bridegroom, who has many friends in business and social circles in Edmonton, his former home, is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Walker of this city, and a nephew of Hon. J. A. MacKinnon, minister of trade and commerce in the Dominion government and M.P. for West Edmonton.

They have since taken up residence at 1[illegible] Street, Brantford, where Mr. Walker is connected with the Cockshutt Plow Co. Ltd.

Navy Mothers Are Entertained At Social Afternoon

Seventy-five members of the Navy Mothers' Club met at the Memorial Hall on Thursday afternoon for a business and social gathering. Mrs. R. M. Shaver, president of the club, presided.

During the meeting four large boxes of comforts were packed for shipment to the boys serving in the Royal Canadian Navy on both coasts. Mrs. D. L. Campbell read several letters of appreciation received by the club following the sending of Christmas boxes to a number of the boys.

'The Tempest' To Be Given In January

Bringing to Edmonton theatre audiences another of the well-loved Shakespearian dramas, the Edmonton Little Theatre will present "The Tempest" in the Masonic Temple on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week.

The play is under the direction of Mr. Leslie Pilcher, who has long been prominent in Little Theatre work, and whose directorial ability is well-known in the city.

Assisting Mr. Pilcher is Mr. George McCarthy and in the opening ship scene Mr. Arnold Murray, an ex-master mariner and Mr. Jack Unwin, who was attached to the Canadian Navy for three years, are aiding the director.

Taking the feminine lead in the play is Mrs. Alan Macdonald. Mrs. Macdonald has appeared in many Edmonton theatrical performances in the past few years.

Aiding in the stage production are Mrs. H. G. Turner, who is directing the music; Mrs. Mary Spankie, in charge of the dances; and Mrs. O. J. Walker, costume mistress; and Harvey K[illegible], make-up.

CAST

Members of the cast are as follows: Cliff Fisher, as Alonzo, King of Naples; Alec Graham, as Sebastian, his brother; Arold Murray, as Prospero, the right Duke of Milan; Jack Deeny, as Antonio, his brother, the usurping Duke of Milan; Jack Unwin, as Ferdinand, son to the King of Naples; [illegible] as Gonzalo, an honest old councillor; Ted McCourtney as Francisco; Harry Weitz as Adrian; H[illegible] as Caliban; D. Dorothy Dix Says:

The problem of how to keep their teen-age children home of evenings is one over which parents grow gray and acquire wrinkles before their time. Ever since they carried home the little pink and blue bundles from the maternity hospital they have been looking forward to the day when their children would be companions to them and they would spend long, pleasant evenings with their offspring gathered about their knees. But when Johnny and Mamie get adolescent all these dreams go blooey. Johnny and Mamie evince no craving for their parents' society, and apparently they regard their homes as only places in which to eat and sleep and change their clothes and get away from as quickly as possible.

Now of course, the reasons why children do not want to stay at home of evenings are many and varied. One is that they are gregarious by nature and like to run in herds. It is only after we get old that we learn to entertain ourselves.

Another reason is that only the same ages have anything in common and old people bore young people just as much as cooing babies do adults.

And still another reason why the between-ages want to step out instead of staying in, is because home cramps their style. They want to strut their age. They want to pose as men and women instead of kids, and they can't do that at home.

Another reason why children don't stay at home of evenings is because home is so often made a jail for them and their parents constitute themselves their keepers, and the natural human impulse is to break out of any place in which we are imprisoned.

Now I would humbly suggest that the parents who wish to keep their children at home should begin by reforming themselves, which can be done, instead of trying to reform the children, which can't be done.

Let them recognize that half-grown girls and boys are no longer infants to be amused with building block houses and want to be tucked into bed at 7 o'clock.

Play up to their own ideas about themselves. Don't confine your conversation with them to criticizing them and saying "don't." Make home a place where they will be sure of admiration and encouragement.

Print welcome on your doormat and let them feel free to bring in their friends, and see that they have a good time when they come. Make your home the pleasantest place they know and your children will stay in it. DOROTHY DIX.

Your Figure, Madame!

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Women blame birthdays they won't admit having for the fact that they have acquired too much weight.

But you should not take on more weight as you slip past the milestones. You are never entitled to more weight than warranted by your structure. Let's see what that may be—the figure is apt to be quite different than specified by the so-called "standard charts."

It is your frame that determines the amount you can weight and be slim. With a slight frame, allow 100 pounds for the first five feet of height; with a medium frame, 105 pounds; a heavy frame, 110 pounds.

Then, to your basic weight add five pounds for each inch by which your height exceeds five feet—or, should you happen to be less than five feet tall, subtract five pounds for each missing inch.

It may be that you have an exceptionally heavy frame and would look and feel with a more generous weight allowance. In that case, an additional ten per cent of the total weight may be allowed.

Let's suppose that you are five feet four. We find that perfect weight for that height may vary from 120 pounds to 143 pounds—the latter includes the extra ten per cent and is the most any woman of that height should weigh.

110 STANDARD

The way to be normal weight for your structure but to look and feel ultra-slim is to streamline your measurements. Again there is no "standard" for a given height. The important thing is to have measurements that are in proportion to each other.

Ideally, the waist line should be from eight to ten inches smaller than the bust and the hips should not measure more than two inches larger than the bust.

Take your measurements and see how they tally. First circle the tape across the center of the breasts to get the bust measurement. Then draw the tape comfortably snug around the waist—but don't squeeze. To measure the hips, keep the tape level and circle it about the largest portion to include the derriere.

If your figure is just average, you may find that you need to slim from three to four inches off the waist, an equal number off the hips, and to improve the posture and bust—but don't be discouraged. You can have beautiful proportions. All you have to do is stick with the diet and exercises given in this series.

Women no longer accept a middle-aged figure as inevitable. No one has to put up with ugly pounds and disfiguring inches and the slim woman is both lovelier and healthier.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Nature has certain laws which a child must learn to respect so as not to be penalized and harmed by ignorance and indifference to them. A child has to be told that fire burns, sharp instruments cut, the law of gravity is inescapable.

There are innumerable parents who state blithely that a child should learn by experience. Once he touches something hot he won't touch it again. One mother makes the point that Eddy once put his hand on the hot oven of the gas stove and now gives it a wide berth when he goes through the kitchen.

WRONG METHOD

This is a method of teaching which seems to me both cruel and unnecessary. What we should be busy teaching our children every day of their lives is that they can depend upon our word, so that when we say, "Matches burn, better not touch them unless mother is there to show you how," the child will have faith and confidence in our word.

It would be a sorry child, indeed, in fact it might be a dead one, who had to learn for himself all the numerous natural laws and the penalties for their infraction. Obviously, no one will contend in all seriousness that the only way a child will learn that he can't lean too far out of a window, without falling, is to let him fall out and discover that it's true. This same protection which we give to the child in these more serious situations should be given in all others which have a dangerous penalty attached to them.

We want our children to learn and to be cautious, not from constant fear of pain and the dangers of everything connected with living, but because they trust us to tell them what they shall not do because there is danger attached.

No child is going to refuse to heed the parent's warnings unless she has mis-used her influence by uttering senseless, silly threats which the child discovers do not materialize.

When the child is too young to be trusted, he must be protected from harm. When he is old enough for explanation he should be given them, and, what is more important, constant practice in the use of the common household appliances, so that by both wisdom and caution and experiment in their use, they become harmless to him.

Our leaflet on "Early Discipline" suggests how to deal with children at the early, investigative and curious period. To get a copy of it send your request with a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope to Mrs. Eldred of the Your Baby and Mine department in care of this newspaper.

BLACKDAMP GAS IS NOT BLACK NOR GAS

Black damp gas is a complete misnomer. It is not black; not damp, and it is not a gas in the usual sense of the word. It is ordinary atmosphere which lacks the essential gas we call oxogen. It is not poisonous; it merely lacks the oxygen necessary for life. It forms often in coal mines where the oxygen has united with the coal, timber and other objects. It suffocates the miners. It does not poison them.

Fish Chowders Make Appetizing Meals

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

Fish chowders have an honorable tradition in this country. They provide fine flavor, high grade nutrition and meals-in-a-dish for little money, and less kitchen labor. Therefore, they belong in the private cook book of women determined to keep their food standards high despite budget restrictions.

With a slightly Spanish-American accent comes this recipe:

SPANISH-AMERICAN FISH CHOWDER

(Serves 4 to 6)

Two trips lean bacon, chopped; ¾ cup tomatoes (fresh or canned), 1 cup diced raw potatoes, 1 cup raw fish, shredded (save bones and skin), 1 green pepper, chopped; 1 medium onion, chopped.

Following order given, place ingredients in alternate layers in double boiler. Season with pepper and salt.

Cover fish bones and skin with 1½ cups water. Boil for ½ hour. Add more water if necessary to keep 1½ cups for final measuring. Strain and pour over mixture in double boiler. Boil ½ hour, without stirring.

NEW ENGLAND FISH CHOWDER

(Serves 4 to 6)

One pound fish, ½ cup diced salt pork, 2 medium onions, minced; 3 medium potatoes, diced; 2 cups scalded milk, 3 tablespoons butter, salt and pepper, pilot crackers.

Cook head, bones, skin and all trimmings of fish in water for 20 minutes. Strain stock and add enough boiling water to make 4 cups of liquid. Cut cleaned fish into cubes. Roll in seasoned flour. Fry salt pork until brown. Remove pork, and brown onions in fat. Combine pork, onions, potatoes and fish in large saucepan. Add strained fish stock. Cover and simmer without stirring until potatoes and fish are tender. Then add scalded milk, butter and seasoning to taste. Bring to boil and serve at once. Break pilot biscuit into chowder.

Sunday's Menu

Dinner: Pot roast of beef, buttered noodles, buttered broccoli, hearts of celery, lemon meringue pie, coffee, milk.

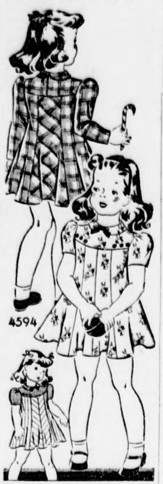
Bulletin Patterns

Kiddies Gay Panelled Style



A healthy, active youngster needs clothes with free 'n' easy lines—and Pattern 4594 by Anne Adams is the perfect answer. Its panelled style is a double blessing, for its wonderfully geared-to-action, with no binding or twisting, and the seams are easy-as-pie for mother to stitch. See the smart bias-cut of the center panels. The shoulders are kept trim by front and back yokes that curve all across. Let the sleeves be short or long, and if you decide upon short sleeves you might make them in cheery contrast, with the front and back yokes to match. Don't miss the bloomers or pantie included in the adorable kiddie style. Use the Sewing Instructor for speedy dressmaking!

Pattern 4594 is available in children's sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 6, short-sleeved dress, takes 2 yards 35 inch fabric; long-sleeved dress 1½ yards 54 inch fabric.

Send twenty cents in coins for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly size, name, address and style number. Send your order to The Edmonton Bulletin, Pattern Department, 60 Front Street West, Toronto, Ontario.

If You Are Home Nurse Have Right Information

Care Confidently for Family Ills

Winter is here, adding to the problems of the home nurse, making it more important than ever to have right information. Colds—what a bogey they are if you don't know their proper care!

But when you do know, how quickly and effectively you can act. What to do if a cold has settled in your patient's chest? Nothing's better than a mustard plaster.

For an adult, mix one part mustard to three parts flour and add hot water to make a paste. Spread thinly over half a piece of muslin, leaving an inch around the three edges. Now fold edges over and turn the other half of the muslin down over the paste.

After applying olive oil to your patient's chest, put on the plaster and cover with flannel. When the skin turns pink, remove plaster, put flannel on chest.

Armed with sound information you nurse all sorts of ills confidently. Jammed fingers? Put under hot and cold water alternately until the pain subsides. A bed patient to care for?

In our 32-page booklet a registered nurse explains routine care of bed patients, post-operative patients. Tells symptoms and nursing of contagious diseases and common ills; gives advice on baby care, what to do in accidents.

Send 15 cents in coins for your copy of "What You Should Know About Nursing" to The Edmonton Bulletin, Home Service Department, 60 Front Street West, Toronto, Ontario. Be sure to write plainly your Name, Address, and the Name of Booklet.

Please allow a week or ten days for delivery.

Minute Make-Ups

Face powder is the oldest of cosmetics and the most respectable. In the right shade and texture it does refine the skin, so far as appearances go, and give it a glow. Some powders have a cold cream base to make them stick, and there are various weights. In general, however, the best powders are the finest, that is, composed of the most minute particles. They cling without obscuring the natural beauty of a healthy, well-cared-for skin.

Powder should never be rubbed into the face but patted on with a puff and the excess whisked off with a clean puff or brush. It is a good idea to powder your best feature first, as it generally gets the most powder and it is not wise to highlight a poor feature.

Foul Play Feared

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 3.—(CP)—Police said last night they are investigating the possibility that Edward Jarvis, 33-year-old salesman of London, has been a victim of foul play. Jarvis has been missing since last Saturday.

FEMALE PAIN

Women who suffer painful, irregular periods with nervous, moody spells due to functional causes should find Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound very effective to relieve such distress. Pinkham's Compound is made especially to help such weak, tired women during difficult days. Thousands of women have reported remarkable benefits. Made in Canada. WORTH TRYING! Any drugstore.

AUTOMOTIVE WORDS

Here's a list of 30 five-letter words that are familiar to everyone who drives a car. It is possible to make an acrostic with the middle letters of some of these words, but can you make an 11-letter acrostic that spells something important to every automobilist? Use only 11 words of the following list:

AXLES
DOORS

CANADA MUST PROVE WORTHY OF HER YOUTH

People's Duty To Back War Effort Deputy Minister States

WINNIPEG, Jan. 3—(CP)—Relief of Britain and "The eventual crushing of the Hun and all he stands for" is Canada's solemn determination, "and we shall not rest until it is accomplished," Jas. S. Duncan, acting deputy air minister, said today.

"Britain has withstood the worst the enemy can do, has withstood this in a year of relative unreadiness," he told a joint luncheon meeting of service clubs under auspices of the Canadian club of Winnipeg.

"The time now is at hand when our aid to her will assume real proportions. It cannot come too soon for us."

PROUD OF YOUTH

Mr. Duncan said that during his nine months as deputy minister he had received a "great impression" of the contribution made by Canadian youth to the British Commonwealth Air Training plan. The youth of the country was all right—the country had every reason to be proud of them.

If he had any concern, it was whether "We who stay at home" would prove worthy of the country's youth.

"It is up to us to see that the wheels of our war industry are kept turning to maximum capacity, to accept the sacrifices and readjustments that are necessary to feed the war machine and to do so ungrudgingly, to find the money to finance our effort and to give it with both hands, to sink our petty differences and present a united home front to our enemies," he said.

"And then we have another job and another responsibility—the job of planning to make this dominion a fit one for these young men to live in when they return to us. . . .

"The initiative and zeal, the selflessness and hardihood with which our young men have attacked their wartime duties, qualify them to play a leading part in the affairs of this nation when peace is once more re-established. It will be up to us who remain at home to see the way is cleared for them."

WAR TO WIN

But first there was a war to win. Prime Minister Churchill had pointed to the new year with confidence.

"We here in Canada . . . have no illusions of the difficulties and the hardships which lie before us, but we of the British empire have proven that we can take it.

"Our armed forces will find no doubt the action which they have been hankering for, and our airmen particularly will answer to the call of the sky. . . ."

Mr. Duncan said the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan was no longer a plan, but a "great air training administration in production.

"Our airmen are already in the skies over England, and scarcely a week goes by but that their number is increased and their shadow lengthened over the vain-glorious Germany."

TRAINING ADVANCES

During 1940, twice as many airmen were sent overseas as had been contemplated originally. Plans which were to be completed by the spring of 1942 would be in full operation by September this year.

This could not have been accomplished without the "spendid spirit" of officers and men of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

"The young men from the west have been outstanding in this regard," Mr. Duncan said. "Canada has none better to offer."

Already 28 units of the air training plan were operating in other western provinces and before September it was hoped to have 44 in operation. These units would have a staff of something like 15,000 officers and men whose job it would be to train "thousands upon thousands" of air crew students.

When plans were fully matured, there would be 83 schools from coast to coast, staffed by more than 40,000 officers and men.

Of the flying schools, 37 would be in the west and 39 in the east. He was sure the figures would convince anyone there had been no discrimination against the west in locating schools, especially when the population ratio was 39 to 13 in favor of the east.

OVERCOME SECTIONALISM

Mr. Duncan said the training system was designed to reduce to a minimum the amount of moving between points in Canada before sailing overseas, but a good deal of moving around was unavoidable because of the numbers of men involved.

"This . . . may incidentally help to overcome that sectionalism and provincialism which is the penalty we have to pay for the size and diversity of our country," he said. "Perhaps in this new generation those in the east may come to realize we have a west worth preserving, and those in the west many find there are some real people living in the east—even, possibly in Toronto."

FEW ACCIDENTS

He asked his audience to consider the "occasional and tragic" accident which had occurred under the training program in relation to hours flown and the unparalleled activity from Atlantic to Pacific.

He repeated figures released by the air ministry in Ottawa last month—29 fatal flying accidents during 168,000 flying hours since the training plan was started. This meant one fatal accident in 5,800 flying hours.

"I should like to say . . . that tragic as these accidents have been, they have been less numerous than was anticipated, based upon the flying record of other comparable training plans."

AMBULANCE CAR ON FIRST TRIP ACROSS CANADA

CALGARY, Jan. 3.—(CP)—The new ambulance railway car of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps passed through Calgary Thursday on its maiden trip across Canada.

It was a former sleeping car of the Canadian National Railways which was re-designed as an ambulance car for taking care of wounded men or invalids returning to Canada. Berths have been taken out and eight hospital beds have been placed, four along each side, in the centre section of the car. Above the beds are single-sized upper berths, so the car can take care of 16 patients at one time.

The medical staff of the car includes a captain doctor of the R.C.A.M.C., two nursing sisters and two orderlies. The present staff is all from Halifax.

American Cities Retain Rankings In Population

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3—(AP)—Rankings of the major cities in the United States changed little under the 1940 census, the census bureau said Thursday.

The first 10 cities are: New York, 7,454,995; Chicago, 3,396,808; Philadelphia, 1,941,334; Detroit, 1,623,452; Los Angeles, 1,504,277; Cleveland, 878,336; Baltimore, 859,100; St. Louis, 816,048; Boston, 770,816; and Pittsburgh, 671,659.

These were the same 10 cities at the top of the list in the 1930 census and the rankings were the same except that in the decade Baltimore took seventh place away from St. Louis.

WOLFE, QUEBEC HERO, HONORED BY CANADIANS

Army Commanders Attend Function—Tribute Paid French-Canadians

WESTERHAM, England, Jan. 3.—(CP)—In this Kent village, where he was born 214 years ago, the Canadian 1st Division Thursday honored James Wolfe, hero of the capture of Quebec.

Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C., of Calgary, commander of the division, was chairman of a luncheon held in Pitt's cottage, the house where the elder Pitt, then Prime Minister of Britain, lived when Quebec fell.

PLANNED CAMPAIGN

It was in the same room that Pitt and Wolfe planned the campaign that led to the fall of Quebec in 1759.

Attending the luncheon were the Duke of Devonshire, under-secretary of the India office; Hon. J. L. Ralston, Canadian defence minister; Hon. C. D. Howe, Canadian supply minister; Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian high commissioner; Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, general officer commanding the Canadian Corps; Maj.-Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, Canadian chief of staff; Maj.-Gen. Victor W. Odlum, commander of the Canadian 2nd Division; Maj.-Gen. P. J. Montague, senior officer of Canadian military headquarters at London; Col. A. A. Magee, Mr. Ralston's military adviser, and officers of leading formations of the 1st Division.

FRENCH-CANADIANS

Gen. Pearkes paid tribute to French-Canadian regiments now a part of the Canadian Corps, giving special attention in ihs remarks to a Quebec regiment which is descended directly from a regiment of French Canada that fought the British forces at Quebec.

"There is no regiment of which I am more proud in my whole division," he said.

He recalled to the luncheon party that there are four regiments in his division affiliated with British regiments which fought at Quebec.

Proposing the toast to the memory of Wolfe, the Duke of Devonshire said: "Our cause today is the same as the cause for which Wolfe fought and died. It is a happy chance to link the living with the dead in one continuing fellowship of free men."

BEST QUALITIES

Mr. Ralston said: "In Canada we have taken the best qualities in the French and English and welded them together to make a distinctive Canadian nationhood. On the threshold of the new year Canada unitedly and wholeheartedly sets herself to the task of preserving that freedom on which that nationhood is based."

After the luncheon, Mr. Howe placed a wreath on the Wolfe monument in the village square, while several thousand townsfolk crowded around and representative sections from 1st Division formations were drawn up before the monument. The guard of honor was from a central Canadian regiment, and the band of a maritime regiment played.

Mr. Ralston and Gen. Pearkes later visited historic Quebec House in Westerham.

CAMP TRAINING DUE TO RESUME ON JANUARY 10

OTTAWA, Jan. 3.—(CP)—Activity at the reserve army training centres across Canada will resume its normal pace next week and preparations now are being made for training the third class of recruits called up under the National Resources Mobilization Act.

The men, in the age classes from 21 to 25, are due to report Jan. 10 at 38 training centres.

Before the third class completes its training it is likely a decision will be reached on whether further classes should train for longer periods. The present compulsory training period is 30 days but a lengthening of the period is under consideration.

Definite decision is not expected until Defence Minister Ralston returns from overseas. The quota of men for all war services administrative divisions on the third training period is 28,750.

ENEMY RAIDER SANK BRITISH SHIP AT DAWN

Big Liner Was Shelled Without Warning Passengers Relate

MELBOURNE, Jan. 3.—(CP)—Destruction of the big British liner Rangitane by a German raider which stole alongside an hour before dawn and fired without warning was described Monday by survivors of the disaster.

They were among 496 survivors of seven ships rescued by Australian ships after being marooned Dec. 21 on the Island of Emirau, near New Guinea, by the sea raider and a Nazi supply ship of which they had been imprisoned when their ships were sunk.

Rangitang's quartermaster, L. Valerie, said he was at the wheel on the morning of Nov. 26 when he noticed the black shape of another vessel nearby.

OPENED FIRE

At once the stranger opened fire, he said. The first shot crashed through the steering gear and threw the Rangitane out of control.

Other shells screamed into the 16,712-ton vessel rapidly, he said, killing six stewardesses in their rooms.

"Ship's Surgeon Crawford," Valerie said, "gave first aid and the stewards gathered the dead and injured in blankets. There was no time to get stretchers."

Valerie and other survivors said the shelling continued even as they were trying to reach the boats.

Two brothers named Stickfuss, from the engine room, died of wounds they received.

"NEVER WHIMPERED"

A Mrs. Logan, sitting beside her 10-year-old son, Jimmie, who had part of his leg blown away by a shell, said:

"I half-carried Jimmie and his brother Brian to a lifeboat. As I did so I realized that Jimmie was hit, but he never whimpered.

"To think we were only three miles from home in Nauru when it all happened."

GREATER FARM OUTPUT URGED BY MINISTERS

Federal, Provincial Heads Move To Enlarge Production, Ontario

OTTAWA, Jan. 3.—(CP)—Agriculture Minister Gardiner and Hon. P. M. Dewan, Ontario minister, began telephone negotiations Thursday with the idea of holding a meeting of their department officials to see what policies can be developed to insure increased Ontario farm production.

It will be a few days before negotiations are completed, but the idea of the preliminary negotiations was to arrange a meeting soon, probably in London, Ont.

Officials of the Ontario and dominion agriculture departments met in Ottawa in December but at the time discussions were confined to matters of administration. The meeting now under consideration would be attended by both ministers with power in matters of policy and backed by the expert advice of their senior officials.

PRODUCTION SLOW

Primary object of any such conference would be steps to insure against a fall off in bacon and cheese production. Reports reaching the capital indicate a slow-up in production of these commodities in which Canada is endeavoring to increase the flow to the United Kingdom in 1941.

Aside from the danger of slackening bacon and cheese output, other pressing questions to be considered are: whether feed prices are too high in relations to bacon and cheese prices, and if so should the government bonus movement of feed grain from the prairies to Ontario; whether or not there is a real feed grain shortage in Ontario and whether a labor shortage is likely to cut into farm production.

At the December meeting in Ottawa the view was expressed there was a shortage of feed in Ontario and it should be met by moving feed grain from western Canada. Since then, departmental officials say there is a difference of opinion whether or not Ontario has a shortage.

KEEP UP SHIPMENTS

There have been instances brought to the government's attention where numbers of young sows have been sent to slaughter houses instead of being kept on farms for breeding purposes. Officials say if this trend became widespread it might hampen bacon production. The objective is to increase Canadian shipments of bacon and hams to 425,600,000 pounds in 1941 from 321,000,000 in 1940.

Present plans of the bacon board in the event pork production falls off are to keep up the flow of bacon to the United Kingdom even if Canadians have to eat less. Board officials estimate domestic consumption could be cut 1,000,000 pounds a week without any Canadian suffering. There is an abundance of other meats.

Canada has undertaken to supply 112,000,000 pounds of cheese to the United Kingdom this year compared with 90,000,000 pounds last year. In the face of this there is a tendency to produce more butter and less cheese in Canada because of higher butter prices. Officials say Canadians may have to cut down on cheese consumption to keep up the flow to Great Britain.

DENMARK HAS SOAP SHORTAGE: FATS RATIONED

COPENHAGEN, (Via Berlin), Jan. 3—(AP)—National soap rationing has confronted Danish bachelors with the choice between one cake of hand soap monthly or a shaving stick. They can't have both.

Households get about 14 ounces weekly per member, and soap consumption in laundries, barber shops and public baths is cut to 75 per cent of normal. Restaurant consumption has been cut 50 per cent.

Laundries are forbidden to take new customers and housewives are not permitted to increase the quantity of their laundry.

Moreover, the fat content of soap will be decreased from 80 to 60 per cent.

Rationing also is extended in other directions, including butter, which has been fixed at 12 ounces per person weekly—much higher than in most European nations.

Margarine as well as other vegetable and animal fats is becoming scarce and expensive. Restaurant consumption of butter has been cut 55 per cent from pre-war levels.

Anxiety Grows

HALIFAX, Jan. 3.—(CP)—Anxiety over the safety of Thomas S. Tobin, 55-year-old supervisor of the Halifax custom and excise department, mounted last night when searchers returned from the heavily-wooded swampland west of suburban Bedford without finding a trace of the missing man.

CHRISTMAS RUSH

By TOM HORNER

Yesterday: Dr. Connelly pays Sheila's fine, brings the girls home. Martha promises they may go to the party late, if they will remain at home to watch the New Year in. The doctor is called, there's been an accident on the highway, one man killed, another seriously injured after he leaves, the highway patrol calls again, reports one of the cars bears a university license. The car belongs to Valerie Parks.

CHAPTER X

ALL automobile accidents look alike, Hugh Connelly thought, as he left his car, pushed his way through the crowd of morbidly curious who jammed the scene. Traffic blocked for half a mile; flashlight-waving patrol officers, trying to keep cars moving. People jumping from their cars, running up for a close view. A white-faced woman hurrying back to her own sedan. Headlights concentrated on a single, small area. Automobiles twisted into weird, unreal shapes.

He saw the officer who had summoned him. "Hello, Harry. This looks like a bad one."

"Probably never knew what hit him," Hugh said. "How about the others?"

"There's another fellow in a bad way beside the car in the ditch. He was still breathing when I left him."

The flashlight beam flicked over the outlines of a long, expensive coupe. The car seemed strangely familiar. Hugh dismissed the thought as he slipped down the bank, hurried to the injured man. The patrolman's light shone full on a white, blood-smeared face.

"This is my boy," Dr. Connelly said in a tight, strained voice. "This is my son, Jerry."

Valerie saw the doctor at that same instant, rushed toward him, screaming: "It was all his fault! He's wrecked my car—my new car! I'll be scarred for life! He made me drive over here! I didn't want to! Now, he's wrecked my car!"

"Valerie, please," Hugh said quietly. "You're a bit hysterical. Try to calm down, girl."

"That's right!" her voice shrilled. "Look after your own boy. Let me die. I could bleed to death, for all you care."

"Valerie, stop that screaming." Hugh Connelly's voice snapped the command. "Harry, let's have a light." His glance swept over the girl. "You have a scalp wound, but it's stopped bleeding already." The wail of a siren came from the highway. "I'll send you in to the hospital for a thorough check. Harry, take her up to the ambulance; send a stretcher here."

He did not see them go, did not hear Valerie's screamed accusations. He was on his knees in the snow, beside Jerry, listening for a heart beat.

"Jerry! Jerry!" he whispered. "My boy!"

* * *

They brought the stretcher, lifted Jerrry carefully on to it, climbed back to the roadway.

"Is he hurt bad, Doc?" the patrolman asked.

"Concussion, possible skull fracture. Can't say for sure. His arm is broken, may have internal injuries. Pulse is strong. That's a good sign." He waited as a white-clad interne slid the stretcher into place. Valerie was moaning, more quietly now, in a seat near the front.

"I'll go no now, Harry," the doctor said. "Nothing I can do for that other fellow" He started into the ambulance. "Have someone drive my car in."

"But, Doc, there's a man and a woman pretty bad cut up in the farmhouse across the road."

Hugh turned to the interne. "Administer adrenalin if necessary. Get Johnson. Tell him to operate, whether I get there or not. He's in charge."

He did not look back as the ambulance carried Jerry away from him.

Later, in the farmhouse, as he swabbed glass from cuts, he heard the story of the accident. This man and woman were not seriously hurt.

"We were coming down the road behind this big green coupe," the man told him. "The boy wasn't driving fast and he was on his own side of the road.

"Then this other fellow—the one that got killed—came toward us, fast, weaving from side to side. He must have been doing 80 or 90. The boy in the coupe swung off the pavement, but this fellow hit his left front fender.

"That's about all I remember. Next thing I knew this car was rolling over and over toward us and we crashed into it, or it crashed into us, before we could stop. The coupe went off into the ditch.

"My wife and I crawled out—we didn't know we were so cut up then—and we saw there wasn't much to be done for the guy on the highway. We helped get the girl out of the coupe—she kept screaming about her car—and then some other people stopped and made us come over here."

"That's what all the tracks show, Doc" Harry put in. "I checked them myself. It sure wasn't your boy's fault."

The injured man looked at Dr. Connelly in awe. "Is that your boy, Doc? What you doing here, working on us? That boy's bad hurt."

Hugh nodded as he applied a final strip of tape. "There's a surgeon at the hospital to look after Jerry. I wanted to be sure you two were all right, I'm going in now. You and your wife better come along. Give you a complete check, just to make sure we haven't missed any broken bones."

* * *

Martha Connelly stared at the blue-gray walls of the hospital waiting room, trying to keep from screaming. "Oh, Hugh. Why aren't you here? Why didn't you come with him?"

Beside her on the wicker divan, Sheila and Kathleen, still in party formals, clung to her hands. Mary Warde stood beside the door, twisting a handkerchief into a flimsy rag.

Upstairs nurses hurried in and out of the operating room; the surgeon, Johnson, damned all maniac drivers as he scrubbed his hands.

It seemed like hours before Martha heard Hugh's car stop outside, heard his footsteps in the hall. His arms enfolded all of them.

"It may not be as bad as you think," he said, but his words lacked conviction. "I was able to give him only a quick examination out there. Don't jump to conclusions. He's got a few broken bones, but he'll come out of this all right. He's got a stout heart, and that's salf the battle.

"I'll be upstairs while Johnson operates. Let you know how he is just as soon as I can. Don't worry now, Jerry's going to make this—"

Martha, glanced at the clock—3 a.m. A new year only three hours old. And so much had been crammed into the three hours.

It seemed like three years since Kathleen had turned from the phone, told her that Valerie's car was wrecked. Somehow she knew, by some intuition every mother possess, that Jerry was hurt, even before the superintendent of the hospital called. But how seriously was he hurt? Even now she did not know.

She recalled now the bumps and falls Jerry had suffered learning to walk. "Hardhead," Hugh had called his son then, because a bump never seemed to bother him. Would he still be "Hardhead" tonight?

Her thoughts raced on, far outdistancing the crawling minute hand of the office clock.

Finally, as if from a great distance, she heard a nurse saying:

"Will you come upstairs now, Mrs. Connelly. Doctor wants you and the girls to come up."

McKenney On Bridge

By WM. E. McKENNEY, America's Card Authority

As I sat in the club rooms of the Hamilton Bridge Club of Philadelphia, writing this series of articles, my eyes turned to another chart on the wall showing the club indebtedness and how it has declined through the 50-odd years of its existence. While the club has seldom had more than 100 members at one time, the dues are only $12.50 per year and the card fee only 15 cents a rubber.

I was also agreeably surprised to learn that bridge at the Hamilton Club is not played for a stake. A record is kept of the number of points won and lost by each member, and at the end of the year the player with the best average is awarded a prize.

I watched a rubber at the club, and found that even without a stake, players were as careful as those who play for high stakes. Here is one hand that gave me that impression.

On the opening lead, declarer was careful to play low from both hands, letting the queen win. He was also careful to develop the suits in which he lacked aces, before touching the clubs.

He won the second heart lead with the ace and started diamonds.

What To Do

I have a very good friend, a young man, who would love to take me to games and shows and such affairs, but his salary is so small he simply can't. I work, too, and love to go places, but a girl can't very well run around at night by herself. So we sit at home or go to a movie occasionally and both of us feel there should be some way out. Is there?

MARY M.

Answer—Certainly there is a way out—a very sensible way which has been adopted by many young people. When you make your budget allot a certain sum for amusements, then make your plans.

If you want to see some very good show, pool your funds and each pay your own way. If the young man's pride is in danger of being hurt, let him take care of the expenses, taxi, tickets, supper and other arrangements.

This may be easily managed if you give him your share before leaving home. In this day and age when most girls and young men are engaged in work of some type, such a plan as this is perfectly practical and pleasant.

No girl need feel embarrassed in suggesting it, and no young man in accepting it. Just a good comradely partnership.

Canuck Troops In England Have Plenty Of Discipline But Save Show For Parades

By BRIAN A. TOBIN

LONDON, Jan. 3.—(BUP)—Canuck troops have plenty of discipline, but they don't like placing too much emphasis on the outward forms, according to Private Alex Williamson, who came over here nine months ago with a Vancouver infantry unit.

"For instance," he said, "we don't go in much for saluting. The officers are usually glad enough to look the other way on the street because it's worse for them to have to return 10 salutes than for 10 of us to give one. We keep that sort of thing for parade."

"Once I saw an officer coming towards me who had a very pretty girl with him. I decided that this time I would salute him and do the thing up right to make a good show. At the correct moment I snapped a smart and soldierly salute, which he returned. The sidewalk was narrow, and I'm darned if our raised elbows didn't bump and nearly knock us both off our feet."

REAL SCOTSMAN

Tall and hefty, Williamson has a quick grin and a soft burr to his voice that plainly reveals his birthplace. As a teen-age boy he left Scotland just after the last war and moved to Canada with his family.

"I'd have been in the first bunch if I'd known a day earlier about the war," Alex said.

It was november before he got back to Vancouver and several months more before he was able to join his chosen unit. In the meantime he worked for a Vancouver bakery.

"We certainly can't complain about our reception over here, but the fellows would like to go where there is some action," the young Scot told me in a restaurant where I met him while he was enjoying a London leave. "After all, that's what we came over for."

GET LOTS OF TRAINING

"Of course, we're getting lots of training. We do day and night manouvres both on attack and defence, and there are other jobs as well. Our big disappointment was when orders to go to France were cancelled. That was just before Dunkirk."

"They took away truck-loads of personal possessions that the fellows discarded when the marching orders came. Extra clothing, souvenirs and private treasures were thrown away to lighten kit. Some lads sold things for a fraction of their value. Next morning we learned we weren't to move at all. That was a glum day."

It seems the young citizen-soldiers from Canada like to figure things out for themselves. They are inclined to mistrust news if it has too much propaganda in it. "Tell us the worst, then we know where we stand," conveys the general idea.

FOOD IS PLENTIFUL

Canada's fighting men do not need to be nursed along with good news to keep up their spirits. Their own health and vigor look after that. All they want is to be told what's needed and they'll do the rest. For Canada's army is predominantly youthful, with intelligence and enterprise. Never before have military directors had better material to work with; never before have the demands of mechanized warfare made such individual initiative more necessary.

"Army food is plentiful and nourishing," Alex told me, "but it gets pretty monotonous for some of us."

"At that," he added, grinning, "I find I've been putting on weight."

"Usually for breakfast we have cereal, bacon and a potato, bread and butter and tea or coffee. Lunch is based on soup and sandwiches and for supper we have stew or hamburger. It's nice to get away for a while and enjoy a change of diet."

Looking at Alex's healthy face and husky figure, it didn't seem that food had become a problem for him. The big question at the moment, as a matter of fact, was whether his mother in Weyburn, Sask., got the Christmas gift he chose for her from one of London's great stores.

War Prisoner In Germany Fails To Get Parcels

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Jan. 3—(CP)—Letters written by PO. Robert Willis of St. Thomas, member of the Royal Air Force, from a German prison camp last Oct. 16 and 18, reached his parents here Thursday and informed them he had not received any of numerous parcels of food they had sent him.

Willis wrote that he was in good health but was short on clothing. He was interned after his plane was forced down early last fall.

Greece's Forces Holding Initiative On Every Front

SOMEWHERE ON THE SOUTHERN ALBANIAN FRONT, Jan. 3.—(AP)—A United States army observer said Thursday Greek troops hold the initiative on every front he visited during a week's tour of the southern Albanian sector.

"Their fighting spirit is superb," said Maj. Thomas T. Craw of the United States army air corps who arrived here yesterday.

U.S. CONGRESS URGED TO ACT IN WAR HELP

Open Letter Signed By Americans, Asks For Effective Aid

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The "mobilization of America for war—a war in which we may be fortunate enough not to sacrifice our blood if we do sacrifice freely of our wealth and work with unflagging energy," was urged Thursday in an open letter to the United States congress signed by 53 persons.

Many of the signatories joined in a recently round-robin telegram to President Roosevelt urging him to take any steps necessary to defeat the axis powers.

"We believe the axis powers will be defeated if we, the people of the United States do our part—if we give prompt and effective aid to those countries which are now holding the axis tyrants at bay," the letter said.

"SINGLE-MINDED PURPOSE"

"This does not mean selling them war materials so long as they can pay for them and so long as it is convenient and profitable for us to produce them," it added. "It means turning our whole productive resources and ingenuity whole heartedly over to one single-minded purpose."

The letter said that the signers, acting as private citizens and speaking only for themselves, "can not express an opinion as to the specific measures to be taken."

"We are mindful of the risks involved," the letter said. "We believe that these risks must be taken in order to avoid the greater danger of an Axis victory."

PROMINENT SIGNERS

Among the singers were Lewis W. Douglas, former director of the budget, and former principal of McGill University, and Dr. James B. Conant, president of Harvard University, who were the instigators of the round-robin telegram.

Other letter signers included Franklin P. Adams, newspaper columnist; E. R. Harriman, New York banker; Herbert Agar, Louisville, Ky., newspaper editor; William M. Jeffers, president of the Union Pacific Railroad; James P. Warburg, author and economist; Alexander Woollcott, writer; and Robert E. Sherwood, playwright.

Price Index In Denmark Is Up: Production Low

COPENHAGEN, (via Berlin) Jan. 3.—(AP)—Wholesale prices in Denmark have risen more than 70 per cent since the outbreak of the war, government figures disclosed Thursday.

On the basis of 1935 prices as 100, the government index stood at 111 in August, 1939, and reached 190 last month.

Curtailed opportunities for investment of capital have caused a huge increase in bank deposits.

The decline in agriculture is marked. Using the index of 1935 as basis, milk production now is 69, egg production is 44 and pork is 86.

The number of farms has decreased substantially through forced auctions.

There now are 130,000 unemployed, compared with 118,000 in December, 1939.

Freed Lifer

Lonnie Jenkins is shown with his 21-year-old daughter, Mrs. Helen Drake, after he was ruled a free man. Jenkins served nine years of a life term for the slaying of his wife on the testimony of a 17-year old girl who claimed that she wrote a suicide note, found by Mrs. Jenkins' body, at his dictation. Five years ago Mrs. Drake brought the note to the attention of the federal bureau of investigation where experts determined that the note was in the dead woman's handwriting.

INTERNATIONAL LABOR OFFICE STAFF SHRINKS

MONTREAL, Jan. 3.—(CP)—The war has cut deeply into the headquarters staff of the International Labor Organization, the League of Nations unit which moved to Montreal from Switzerland last summer.

An official disclosed Thursday that the head office staff here now consists of approximately 50 employees, compared with 450 members in Geneva at the outbreak of war.

He explained, however, that the reduction in headquarters staff did not mean that the organization's services had been impaired. When it was decided to transfer to Montreal, many staff members were sent back to their homelands, to continue activities there, while others were transferred to various organization offices. Some, however, had been mobilized.

The I.L.O. decided to move its central offices to this continent, the official said, because in Switzerland the organization was almost "hemmed in" by warring nations and communications became increasingly difficult. The headquarters were brought here at the invitation of McGill University and with the approval of the Canadian government.

The organization membership now stands at 45 states, against 53 at the outbreak of war. Nazi-occupied countries of Europe still are considered as members, though on a nominal basis.

News Broadcast To Men Overseas Starts Saturday

OTTAWA, Jan. 3—(CP)—The Canadian War Services announced Thursday a weekly half-hour broadcast of news to Canadian troops overseas will be started Jan. 4.

Programs will be made up of and will contain messages from news from all parts of the Dominion parents, wives and sweethearts, the Legion said. Much of the news to be broadcast will be of local interest, not sufficiently important to be cabled to the United Kingdom.

The broadcasts will be recorded a few days in advance and the records shipped by air mail to Boston for transmission by short wave in the Wide World Broadcasting Foundation's Boston station.

Britain Is Still Democracy Despite Fact Many Liberties Given Up For War Duration

OTTAWA, Jan. 3.—(CP)—While war conditions have led the British people to give up some of their cherished liberties it is erroneous to conclude that Great Britain is no longer a democracy, Air Chief Marshal Sir Hugh Dowding said Thursday in a speech to the Canadian Club. Among his listeners were the Governor-General and Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

"There is all the difference in the world between a voluntary surrender of liberties in order that the war may be prosecuted successfully and the restrictions and hardships imposed on a reluctant people by a dictator and his mermidons," he said.

He made the remark in discussing the spirit of the British people and conditions of living in the air raid zone. Some persons, he said, felt there was little difference between conditions in Great Britain and those in Germany and the Germans had described Prime Minister Churchill as a dictator.

LAUDS CHURCHILL

"I would say Mr. Churchill is the true interpreter of the nation and its wishes," he said, "far from the German view that he is a dictator imposing his will on the people it is the iron will of the nation which is imposed on Mr. Churchill. The nation would not permit him to weaken even if he wished to."

There was something "indescribably pathetic and sordid" about air raid damage, said Sir Hugh. A neat little workman's house when hit by a bomb became a mere shell. What was left was covered with dust and dirt. Children's clothes were left hanging on rafters.

The British people were enduring such things and were determined to suffer anything in order that a victorious end to the war should come at the earliest moment.

Only one who had experienced it could appreciate the feeling of release which came to a person on arriving in Canada after living under the restrictions and inconveniences of wartime Great Britain, said Sir Hugh. Yet it was curious that there was no feeling of intolerable restriction while there.

"This war is national in the most comprehensive sense," he said. "It is a national war and a domestic war. It permeates everyone's existence."

PILOT FLIES SKELETON OF PLANE HOME

Interior Of Machine Is Wrecked By Explosion Over Cologne

By HAROLD FAIR

LONDON, Jan. 3.—(CP)—Set off by an anti-aircraft shell which scored a "near miss," a huge flare exploded in a British bomber over Cologne and left the interior like a derelict workshop. But the pilot brought the aircraft home safely after bombing the Cologne goods yards.

The feat was accomplished although all the skin and ribs had been blown off one side of the fuselage, the other side left rivetless by the blast and the plane tail had been practically cut off.

As the wireless operator prepared to drop the big flare, the ground defences opened up and there was a blinding explosion from the front of the plane when the shell went off. Part of the front turret was blown away and there was another terrific explosion in the fuselage.

FILLED WITH SMOKE

"The explosion hurled the control column out of my hand and the cabin filled with dense smoke," the pilot related. "I remember asking the bomb-aimer if we had dropped his bombs but the only answer I got was 'I've been hit.'

"Very soon the smoke cleared a little and to my amazement I saw that not only were the engines still there, but they were both running. Then the bomb-aimer came up through the well, his face streaming with oil."

Flames licked through the door beneath the gas tank and the pilot shouted to the crew to put them out but they had started that before hearing him.

A littl later the pilot saw the wireless operator coming through the door, flames curling around him. The bomb-aimer beat out the fire on the operator's suit.

DROPPED BOMBS

"The cabin cleared of smoke and things seemed to be fairly all right except that the aircraft was flying in an erratic sort of way," the pilot said. "Back on the body of the machine the crew were working frantically to get rid of the incendiaries and anything that might explode. We carried on in this state and dropped our bombs."

Then the wireless operator collapsed, telling the pilot he was going blind. His face was burned black. As soon as the burns were attended to, he clambered to his wireless set and started to send out messages, the rear gunner guiding his hands to the key. For 40 minutes the operator tried in vain but the aerial had been shot away and nothing got through.

Emerging from the anti-aircraft fire, the crew had a chance to survey the damage. The front turret was holed, both of the plane doors were gone and there was a 10-foot hole in the fuselage.

FIVE HOUR TRIP

It took five hours to make the homeward journey as they had to buck an 80-mile headwind.

"All those hours the wireless operator made no moan or complaint although he was suffering from the intense cold as well as from his burns," the pilot said. "When we told him we would land at the nearest airdrome he begged that we should go the extra 100 miles so that we could get back to our friends and let them see that we were safe."

City Minister States Policy Of His Church

Request that they be allowed to serve in non-combatant positions in Canada's war effort has been received by Rev. T. Johnstone, minister of the Edmonton Pentecostal Tabernacle from members classed as "conscientious objectors", it was stated here Thursday. No general request has been made that members be exempted from bearing arms.

Rev. Mr. Johnstone was clarifying the position of the Pentecostal church before the Alberta War Services Board when he appeared on request of the board, in connection with the stand to be taken by his church. He said that some of the members have strong conscientious objections to bearing arms for the shedding of human blood, although he pointed out that many members of the church are at present serving in the fighting forces.

It was said that no general action has been taken by general headquarters of the church in Toronto.

Northern Atlantic Air Service To Be Resumed In Spring

LONDON, Jan. 3.—(CP)—North Atlantic air service will be resumed in the spring, it was learned authoritatively today.

It is understood that some, and possibly all three, of the Clippers the British government recently bought from Pan-American Airways will be used, in addition to the Clyde and the Clare which made 10 crossings last summer.

Resumption of North Atlantic service will relieve congestion on Pan-American's southern route, speeding up air mail service between Britain and Canada and United States.

Re-Enters Films

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Shirley Temple says she finds school "kinda dull"—so she's going back into pictures at $2,500 a week. Shirley, her parents and attorney appeared in court Thursday for approval of a contract to play opposite Mickey Rooney in a new series of Andy Hardy pictures.
